'Must Teach Reds Lesson,' Hearing Told

Policy Defended By Rusk

RUSK
. . . answers critics

WASHINGTON (UPI)—U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk told critical senators today that the fighting in Viet Nam is vital to show that the United States keeps its pledges and to teach the Chinese Reds that "they cannot redraw the boundaries of the world by force."

Testifying before the senate foreign relations committee in defence of adminisration policies, Rusk declared: "What we face in Viet Nam is what we have faced on many occasions before—the need to check the extension of Communist power in order to maintain a reasonable stability in a precarious world."

He also pointedly recalled that when the Southeast Asian Treaty Organization (SEATO) pact was ratified in 1954, all members of the committee who were senators at that time endorsed it.

Rusk declared that the "far-reaching implications of this commitment were well understood" when the senate ratified the SEATO treaty by an 82-1 vote.

The U.S. fight against the Communists in Viet Nam has worldwide implications, Rusk declared, because "we must make clear that the U.S. keeps its word wherever it is pledged."

'SIMPLE POINTS'

At another point, he commented that the Chinese Communists and other Red regimes such as North Viet Nam "must learn that they cannot redraw the boundaries of the world by force."

This was one of five "simple points" which Rusk said "are at the heart of the problem, and at the heart of the U.S. policy in South Viet Nam."

The others he listed in his 6,000-word opening statement were:

- "The elementary fact is that there is an aggression in

HAMILTON FIRE CLAIMS 5 CHILDREN

HAMILTON (CP) — Five children from two families died in a fire that destroyed their two-storey frame house early today. Dead in one family are Stanley Thatcher, 14, and his brother Steven, 9, and in the other family Kevin Paul, 11, his sister, Tracy, 6, and brother, Matthew, 3. All five died in their bedrooms on the second floor of the house.

Two Thatcher children escaped the fire. Ron Thatcher, 19, and his sister, Nancy, 16, leaped from second-floor windows to the street below.

'BLOOD MONEY'

Ship Boycott Threatened

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — AFL-CIO maritime unions told President Johnson today they will boycott ships of all foreign countries trading with the North Vietnamese.

In a telegram to Johnson, union officials said "trade with North Viet Nam puts blood money in the pocket of ship owners and other profiteers of so-called Allied nations."

The telegram added that "we believe the time for pussyfooting is long past," and said:

"We must inform you, therefore, very soon our members will begin to demonstrate their protests on all waterfronts in this country directed against any and all ships of those nations which permit trade with North Viet Nam."

HIT MANY NATIONS

The boycott, spokesmen for the AFL-CIO maritime trades department said, will affect hundreds of foreign vessels from countries including Britain, Norway, Sweden, Denmark, France Italy and Egypt.

The boycott will be imposed by refusing to load any such vessel entering U.S. ports.

The telegram to Johnson was signed by Paul Hall, maritime trades department president; president Thomas W. Gleason of the International Longshoremen's Association, and president Joseph Curran of the National Maritime Union.

GOT NO REPLY

A union spokesman said the telegram to Johnson made public today actually was sent to the White House last Monday and that there had been no reply.

Hall said the boycott will be imposed unless the U.S. government takes up the matter with "so-called allied nations" and stops them from trading with North Viet Nam.

Hall said the unions will call a meeting in Washington within a few weeks and that if the government has done "nothing effective" by then the boycott will begin.

Hall said the current U.S. Senate inquiry into Johnson's policies in Viet Nam is "completely irresponsible" and that the unions' proposed boycott is an effort to act responsibly to back up the U.S. war effort.

WIRE BRIEFS

Shakeup Coming

SAIGON (Reuters) — South Viet Nam's ruling generals will announce major government changes during the next few days in a bid to step up the non-military effort to win the war, informed government sources said today.

Firemen Killed

NORWICH, Eng. (Reuters) —Three firemen have died in a blaze still raging through a top secret underground radar bunker near here early today—more than 36 hours after it stared.

Hectic Plane Ride

MONTREAL (CP) — A 24-year-old university student safely landed a single-engine Cessna plane at Cartierville Airport early today after a hectic 90-minute joy ride over Montreal rooftops and power lines. Police reported the plane almost crashed at least twice as its pilot attempted several street landings in the city.

Attaches Walk Out

MOSCOW (UPI) — Three U.S. military attaches today staged a walkout at a news conference when a Soviet general denounced the United States as "aggressors" in Viet Nam.

Get-Tough Move Against Unions Hints U.K. Vote

LONDON (Reuters) — Renewed speculation that Prime Minister Wilson is preparing for a general election in March swept Britain today.

The view held in political quarters is that he will settle for March 31. Conservative Leader Edward Heath Thursday night warned his supporters to be prepared for an election on that date.

Political observers felt Wilson was likely to name the day next Tuesday after a visit to Moscow.

Several British newspapers today saw another strong election clue in Thursday's announcement by Herbert Bowden, the ruling Labor party leader in the House of Commons, that the government will stage a debate on social services next week.

The Daily Mirror described it as the government's "first clear sign that they are thinking of an early election."

Bowden also said a bill aimed at enforcing advance warning of union wage demands will be published next week.

TWO EFFECTS SEEN

Political observers said this will have the twin effect of demonstrating to international economists that the government is determined to tackle the country's basic economic problems—and taking advantage of a current "get tough with the union" mood among voters.

Other new pointers that the Labor government soon ill seek an election after struggling for 17 months with only a tiny parliamentary voting margin are:

1. Announcement today of details of potential vote-winning legislation by the government aimed at easing conditions for people who own houses but not the land they stand on.
2. The annual defence review, expected to reveal cuts to Britain's current £2,100,000,000 ($6,300,000,000) defence budget, will be published Tuesday.

TERRORISM in Santo Domingo must come to an end and anyone opposing this view will be deported, President Garcia-Godoy declared today. He says the terrorists, both right and left wing, are well known and peace in the capital of the Dominican Republic must be restored. See story Page 3.

INTO SOUTH

Ho Troops Hike Infiltration Rate

SAIGON (Reuters)—The number of North Vietnamese regular army troops infiltrated into South Viet Nam has grown to 4,500 a month, U.S. military spokesman said today.

He said the rate of infiltration has been stepped up. In January about 4,000 came in.

Latest intelligence reports place the combined strength of Viet Cong guerrillas and North Vietnamese regulars at 237,000—a total outnumbered more than three to one by South Vietnamese, U.S. and other allied troops.

South Vietnamese regular and para-military forces now total about 550,000, and the U.S. has 205,000. Other allies — largely South Koreans but also including more than 1,000 Australians and a smaller number of New Zealanders—total about 24,000.

The spokesman said the 20,000 North Vietnamese troops are concentrated in the northern half of South Viet Nam, in the central highland and lowland provinces.

As the figures of Viet Cong strength were announced U.S. troops continued patrols around coastal Tuy Hoa province, 230 miles north of Saigon, where they are guarding farmers bringing in a rice crop that has been allowed to go to the Viet Cong in recent years.

Sixty per cent of the harvest —30,000 tons — now has been gathered, a U.S. spokesman said.

The Viet Cong continued to strike at the farmers with mines which killed more than 40 harvest hands during the last week. In one incident Thursday a mine blew up both a farmer and his horse.

CHOPPERS CRASH

Two helicopter crashes within the last 24 hours took the lives of seven Americans. An eighth American died when he threw himself on a Viet Cong grenade.

The soldier died when a Viet Cong company attacked a small unit 25 miles west of Saigon.

In the bombing of North Viet Nam, a spokesman said U.S. planes hit the air base at Dien Bien Phu, west of Hanoi, for the third straight day.

Bennett Demanding Probe Of Tight Money Market

Premier Bennett said Thursday he will investigate through Prime Minister Pearson an eastern Canada controlled "tight money policy" which is hurting the B.C. forest industry.

The premier made the statement after Lands and Forests Minister R. G. Williston revealed in the Legislature that Mr. Bennett had already written to Bank of Canada Governor Louis Rasminsky about the problem.

Premier Bennett did not reveal Mr. Rasminsky's reply, but added: "I am now going further, to take it up with the prime minister.

Mr. Williston earlier said in the Legislature that a heavy demand for wood material suitable for pulp has affected every aspect of the forest industry and the necessary finance for capital, maintenance and inventory has strained credit facilities.

More than $300 million was spent in 1965 on the two items, he said.

"Eastern-controlled tight money has failed to recognize the changing conditions in the forest industry.

"Pulp mills operate throughout the year and wood inventories must be maintained at much higher levels than for a sawmill economy.

"The developing integration of

RED MISSILES 'INVULNERABLE'

MOSCOW (AP)—A high-ranking Soviet officer said today that Russia has invulnerable missiles with a world range range and because of its might canot be intimidated by the United States.

Gen. Pavel Batitsky, first deputy chief of staff of the Soviet Army, told a press conference that not only are the missiles invulnerable to interventors but their "precise accuracy" has been proven by Pacific tests last year.

"No, no, Mr. McNamara, we cannot be intimidated," Batitsky said.

Batitsky said he was referring to U.S. Defence Secretary Robert McNamara's statement before the House of Representatives armed services subcommittee in Washington last month.

The defence secretary said the U.S. strategic missile force recommended for the 1967-71 period will provide "substantially more force than is required for an assured destruction capability against both the Soviet Union and Communist China."

Batitsky asserted that "the Soviet armed forces have everything necessary to cool off any military gamblers."

RESOURCE-RICH B.C. BURSTING AT THE SEAMS

Link to Island May Not Be a Pipedream!

By AB KENT

B.C.'s awakening north can trigger the mainland railway link for which Vancouver Island has yearned 100 years.

If the Federal government won't do it—and so honor a 95-year-old Term of Union agreement with B.C. — then Premier Bennett may be the one to act.

There are those who think the canny premier cherishes a railway bridge via Bute Inlet and Seymour Narrows as a powerful bargaining point in his dealings with Ottawa.

It is felt that any premier who can lend Quebec $100 million; produce a ferry fleet almost out of his hat; quash all opposition to his two-river development policy to build the biggest hydro-electric plant in the Western World, can extend a railway from the interior without much trouble.

When the Peace and Prince George country roar with forest, mineral and allied industries fostered by Peace River hydro power, a new link to the seaports of Vancouver Island may be not only desirable but necessary.

Characteristically, the premier admits nothing.

He was asked what he thought of the idea of a link with the mainland—either rail or highway.

"Not much," was his quick reply.

"Years and years in the future," Mr. Bennett said.

Pressing Needs

"There are other more pressing needs to be fulfilled in the immediate future. Human betterment, education, social welfare—these are the things we are concerned with now."

But in resource-rich B.C. he also is fathering one of the continent's greatest economic expansions.

Seven new pulp mills are started or planned in the area between Prince George and Bute Inlet alone.

There is a treasurehouse of untapped hydro power from glacier-fed lakes and rivers in the interlocking Coast Range.

Lying almost at the foot of 13,260-foot Mount Waddington and 11,500-foot Mount Munday their reservoir capacity can be considered everlasting.

One estimate puts the potential of the Talyoko Lake system at 1½ million horsepower, virtually at the head of Bute Inlet.

What an inducement to industry — like Alcan's smelter at Kitimat, although the aluminum company built its own hydro facilities using the Nechako River system.

With the added convenience of railway and deepsea shipping access, both within a few hours' rail travel of Victoria and Prince George, the possibilities seem irresistible.

From the head of Bute Inlet the partly surveyed road leads about 175 miles almost directly to Alexandria, a point on Mr. Bennett's own Pacific Great Eastern Railway, on the mainstream of the Fraser, a hop-step from the Canadian National line at Prince George.

From there the tracks lead through mining, ranching and forest land; south to Vancouver and east to the fabulous Peace country straddling B.C.

BRISTOL, Eng.—George Hodges, 42, says he has learned the hard way that a girl's age is no joking matter.

It happened, he said, at a wedding party. He asked Sylvia Hallett her age and she said 25. Hodges suggested she looked nearer 45. That's how it started.

Miss Hallett, who is in fact 19, was charged in court with causing damage of £81 9s ($244) to furniture and windows in an attack on Hodges.

"I just had to express myself," she said.

Miss Hallett admitted breaking the windows but testified that others at the party did some of the throwing.

Hodges, who suffered a bruised nose and torn coat, testified that his remark about her age was meant only as a joke.

The court fined Miss Hallett £5 ($15) plus costs.

SAN FRANCISCO—Superior Court Judge Neubarth received a delayed Valentine Thursday from 45 San Quintin prison convicts who identified themselves as tenants of "Neubarth Alley."

The convicts' card was eight by ten inches and decorated with love birds, horseshoes and words "cops" and "robbers." Its salute to the judge went: "He gave us all security . . . when he banged his gavel down . . . and dumped us in this bide-a-wee . . . in old repressa town."

GOSFIELD, Eng.—Bernard Brooks says he's not a spy, has never seen Russia, with love or without, and will the police please go away.

The trouble is his car number—007. Brooks says wherever he goes police chase him, stop him and want to know why.

"The whole thing is becoming a bit of a nuisance," said Brooks.

"When I got the car there was no special significance attached to 007.

"It's just that 00 is Essex county's registration code and it was a pure coincidence that I got a 7 to go with it."

Brooks added that he has never read a James Bond novel or seen a James Bond movie and his car is an E-type Jaguar. Bond, special agent 007 in the Ian Fleming thrillers, drives an Astin Martin.

MOSCOW—Western wine, western-style women and a Ford car led to the downfall of Yury Sevidov, former star forward for Moscow Spartak soccer team, a Moscow newspaper says.

Sevidov has just gone on trial for drunken driving and manslaughter.

Not long ago he was close to selection for the Soviet national team. He was one of several soccer players banned for life last October.

KITCHENER, Ont.—The 21st item on Kitchener council's petty cash account was a set of billiard balls costing $16.46.

"Could somebody explain who has the table?" said Ald. Robert Wagner.

City treasurer R. V. Eby cleared the air and said plumbing inspectors bought the balls to test ventilators in new construction.

He said the balls are lowered into the ventilating systems to make sure they are clear of obstruction.

Chairman Refuses Resignation

A member of North Saanich and Sidney fire protection committee submitted his resignation Thursday night, and had it handed back by Sidney village chairman Arthur Freeman.

The resignation came from W. W. Gardner, Sidney village commissioner, who had been a member of the joint committee since Jan. 1.

It was refused "because it was a public works committee meeting and we had an agenda to follow," said the chairman.

The letter of resignation from the committee was the second in two weeks.

Mr. Gardner proffered his resignation from the committee because "I felt I couldn't do any more on it," he said.

He will meet Mr. Freeman today to discuss the matter further.

Indonesian Red Plans Defence

JAKARTA (Reuters) — The prosecution has demanded the death penalty for top Indonesian Communist leader Njono, on trial here for treason in connection with last October's abortive coup, informed sources said today.

They said the demand was made Thursday night during the prosecution's two - hour closing address to the special military tribunal trying the former chairman of the Communist-dominated Federation of Unions.

Njono was captured shortly after the Oct. 1 coup attempt and was accused by the army of being one of the plot's leaders.

The tribunal gave the defence 32 hours to prepare its case and adjourned the trial until Saturday.

Bennett's Protest Studied by Ottawa

OTTAWA (CP)—The federal government is considering a letter from Premier Bennett of British Columbia objecting to recent changes in shipbuilding subsidies, the Commons was told Thursday night.

Transport Minister Pickersgill said Prime Minister Pearson has received Premier Bennett's letter criticizing cancellation of federal subsidies for the construction of provincially-owned vessels.

The change was announced last month, along with a cut in ship-building subsidies to 25 per cent from 35.

The B.C. government owns a fleet of ferries and Premier Bennett has threatened to place future ship orders with Japanese shipyards unless federal subsidies are restored.

Mr. Pickersgill was questioned on the issue by Tom Barnett (NDP — Comox - Alberni) during discussion of transport department estimates.

AFTER MEETINGS WITH THANT, GOLDBERG

Martin Hopeful ICC Can Bridge Peace Gap

By BORIS MISKEW

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—External Affairs Minister Martin said today that the International Control Commission may be useful in bridging the gap between the United Nations and the Geneva conference in the attempts to bring peace to Viet Nam.

Martin said following separate meetings Thursday night with UN Secretary-General U Thant and U.S. Ambassador Arthur Goldberg that Canada "would fully support" any role the commission might be called on to play in helping to reach a Vietnamese settlement.

"But I don't want to make a final judgment until I get the views of the other members of the commission," Martin said in an interview prior to his departure to Washington.

The three - nation commission is made up of Canada, Poland and India. It was established in 1954 when the Geneva agreements were signed leading to the departure of French forces from Indochina.

The primary role of the commission was to supervise free elections aimed at the reunification of Viet Nam following the country's partition under the Geneva agreements. However, the elections never took place.

Martin plans to meet with U.S. officials in Washington to discuss such items as President Johnson's economic guidelines to keep U.S. capital at home and to confer Saturday with U.S. State Secretary Dean Rusk on the Vietnamese crisis.

"I'm encouraged with the attitude of Secretary - General U Thant and with my talks with Ambassador Goldberg," the external affairs minister said.

"I'm also encouraged with the possibility of a role for the commission in the Vietnamese situation."

SHAKEUP PROMISED

Oust Anyone To End Riots

SANTO DOMINGO (AP)—President Hector Garcia-Godoy warned Thursday night that he will deport extremists — both left and right — if necessary to end terrorism in the sorely beset Dominican Republic.

The president, whose provisional government was pushed close to collapse by eight days of violence and general strike, said he also plans a thorough governmental shakeup to counter his critics' charges of political partiality.

He emphasized in an interview that he considers persuasion an ineffective weapon against disorder and that muscle will be applied hereafter against all persons "regardless of who they are."

With the end of the general strike Thursday, terrorism began subsiding in the battered Dominican capital. Two bombs exploded Thursday, and one killed a child. It was the 21st death since police fired on a crowd of demonstrators Feb. 9 and touched off the wave of violence.

Although the Communists were accused of trying to keep the violence alive, incidents in the last 24 hours exposed the participation of right wing extremists.

Well known affiliates of ultra-conservative political parties were reported involved in at least three attempts to force small shopkeepers in the northern part of the city to close down.

Garcia-Godoy said the terrorist extremists are "well known as they always have been" to the authorities.

"I would do everything possible to avoid deportations," he said, "but there is a supreme interest in the country, and that is to carry out honest elections."

He said all legal avenues would be exhausted before resorting to extreme measures to enforce the law.

The president gave no indication of steps he will take to make good on his pledge in a speech Wednesday night that the commanders of the army and the air force would leave the country for assignments abroad.

The removal of the two commanders was the prime objective of the general strike, and it was called off after the president's speech. The two men—generals Jacinto Martinez Arana and Juan de los Santos Cespedes—had been scheduled to go, under a compromise Garcia-Godoy worked out removing the top military leaders of both the armed forces and the April revolution from the scene. But only the rebels and the armed forces minister, Commodor Francisco J. Rivera Caminero, complied.

and Alberta, to the mines in North West Territories, to the grain fields, the oil and potash of the Prairies.

It is hard not to make the rail link sound too good.

But it is a curious fact that much of this vast development was felt to be imminent 100 years ago, when there was only a fraction of the population required to sustain such progress. Today it is here.

One of the earliest references to Seymour Narrows crossing via rail bridges was in the journal of HMS Sparrowhawk in 1870. A CPR extension at that point was thought feasible.

Surveys

Two years later there were mainland surveys for alternative road beds heading east, northeast and south of Waddington Bay at the head of Bute.

In 1873, civil engineer Joseph Hunter in company with a Mr. Michaud surveyed the Narrows and recommended a crossing to start at 2,700-foot Euclataw Rapids.

Writing in Victoria in 1906 as Homer Hilton, Hunter said:

"Let the board of trade be advised to clean its slate of all side issues or alternatives and stand for a continuous rail from mainland to island—the only undertaking worthy of the paramount interests involved and the great age in which we live."

But in 1874 federal engineer Sandford Fleming reported Seymour as the connecting point for the transcontinental railroad.

Committee

In 1895 the B.C. legislature made a survey of the Narrows and in 1910 an Island-wide committee was formed to consider a bridge.

In 1906 civil engineer H. P. Bell reported to the minister of railways that a railway from the head of Bute Inlet to Comox via Seymour Narrows would cost $25.4 million, including tunnelling on the 40-mile mainland stretch following the inlet.

Today's most vocal champion of the route is ex-mayor of Victoria Claude Harrison, who in 1955 submitted a brief to the royal commission on transportation.

"It is a thoroughly feasible plan," he said this week.

In 1958 he helped Vancouver Island Ratepayers' Association pass a resolution pressing the B.C. government to get a bridge over the Narrows, using the then 87-year-old Term of Union that put the onus on the federal government.

Four months earlier, Mayor Percy Scurrah said the federal government could afford to build a causeway for 150,000 people on the south end of Vancouver Island if it could throw one across Northumberland Strait for 98,000 Prince Edward Islanders.

For more than 50 years, Victoria and Vancouver Island ports have been logical jumping-off places to the Orient and South Pacific.

Nootka Sound, little more than up the Campbell Lakes from Seymour Narrows, opens virtually at the door to Japan, with clear approaches from the sea.

Safe Approach

Spanish and English navigators made it their headquarters in the days of exploration.

Juan de Fuca Strait also affords safe, deep water approach to Victoria and Esquimalt harbors within about four hours of the open Pacific

A mariner named Capt. Devereaux near the turn of the century called Juan de Fuca "one of the finest of all waterways." He said:

"Victoria regarded from the standpoint of ocean-going ships is more favorably situated than any harbor further within the inland waters can possibly be."

Yet the end of steel remains at Burrard Inlet, not because of any insurmountable difficulty in extending it to the Island, as editor Charles H. Lugrin said in 1909.

He said it was left there because the traffic was light and that was the cheapest way of terminating the line.

the form of an armed attack by North Viet Nam against South Viet Nam.

- "The U.S. has commitments to assist South Viet Nam repel this aggression.
- "Our commitments to South Viet Nam were not taken in isolation but are part of a systematic effort in the postwar period to assure a stable peace . . .
- "No nation is more interested in peace in Southeast Asia or elsewhere than is the U.S. If the armed attack against South Viet Nam is brought to an end, peace can come very quickly. Every channel or forum for contact, discussion or negotiation will remain active in order that no possibility for peace will be overlooked."

PLEDGE OVERLOOKED

Rusk contended that critics of President Johnson's policy overlook the point of the U.S. pledge to South Viet Nam when they contend the administration is following a "static and sterile" course which ignores international facts of life.

On the committee were a number of critics, including chairman J. William Fulbright (D—Ark.).

As he concluded his formal statement, Fulbright indicated heavy questioning ahead when he commented: "I wish these things appeared as simple to me as they do to you. I'm sure it's my own obtuseness."

Rusk said the U.S. remains ready to talk peace on honorable terms once Hanoi realizes that "a political solution is the proper course."

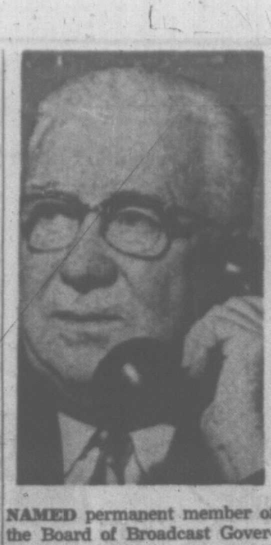
MATTER OF HOURS

"If that regime were prepared to call off the aggression in the south, peace would come in almost a matter of hours," he declared.

Rusk quoted from communist documents of 1960 and 1961 to support his argument that the National Liberation Front, the political arm of the Viet Cong, is "a communist front organization intended to give support to the deliberate fiction that the war in Viet Nam is an indigenous revolt."

"The individuals proclaimed as leaders of the front are not personalities widely known to the Vietnamese people, either in the north or in the south. To suggest that they represent the aspirations of the Vietnamese people is absurd."

Rusk urged that if the U.S. stands firm in Asia, Red China and its allies eventually will go through the same phases as the Soviet Union — a change from militant objectives to peaceful competition.



NAMED permanent member of the Board of Broadcast Governors in Ottawa today was David Sim, retired minister of revenue. Another appointment was Pierre Juneau, a National Film Board official.

pulp mills and saw mills in the interior demands that operations proceed on a year-round basis.

"This cannot be done without expanded inventories which means increased credit."

Mr. Williston said Premier Bennett had asked that the Bank of Canada review the credit situation in a "realistic and sympathetic manner."

"A British Columbia based bank with policies geared to requirements cannot be established too soon," said the minister.

He reported that total revenue from wood products was up more than $5 million in 1965 for a total of $47.5 million.

"The total worth of manufactured wood products was $980 million."

Mr. Williston said a difficult fire season was experienced, but the most serious disease problem involves control of the balsam woolly aphid in the coastal area.

He said B.C. forests were extremely susceptible because of the large percentage of balsam.

The only method of controlling it now is to take the trees out, he said, but a study is currently underway which may offer different, less costly, methods of control.

Killer Gets Life

RED DEER (CP) — Robert Billyard, 18, formerly of Dunnville, Ont., Thursday was sentenced to life imprisonment on a reduced charge of non-capital murder in the killing of a small boy.

Billyard was charged last Sept. 18 after the body of six-year-old Michael Clancy of Red Deer was found in a deserted city alley.

VANCOUVER BOOM

Port Projects Await Studies

VANCOUVER (CP)—Studies being conducted on the federal and provincial levels could lead to huge new port developments in at least four areas of the B.C. lower mainland, it was learned Thursday.

Federal and provincial officials say the results of the studies could mean new piers for Vancouver harbor and vast port development at the mouth of the Fraser River; at Squamish, 40 miles north of here on Howe Sound; and at Boundary Bay to the south.

Howard Mann, chairman of the National Harbors Board, confirmed in Ottawa Thursday that the board is studying plans for more than one new dock in Vancouver Harbor, but he declined to say how many or name a location.

And in Victoria Trade Minister Ralph Loffmark said the crown-operated Pacific Great Eastern Railway and B.C. Hydro and Power Commission are conducting engineering surveys jointly with the provincial government on port prospects at Squamish, Boundary Bay and Sturgeon Bank at the mouth of the Fraser.

BULK CARRIERS

Mr. Loffmark said the studies were being made because of the limited future of Vancouver harbor through the advent of large bulk carriers whose deep draft prevents them from entering the harbor. He said also the harbor lacked sufficient land for bulk-loading facilities necessary to handle potash and coal.

Mr. Mann said any Vancouver port development by the NHB depends upon settlement of the property dispute between his board and the Canadian Pacific Railways.

Who Controls the Money?

THE PREFERENCE OF QUEbec for unconditional federal grants has long been a feature of that province's financial relations with the Canadian government. Arising mainly as a demonstration of provincial autonomy, Quebec has opted out of a number of plans whereby the federal government allocates funds for specific purposes. In other cases federal grants have been given on the understanding that they may be used for any purpose by the provinces.

But the question has been sharpened by the controversy over university grants which now is evoking criticism not only in other parts of Canada but within Quebec itself. A number of constitutional points are involved.

Ottawa's recent move to increase university grants from $2 to $5 per capita was well received by the provinces. Each province will be given the appropriate amount from the federal coffers and nine of them will apply it to the universities within their borders. But Quebec demands a different arrangement. It will accept the federal money, but insists that it cannot be specified for university use. The grants must be unconditional and wholly at the disposal of the Quebec government.

We thus have a situation in which the federal parliament votes money to a province for a special purpose, and the province accepts it but refuses to guarantee that it will be used for that purpose. It could spend the university money on any other activity. Furthermore, Quebec insists that inasmuch as its provincial auditors inspect the disbursement of the funds, there is no need for federal auditors to make any check.

There is therefore a direct confrontation between federal power and provincial, and it presents a pressing problem to which Mr. Pearson must soon find an answer. When the Canadian parliament votes money to spend on a particular project for the benefit of Canadians, can a provincial authority countermand parliament's wish and spend it otherwise? Can it, in addition, refuse to permit a government audit of the disposition of the funds? This is a fundamental issue, and can have only one solution if the sovereignty of the Canadian parliament is to be preserved.

A Guide to Guidelines

CONCERN OVER RISING prices in Canada which could slow the growth rate is expressed in the latest survey of the 21-nation Organization for Economic Co-operation and Development of which Canada is a member.

The report notes that since mid-1963, the Canadian economy has moved ahead faster than that of the United States and most European countries but that as idle capacity in the industry has been increasingly utilized, the danger of inflation has grown.

One solution to the problem, the OECD report suggests, is that Canada adopt something like the American "presidential guidelines" on prices and wages. This would mean that the government would attempt to suggest to industry and labor what increases in prices and wages would be acceptable in terms of over-all economic stability.

Unfortunately for this suggestion, there is no hint as to how the federal government could apply guidelines, much as they may be needed. In many ways the American government, through its huge expenditures in certain critical areas, can bring disciplinary pressures to bear. It has been notable, however, that these pressures have been much more effective with industry than they have with labor and there has been increasing criticism that the guidelines have not really solved any problems but have only hidden them for the time being.

In this country the effect of guidelines would be even more dubious. Exhortations by government to hold the line on prices and wages have a certain moral effect but there is really very little with which to back them up. Much better than any vain attempt to establish guidelines on the American pattern would be to put into effect measures which are needed to boost productivity and encourage the mobility of labor from areas of unemployment to areas where workers are needed.

To a considerable extent the budget to be presented soon by Finance Minister Mitchell Sharp will determine how well the government has grasped the basic economic problem of Canada at this time.

A Look at the Beginnings

OCCASIONALLY THE GENeral preoccupation with universities and high schools in the continuing Canadian debate on education is interrupted by practical suggestions directed toward grades below the secondary level.

School Trustee Mel Scott has produced such an interruption to a meeting of British Columbia school truees. He suggests a royal commission investigation into elementary education.

Other commissions have conducted their studies on the higher institutions, but what he considers probably the most important segment of our school system seems to have been overlooked.

"Our elementary teachers get the lowest salary rates and have the lowest qualifications," Mr. Scott points out. "I would like," he adds, "to see some evaluation of how children are being inculcated with the desire to learn."

There are several arguments to support Mr. Scott's case. In the first place, all children must attend school in British Columbia until they are 15. That means, for the most part, that everyone must be exposed to full grade-school tuition. What they get from that exposure forms the foundation for later development.

As he points out, the lowest salary rates are set for elementary teachers and the lowest qualifications are demanded of them. Yet how the children are taught, and the attitudes created in them during their early years in class are vitally important in suceeding years. This is one of the facts emphasized particularly in surveys on the education of Indian children.

If the child must learn to crawl before he learns to walk, and to walk before he can run, perhaps we ought to study the elementary grades to see if our school system provides the best teaching possible in the early forms of academic progress.

Support from the CLC

IT IS HEARTENING TO FIND so widespread and influential an organization as the Canadian Labor Congress coming to the defence of national and provincial parks. It is an eminently logical stand for labor to take, for who can benefit more from the free use of parks than the great body of Canadian workmen and women?

The Canadian Labor Congress is concerned about the continued attempts of private and commercial interests to exploit the public's recreational parklands and it calls on the federal government to stand firm against commercial invasion of these areas.

The Congress should keep up its pressure in this direction and extend its influence also to the level of the provincial governments. British Columbia has many instances to illustrate what can happen to public parklands when they are not adequately protected against industrial encroachment. Only constant public vigilance will ensure such protection, and the Canadian Labor Congress can be a vital part of that pressure.

"Take your choice . . . which side do you prefer . . .?"

FROM MY THO, VIET NAM

By JOSEPH ALSOP

No Longer the 'Ever Victorious'

Alsop

THIS is the stamping ground of the most famous Viet Cong battalion Officially, it is the 514th but the propagandists call it the "Ever Victorious Ap Bac Battalion," in memory of a major victory over government troops in 1963. Today, however, the 514th Battalion is by no means "ever victorious." And what is much more indicative and revealing, this once proud and highly successful outfit is now in really dreadful shape.

The condition of the battalion can be assessed with perfect confidence for a reason that suggests one of its main difficulties. Defectors from the battalion have lately been turning up rather regularly at the well-run centre for VC ralliers here in My Tho. Fifteen of them, of all grades up to platoon leaders, have been received and interrogated to date.

Accuracy

The interrogations, often comprising more than 200 questions, are exhaustive enough to insure accuracy. Moreover, no fact concerning the battalion's plight has been accepted as reliable that did not turn up independently in several interrogations; and the more hair-raising facts given below appear in a majority of the interrogations.

To begin at the beginning, then, there are three basic reasons for the 514th Battalion's troubles. First, the Vietnamese 7th Division had changed radically since the fight at Ap Bac in 1963. It is far better led. It fights far better. And it has incalculably stronger air and artillery support.

Then, too, the people in the villages have also changed radically since they organized the victory parties for the battalions after the Ap Bac fight. They have been embittered by the steep increases in VC taxes. They have been alienated by the VC press gang conscription methods. And they have ceased to regard the VC as sure prospective winners.

Poorer Leaders

In this more difficult situation, finally, the battalion itself is less well led. The enormous expansion of the VC main force has been in part accomplished by drawing off the best men in the provincial and local forces. Some time ago, the 514th lost its able former commanding officer in this manner. The new battalion commander, a hard-nosed southerner called Sau Bich, is a tough fighting man but his men do not trust him.

They have good reason. On December 11, the battalion was surprised at Cho Gau. In that action, it left 181 counted dead on the battlefield. Decimated, it could no longer operate independently, and was bridged with its former partner in the Ap Bac fight, the 261st Battalion of the VC main force. Both battalions were again pinned down at the Nhi Quy on February: and the Ever Victorious again left its dead on the battlefield. In 1963, a single abandoned VC casualty anywhere in Viet Nam was a matter for general wonder. But in this one obscure engagement, the 514th Battalion abandoned 45.

Defeats, however, are not the grimmest part of the story. The battalion has suffered seriously from the upward drain of its best men. Squad leaders with only three months' combat experience are now common. This, in turn, is the probable cause of a vicious row with the VC provincial military committee, which recently caused several battalion officers to take prolonged French leave.

Yet the drain from below is far worse than the drain from above. The truth is that service in the battalion, once hard but exhilarating, has now become bitterly hard and bitterly discouraging. Far from giving welcoming parties, most villagers flee their homes when the battalion approaches.

Equally, the quiet, restoring weeks of rest between combat in the hidden camps in the indigo forest are a thing of the past. Every night, or at least every other night, the battalion must move to a new bivouac by a hard night march. And rations now are nothing but rice, salt or soy sauce and wild vegetables.

Add that most men in the battalion no longer expect victory, and it is not surprising that the outfit is at least 20 per cent under strength. To keep it even at that level, the VC press gangs have to work overtime. It is now three-quarters composed of young conscripted kids. And so many of the conscripts run for their homes or the contested areas at the first opportunity that the desertion rate in the battalion is well above 40 per cent per annum.

In the circumstances, it may reasonably be asked how the Ever Victorious Battalion survives as a fighting unit. The answer lies in the omnipresent VC espionage, beginning in the member cells of the infantry squads, and also in the stern VC rule that troops must fear their officers more than the enemy. But the pressure is mounting. The time when the battalion will cease to be a fighting unit can already be foreseen, although that time may come both gradually and painfully.

Mushrooming Expenditure

Western

THERE is something awe-inspiring about federal estimates when they are viewed in the relatively short perspective of 10 years. It has been an expensive decade. When the books were closed for the year ending March 31, 1957, it was found that the total budgetary expenditures plus payments out of old age security were $5,228,146,672. This, naturallly enough, exceeded the estimate of Mr. Walter Harris, a cautious minister whose calculations had, nevertheless, alarmed the opposition financial critic.

Allowing for supplementaries, however, it now appears that overall spending in the year ending March 31, 1967 will reach $9.6 billions. This assumes about $500 millions not included in the main estimates. The figure may be conservative. Dr. George Davidson, secretary of the treasury board, told the Senate finance committee recently that supplementaries fluctuate between $400 millions and $600 millions and that "they rise consistently with the total of government spending." As the total is soaring, this suggests that the fiscal afterthoughts may do the same.

Within this span of time, therefore, two venturesome governments will have almost succeeded in doubling federal expenditures. While fashioning this achievement, they have—according to their own accounts—worried constantly about the costs of government and worked indefatigably to hold them to modest proportions.

It is, of course, true that the population has also expanded—by some 4,000,000 or 25 per cent. Government costs, in other words, have increased almost four times as rapidly.

The Economic Council of Canada, in its first report, assumed that the expenditures of all governments would increase an average of 5 per cent per year to 1970. There is a possibility, however, that the economists took inadequate account of the political content of government budgetting.

In the years since Mr. Harris left public life, the graph of federal spending has been decidedly erratic. Looking at the three years ending on March 31, 1960 it is apparent from DBS tables that federal expenditures were mounting by $350 millions annually. In the following year there was a more modest increase of about $272 millions. With the 1962 election in prospect, however, the Diefenbaker government accelerated its spending efforts and ran up expenditures by almost $600 millions.

After Brief Lag

With austerity, the effort lagged. We find an increase of only about $159 millions by March 1963. But in the next year, the pace was back to normal—expenditures up about $322 millions. The increase by March 1965 was only $179 millions. Evidently, however, the Pearson government had merely paused for breath. In the year now ending (by chance an election year) it will post an increase of about $924 millions and it may well break that record in 1966-67.

Evidently we are not only getting bigger budgets but also bigger budget boosts, the latest prospective increase amounting to 9½ per cent. If the trend continues it may be found that council's estimate was excessively conservative. For we cannot safely assume that the provinces will obligingly retrench merely because Ottawa is enjoying a splurge. The Ontario budget anticipates a spending increase of about 21 per cent and Mr. Robarts may not be the only provincial premier with his mind on greater things.

Bid for Respect

Montreal La Presse

Jean Marchand, the minister of manpower, is perfectly right in saying he intends to see that federal-provincial agreements relating to winter works are respected and that he does not see why the books of Quebec municipalities should not be verified as are those in other provinces. He can count on the support of all taxpayers who are fed up with the messing about within this program, In Quebec as elsewhere and perhaps more than elsewhere. And let no one come and assault our ears with the word autonomy, if this word means contempt for a duly accepted agreement such as the one which allows this type of examination. . . .

The report of Canada's auditor-general has once more plunged us up to our knees in the cesspool of administration in Ottawa where incompetence, chronic carelessness and embezzlement of all kinds burden the federal budget by several millions annually. One chapter is devoted to the many ways in which municipalities violate agreements and twist them from their main aim, that of providing winter work to laborers who would otherwise be without employment. This is politely called: Committing irregularities. . . . Mr. Marchand announces his intention of making the program more efficient and forcing municipalities who do not spend money furnished by Ottawa to refund it. . . . If we want the rest of Canada to respect us when we demand essential rights let us start by respecting agreements signed in good and correct fashion and accept all the obligations, not just those we find agreeable in the name of an autonomy which is already very badly understood.

Looking Back

From The Times of Feb. 18, 1906:

The case against S. J. Waldron, charged with selling a glass of beer to a sailor during prohibited hours in the Colonial Hotel, Feb. 3, was dismissed by Magistrate Hall this morning. The magistrate ruled that as the purchaser of the beer came from Esquimalt, a distance of over three miles, he could be called a traveller within the meaning of the act, and as such could be accorded traveller's privileges in obtaining refreshments.

Not So Thoughtful

A daily newspaper has described this budget as "something for everybody."

Is that so?

Well, first, we won't thank Finance Minister and Premier Bennett for taking the sales tax off restaurant meals. It was iniquitous and unjust. We paid for years and the SC government ignored our bitter protests.

The home-owner's grant increased again—very welcome indeed. But what of the thousands of apartment dwellers in B.C. who pay, through high rents, the same heavy municipal taxes and the expenses, depreciation, etc., plus a hefty profit for the owners of the buildings? Is Mr. Bennett blind to the vast proliferation of new apartments, high rise and otherwise?

It is certain beyond all doubt that Canadian children eat far too many candies and other confections. They are the prime cause of tooth decay—over refined sugar. Yet the budget encourages and abets this harmful consumption.

A well-known commentator has remarked on this province's favored position in that it has no interest to pay on provincial debt.

Is that so? Well, what about the billion and more of government guaranteed debt of B.C.'s crown corporations? They are all, every one, paying very large sums on their debt. Further, if they should default any time in the future the B.C. government will use the taxpayers' money to make up any deficit to the last penny.—John Kenny Strahan, Box 34, Victoria.

Undemocratic, Immoral

The decision of the city public works committee not to allow our group, the Peace Action League (Victoria), the use of Centennial Square for the purpose of a peace rally March 26 is to be deplored.

In place of our right as members of the public to gather in a public place, we are relegated to a safe corner out of sight and hearing of our fellow citizens. This is in effect what lies behind the decision to allow us only the use of Speaker's Corner, Beacon Hill Park.

If there is a municipal policy, written or unwritten, which forbids public gatherings "of this nature" it is an undemocratic and immoral policy.

The war in Viet Nam is of such a nature that the public must have access to all views.

We ask the mayor, as a former spokesman for often unpopular views in defending the interests of the working people of this city, to intercede and call on city council to reverse this decision.—Jack Payne, Publicity Co-ordinator.

Morals and Censorship

The Section 150 Committee has duly embarked on a crusade. This crusade is envisaged as safeguarding the young contemporary mind from the so-called wickedness of sex. Like gallant knights of yore they fling themselves dramatically into the fray.

Initially, let me say, that I do not for a moment question the well-meant intentions of these people. But good intentions are not always conducive to good common sense. It seems to me that this energy expended on our current sexual transition might well be directed toward some wiser, more realistic endeavor. Sex is a once-nasty word that has for far too long been shrouded in a mantilla of mysticism and stupidity; and only lately has our attitude (not behavior) assumed some semblance of logic—coupled with an awareness that such functions do indeed exist. Certainly, then, let us retain it as such . . . let us stave off those who would return to the prudish, hypocritical Victorian era.

Censorship, and all it entails, merely serves to stifle the creative mechanism, precipitates frustrations, and in general leads to an unhealthy atmosphere. Admittedly, there does exist some material not basically art; but even then I cannot conceive of this turning our youth into moral degenerates.

Once censorship rears its ugly head its voracious gluttony speedily devours all and sundry with small regard for quality. Soon all we have left is a sterile and artless world. George Orwell's 1984 could — make no mistake about it — become a distinct reality and implementation of censorship is one of the surest methods of begetting just that type of society.—Frank E. Lockyer, 4154 Holland Road.

Appreciation

Mrs. Dawn Hellener and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Hitchens, wish to express their deep appreciation to everyone who has been so kind and helpful to us.

We would especially like to express our thanks to the Canadian Red Cross for all the help that they have given.—Mrs. Dawn Hellener, Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Hitchens, 266 Superior.

Unique

One can agree with the president of the University of Victoria's Alma Mater Society (reported speaking to students at the University of Saskatchewan) and other such "unassuming" young men, that "today's youth are a unique generation." Many of the loquacious ones, indeed, are devoid of "traditional pressures" which their elders recall as a responsibility to accomplish something in life to prove their capabilities before setting out to revolutionize the world.

This segment of "youth" (which seems to run an extra 10 to 15 years these days) overlooks one "traditional pressure": that of insuring the worthiness of the project, and a reasonable return on the investment, before sinking capital into any proposition. There is room for grave doubt as to the sanity of advancing money for mass education at the higher level, by way of free tuition, free living for out-of-town students, and "wages" while attending, to boot. Heretofore it has been "traditional" for families and students to finance themselves—and this when it was a far greater burden, comparatively, than in today's affluent society.

It is also imperative that those who are demanding "understand youth or else," should understand that another "tradition" of their forebears was not to threaten their benefactors; also, that those who are talking so loosely now, will carry the future burden of meeting the problems and paying the bills (which they may find as difficult for them as does the present responsible citizen)—or face a welfare state like Russia, where they cannot write, or say, or do as they like—not even to leave this dictatorship. There they do as they are told — "or else."—D. C. Hartley, 1284 Revercomb.

Bennett's 'Left Over' Could Hit $120 Million

By JOHN MIKA
Times Legislative Reporter

Premier Bennett's proposed budget has a neatly rounded-off "left over" of $2.5 million after detailing all the money he plans to spend in the coming fiscal year.

It will be almost 1½ years from now before the appropriate public accounts come down to show how close he came to that figure.

But on past performance the actual surplus of the 1966 budget could be closer to $120 million.

And that, mind you, will be added to the surplus he will hold this April 1 after paying $62.2 million into the Pacific Great Eastern Railway and paying off the ferry authority debt.

The premier's vague indication is that this remainder will be about $7.7 million April 1. Going on past experience, it likely will be much higher although there isn't enough of a pattern in this area to predict this particular sum.

Rule of Thumb

Liberal Leader Ray Perrault has worked out a rule of thumb over the past few years that the premier's revenues are underestimated 12 to 13 per cent and one of his colleagues already has told the House that this means the $659.7 million official estimate is $75 million short.

But my reckoning is that the provincial government is reasonably sure of taking in about three-quarters of a billion dollars this year—$772 million to pin it down.

Here's the figuring:-

Last year, the premier's budget speech estimated revenues would be $447.2 million. Before the session was over, he added $8.3 million to his expenses by his "instant budget" amendments raising per capita grants and supplementary allowances.

$5 Million Left

Then, during the year, the cabinet approved something over $5.4 million in supplementary expenditures. Now the premier proposes to add the $62.2 million PGE and ferry payments and still says vaguely that this will leave about $5 million to be tossed into accumulated surplus account.

Add up the figures and you find they total $81 million.

Add that to last year's budget estimates and it appears that instead of his $447.2 million prediction, the premier actually took in at least $528.2 million. (In fact, bearing in mind that vagueness of the $5 million surplus reference, it might even be as high as $535.3 million which is this year's revenue prediction.)

Now, listen to the premier's budget speech this year in which he says something everyone knows already:

"All indications are that economic activity during 1966 will exceed the record levels attained last year. Gross provincial product, which increased an estimated 11.5 per cent in 1965, is anticipated to repeat this performance in 1966."

Last year's GNP — which Mr. Bennett had forecast the previous year but ignored when making his political budget speech — was the reason for the $81-plus million excess.

Let's be just as conservative as the premier and ignore the obvious 11.5 increase factor that should be applied to last year's real revenues in order to forecast those coming up.

Instead, take the same margin of $81 million and add that to last year's revenues.

Also, add the known increase of $21 million in federal grants and other governmental payments to B.C. to be made in the coming fiscal year. On top, re-estimate the premier's estimate of $37 million in liquor profits by a figure $5 million higher (in 7 past years this revenue consistently has been underestimated by a considerable amount).

Bonus Tax

And add the $12 million minimum that will be coming into provincial coffers as a bonus tax on sale of a large part of the E and N Land Belt to two timber companies (although the government's own assessments — being disputed in court now — show it expects to receive as much as $50 million).

How about the sales tax reductions? The premier says they will be only a few millions and he himself calculates in the budget that sales tax revenues will climb from $122 million last year to $140 million despite the reductions.

So, when you add up all the previous figures, up comes a conservative revenue estimate of $772 million — $119 million more than in the budget.

Incredible? Impossible for a provincial government document, written with all the expert financial advisors at hand, to err that much?

Last year the error was at least $81 million.

No Surplus

The year before, there was virtually no budgetary surplus predicted, then the following budget speech said that revenues were so much higher that even after paying off an unscheduled $17.7 million to remove all bridge and highway tolls, the indications were there would still be $25 million left over for surplus account.

When a few months ago the final tally of that unpredicted surplus was announced, it showed up as $28.4 million (forgetting the toll removal payment) which brought up accumulated suplus account to its present "official" $64.9 million as of last March 31.

In reality, accumulated total surplus this particular week must be around $125 million — and that's the whole reason for Premier Bennett's figure juggling.

He wouldn't be able to resist demands for medicare and a host of other services which would come even from his own backbenchers if he didn't hide it under a maze of confusing figures and the fact that public accounts won't reveal the total until sometime in the summer of 1967.

More Evidence

There's one more bit of evidence, supplied by the premier himself in this year's speech, to show that this reckoning may be hard to believe but is more reasonable than what we heard Feb. 11.

"It may be difficult to understand the financing of a government from yearly figures. However, from a study of the operations of this administration over the 14-year period, the results are readily determined. They bear repeating—

"(c) $351,259,474 payments made from current revenues to free the province and the Bridge and Ferry Authorities from debt and to further increase investment in the PGE.".

That $351,259,474 is the measure of the underestimates the premier has made in his calculation of current accounts up until now.

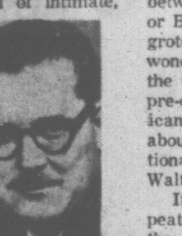
The Golden Age of Sport And the Prime Minister

By DOUGLAS FISHER

OTTAWA—The prime minister gave one of those homey chats to the Liberal youth last Saturday You know, the kind of intimate, low-key treatment of the great problems of our time which have made him so beloved amongst his own.



Fisher

The snippet of it I saw on television was very comfy: if we tried to go it alone without American investment our living standard would have to drop 25 per cent, but we can have good things and the Yankees and our economic and political sovereignty, too.

It happened that I had just been reading Paul Gallico's The Golden People, all about the sporting greats of the 1920s, Ruth, Dempsey, Ty Cobb, Rockne, et al. Now one of the few strong pieces of evidence we have that Mr. Pearson is a Canadian and a North American is his addiction to major sport.

In the film, "Mr Pearson," he didn't want to turn from the TV portrayal of the World Series. Allan MacEachen, then minister of labor, wanted to talk about a dock strike in Montreal but the PM was enthralled with the base-stealing skills of Maury Wills.

Like Mr Gallico, Mr. Pearson emerged as a fan during the golden age of sport. Frank Underhill has told me: "Everyone around the University of Toronto liked him; he was student, scholar, and a young man active in sport."

* * *

It is not superficial although it may be un-Canadian to argue that the dedicated baseball and hockey fan is usually a Walter Mitty type finding in his athletic heroes an identity and a release.

Let Mr. Gallico make the case:

"We might picture ourselves as leaders of men, captains of industry, generals, admirals, soldiers of fortune spellbinders, presidents, all of the great archetypes of history. But for almost a hundred years, close and warmest to the American heart has been the image of ourselves on the pitching mound, holding the fate of the game in the hollow of our glove . . .

"The one thing which every athlete has had in common with past, present, and future generations, ever since man has had the leisure to take part in sports either actively or vicariously, is that he reflects the age in which he lives . . .

"We . . . emerged from a serious war and . . . wanted no more of reality but only escape into the realm of the fanciful. Sports and sports stories and sports characters who were almost magical in their performance provided much of that escape."

There are two aspects to my wonder about Mr. Pearson, the sports fan. The heroes of the 1920s were a lusty, hell-raising crew. Yet the gulf in attitude and competitive zeal between Mr. Pearson and say, Jack Dempsey or Babe Ruth or Ty Cobb, is so wide as to be grotesque. Why? The second aspect of my wonder is about the "continental" nature of the Canadian sports fan's interests. Does the pre-occupation with American stars in American games explain more than we know about the lack of starch in his Canadian nationalism, compared say to that of his friend, Walter Gordon?

It seems to me that Mr. Pearson is repeatedly throwing away opportunities to ring the Canadian bell. Last week the NHL assigned six franchises to U.S. cities and ignored the one serious Canadian entry from Vancouver. As the last election campaign was getting underway Mr. Pearson announced a big federal subsidy for a Vancouver coliseum-arena project designed to fit in with major league hockey. As Keith Davey put it to me around the time: "Hockey fans, vote."

* * *

When the Vancouver application to the NHL was rebuffed it didn't help Mr. Pearson, the prime minister who supported the project with government dollars.

How did he react? Not by ringing words, not with the aroused anger of a nationalist. He regretted it. Our last lock on a continental sport slipping away and the sports fan leader of the country could only summon up a regret.

And this is the pattern of the political man.

Eric Kierans presents a hard-hitting, 20-page speech, attacking the Pearson government's lame response to U.S. guide-lines. Mr. Pearson chats away vaguely to a captive group of young people about a 25 per cent cut in our standard of living that can be avoided

We can have our cake. The U.S. can have our cake, too. But there's no game plan, there's no inspirational pre-game or half-time speech from the national coach—perhaps the game's lost!

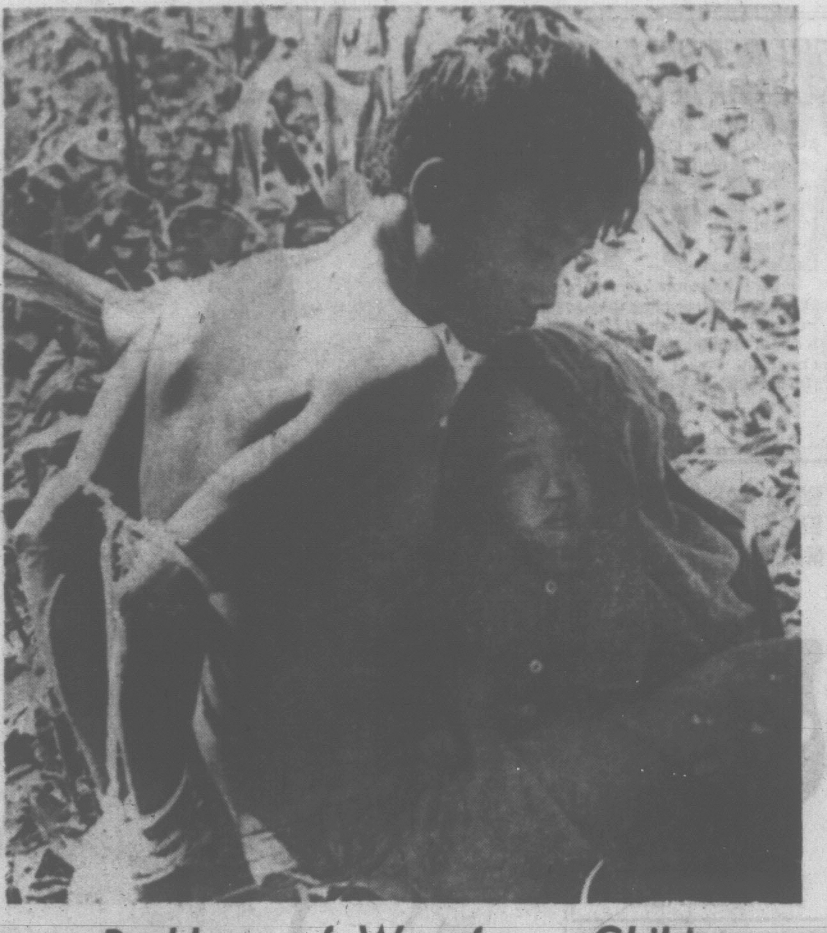
In sporting terms, how does the team work for victory when the coach is so vague and most of the players ignore him?

* * *

Perhaps Gallico's assessment of the 1920s gives the answer. But as you read it, reflect that the U.S. had its golden age; while we shared in it vicariously, we haven't had our own.

Here is Gallico's conclusion. "Casting backward to the innocence of the decade between 1920 and 1930, we know now that our world of today has turned savage, cruel and inhospitable. We are menaced from within and without and beset with new fears . . . We have lost some of that capacity to care deeply about anyone or anything besides our immediate families."

So there's the excuse for Mr. Pearson, the prime minister and the sports fan.



Problems of War for a Child

'Scientific' Sex Education: Is It the Whole Answer?

FRANKFURTER ALLGEMEINE ZEITUNG

There is hardly a field in which man's lack of understanding of himself looms so crassly in European civilization as in that involving the relationship between the sexes, and in sex education.

It is here that the harmful effect of a false dislocation of values from within to without—external progress and internal stagnation — exhibits itself.

This is a dislocation against which the abstract ethical imperative of Christian tradition is hardly in a position to achieve anything. The polarity of the sexes is constantly less and less understood, while the human problems that feed upon it are increasing.

One might assume that in our day and age the increasing call for sex education for young people was the adequate answer to this urgent question. Unfortunately, the opposite is the case.

A Symptom

Attempts to educate young people according to the principles of scientific and psychological knowledge are a significant symptom of our technical and rational epoch, an epoch that attempts to examine and regulate the interests of human beings from the point of view of externals.

This tendency overlaps, to a different extent in each area, the traditional attempts to maintain metaphysical order by means of giving meaning to the sexual urge (marriage as the ideal in sexual relationships) and by means of ethical and practical rules and regulations (chastity before marriage, of strict monogamy).

In general, the theological aspect of sex education, is retreating, even though the resultant tensions are by no means abrogated in the process.

The shape and effect of the advancing positivist tendency can be studied particularly in Sweden and Britain, where for some time now there has been systematic sex education in the schools.

The Latvian-Swedish psychiatrist, G. Punell, reports that, since the First World War, suggestions that sex education should be introduced in the schools have been coming from women's movements, who also maintained their interest afterwards.

Three Points

Their demands included three main points: before going to school, getting to know the process of birth, "its meaning and its beauty"; at school answering the children's questions, though factually, not ethically; during the later school years, factually and systematically introducing the child to the responsibilities of sex life.

The insistence of young people in Sweden on purely factual education can hardly achieve any other goal than, with as little hindrance and danger as possible, giving way to an elementary urge and satisfying it — which can be scientifically described (correctly though insufficiently) as sexual satisfaction.

Among the external circumstances are primarily the extension of the young peoples' sex life, an extension which, understandably, cannot be expressed in figures. Yet, according to a medical report, there were 121 pregnancies, 19 abortions and 42 cases of veneral disease in schools in Stockholm (including primary schools) during 1963.

This leads us on to the internal effects. Unrestrained sexual freedom is going to relieve the young man's elementary urge, yet exclude in direct proportion, before it has had opportunity to develop.

In young girls not even elementary spiritual fulfillment is usually achieved, because sexual experience takes place too early. Right from the start this blocks the way towards a higher unfolding of the eros.

Those who attack traditional Christian sexual ethics seem to be in favor of precisely this. What is involved is love of one's neighbor, compared to which sexual love should not be too highly valued. In the latter case, one further concludes, sexual licentiousness results, bringing with it general immorality.

The Stockholm report already mentioned seems to justify this outlook. It also mentions 12 cases of drug addiction, 26 cases of alcoholism; and as many as 50 per cent of the students smoking in the higher schools.

There is also disproportion between the decreasing use of soap and the increasing application of cosmetics.

Yet it would be neglecting the social function of sexual love to couple these phenomena to sexual habits without further investigation.

Not only can lack of sexual inhibitions lead to a general lack of discipline, but, obversely, correct treatment of the eros forms an important training ground for positive social attitudes among young people, (consideration for others and a consistent attitude towards the individual's role).

In culturally highly diverse times this was a matter of course.

Thus general immorality does not arise from uninhibited, primitive eroticism. Both, in fact, have their roots in the loss of spiritual background which, in human beings, governs not only the mind but also the body.

In the Swedish example one can see how, in the question of education, the metaphysical as well as the external and practical principles are not clearly blended and in part absolutely contradict each other. This is in the very nature of sexual relationships, in which metaphysical elements (giving meaning to the relationships) and causal-technical elements are insolubly combined.

Young people have to understand the drama of love, not only be aware of the external facts, From this point of view what is supposed to be merely "factual" education proves itself wishful thinking, even where the dose is psychologically correct and applied according to age.

Egocentric

Scientific teaching alone promotes an egocentric, loveless attitude. It makes sexual life easier without intensifying it internally.

In the last analysis, however, this implies that neither the knowledge gained in the laboratory away from humanity nor amorality, just as far removed from humanity, can arouse interest in young people. This can only be done by guiding them towards the metaphysical dimensions of depth in sexual life.

The task facing us today is, therefore, less one of "education" than one of "intiation", and only thus does it become humanly fertile.

France Draws Closer To North Viet Nam

By WAVERLEY ROOT
The Washington Post

PARIS — The release of General Charles de Gaulle's letter to North Vietnamese President Ho Chi Minh has caused some political prophets here to speculate that it is a prelude to the official recognition by France of North Viet Nam.

France does not now maintain formal diplomatic relations with North Viet Nam.

Inquiries in pertinent French circles indicate that it is unlikely that this step will be taken, for reasons of general policy. But it does seem likely that the presently rather anomalous relations between Hanoi and Paris may be tightened, until the only element lacking for full diplomatic recognition will be official acknowledgement of the fact.

The truth is that French contacts with North Viet Nam have been steadily inching towards normal diplomatic exchanges for at least two years. One instance of the process is De Gaulle's letter itself — the first time a French chief of state has addressed the North Vietnamese chief of state since France was driven out of Indo-China in 1954.

Only Courtesy

Some commentators made a great deal out of the fact that De Gaulle referred to "your government" in his letter to Ho Chi Minh, but in official circles today this was described as simply a courteous phrase.

Among the reasons why formal diplomatic recognition of the Hanoi government is not to be expected is the tacit French assumption the Viet Nam is one country, evident in De Gaulle's letter. To recognize Hanoi as a separate government would therefore invalidate a basic French view of the situation, unless all ties were simultaneously cut with Saigon, and Hanoi was then promoted to the role of rightful capital of all Viet Nam. France is presumably unprepared to take so radical a step, not only for political reasons but also because it would imperil French interests in South Viet Nam, though both countries have closed their embassies.

Another reason is the undesirable implications that might be drawn in other parts of the world — for instance, in regard to Korea or Germany, also divided countries of which the Communist half is not recognized by France.

While formal recognition of North Viet Nam is thus not considered likely, there may be a move to equalize the status of the theoretically non-diplomatic delegations exchanged between Hanoi and Paris. The North Vietnamese have been urging this for the last couple of years, a desire which a French official described as "legitimate."

Rule Violated

So far, the Paris and Hanoi representation has violated a cardinal rule of diplomatic practice — that the delegates of one country are always equal in rank to the delegates of the other. Theoretically, both countries maintain reciprocal commercial delegations. But while Mai Van Bo, head of the Hanoi delegation here, bears the restrictive official title of Chief of the Commercial Representation of the North Vietnamese Government in France, his French opposite number is broadly denominated Delegate-General of the French Republic. Moreover, while Mai Van Bo has the rank in his own country's service of minister plenipotentiary, the French up to now have usually kept a man of lower personal rank in Hanoi.

But France has just sent as her new delegate-general to Hanoi, Francois Simon de Quirielle, whose personal rank is first class counselor of embassy, and whose last post was that of ambassador plenipotentiary to Gabon.

Consular Duties

Both the French and North Vietnamese representatives have been carrying on consular, if not outright diplomatic, functions despite their supposed status of mere commercial representatives for some time — issuing visas, for instance. The French representative has approached closer to full diplomatic action, but two years ago Mai Van Bo's quasi-diplomatic status was recognized by opening access to the Quai d'Orsay to him, and lately he has been performing here virtually all the functions the French delegate-general has been able to carry out in North Viet Nam. It would surprise no one if the North Viet Nam commercial delegation should be elevated shortly to the rank of general delegation, one small step short of full diplomatic status.

Mineral Rights First Concern

Jurisdiction of off-shore mineral rights will have to be settled before the federal government will be allowed to take over Garibaldi Park, Recreation and Conservation Minister Kenneth Kiernan told the legislature Thursday.

Mr. Kiernan said he would not discuss Garibaldi Park with the federal government until it honored a three-year-old commitment to present to the province a stated case on what it based its claims to off-shore rights.

Northern Affairs Minister Arthur Laing last November offered on behalf of Ottawa to take over the park and initiate a $10,000,000 development scheme.

And it was also Mr. Laing who is said to have made the commitment to Mr. Kiernan on off-shore rights.

HEATED ATTACK

In a sometimes heated attack at the federal handling of the question Mr. Kiernan said: "Off-shore rights is a matter of fiscal policy and there can be broad differences of opinion.

"But the national government's handling of this question has been a study in stupidity.

"The argument has never been raised in Ottawa as to the competency of the province to regulate and control the development of off-shore minerals.

"If it is a problem of development, we have clearly demonstrated what we can do.

"Ottawa's handling of this matter has not only been stupid, but it has placed an unnecessary and unreasonable strain on Confederation."

But the fiery Chilliwack garage owner dismissed the suggestion that Canada would fall apart because of dissent between the provinces and the federal government.

CANADA STRONG

"I'm convinced that Confederation will withstand all future trials and tribulations.

"Let's have no more nonsense about secession simply because we speak up about the things that are right and proper to speak up about."

Mr. Kiernan also said because of the large money reserves in the province's 1966 budget we would "not be at the mercy of the money lenders.

"A little money in the bank is awfully handy to have in an adversity," he said, "otherwise we could not be masters of our own destiny."

He said maintaining a sound reserves system is important in B.C. because the largest part xf our economy is dependent on world markets.

NO TARIFFS

"We have no preferred tariff wall — we must recognize factors beyond our control. in the world markets have a bearing on our economy."

Mr. Kiernan said one does not have be an economic wizard to realize how compatible are the economies of B.C. and Japan.

"Here lies one of our greatest potentials for trade development in the free world.

"I make no apology that six of us (cabinet ministers) went to Japan last year. We have reaped in benefits many times over what the trip cost."

Mr. Kiernan said his bill for the trip amounted to $1,800.

Bennett 'Gives' Right to Ottawa

The legislature saw the government benches in an unusual light Thursday.

B.C. wants to give to the federal government a jurisdiction claimed by the province until now.

It came in a bill introduced by Recreation and Conservation Minister Kenneth Kiernan to amend the B.C. Fisheries Act.

The amendment would repeal a section of the act which gives him the power to set up arbitration of disputes over wholesale fish prices.

"Our legal advisers say it is ultra vires for authority to rest with the provincial government," Mr. Kiernan said.

"They say jurisdiction in this field obviously lies with the federal government."

Ken Campbell, secretary-manager of the Fisheries Association of B.C., said the section never has been used by the Socred administration. It was last used in 1938.

But it was the subject of a controversy as one of the side issues in the 1963 dispute between fishermen and canneries over prices.

City Police Seeking Mink Coat Thief

City police have been asked to be on the lookout for a mink coat thief who has been making her way west across Canada.

The suspect is a woman described as heavy-set and in her 40s.

So far four mink coats with a total value of $5,290 have been reported stolen.

They were taken from major department stores in Calgary, Lethbridge and Edmonton.

INTEGRATION BEATS SCHEDULE, HELLYER

Morale of Servicemen At Low Ebb—Harkness

OTTAWA (CP) — Integration of the armed forces is proceeding ahead of schedule and with "spirit and enthusiasm," Defence Minister Hellyer told the Commons Thursday night.

But Conservative MP Douglas Harkness, who once held the post, contended that morale among servicemen is at its lowest ebb.

Debate on the 1965-66 defence spending estimates began with a businesslike 29-page speech from Mr. Hellyer, who said integration is increasing efficiency and saving money.

The two-year-old program had cut the number of employees at Canadian forces headquarters by more than 1,000, he said. And a new command structure had been set up three months ahead of schedule, reducing the number of commands to six from 11.

The object of integration is a flexible military force capable of quick response.

Canada's part in the Zambian oil airlift "clearly demonstrated the effectiveness" of the armed forces to meet contingencies.

MISSED CRUX

Mr. Harkness, member for Calgary North, said the Hellyer speech avoided the crux of the defence situation—armed services morale.

Highly-trained officers, NCOs and specialists were among the 600 men a month the services were losing.

An illustration of the decline in morale was that 13,142 men had left the services since the Liberals took office in 1963.

The Hellyer speech said more recruits are going to be needed in the next four or five years than for some time because of the number of veterans retiring.

"We fully realize that we have to compete for manpower in a booming economy," Mr Hellyer said.

The subject of pay and allowances was under active study. But Mr. Hellyer practically invited suggestions from MPs on how to solve the labor problem.

The Commons also ended seven days of debate on transport estimates Thursday and MPs ended by advising Transport Minister Pickersgill that they will have "a Pandora's box of questions" when debate on the 1966-67 estimates rolls around.

Since Parliament assembled Jan. 18, external affairs and transport estimates for 1965-66 have been approved with those of 25 more departments, including defence, to come.

OPPOSITION 'PLEADING' FOR NO VOTE

An election-tinged taunt was thrown at oposition MLAs Thursday night by John Tisdalle (SC—Saanich).

"The best indication of the stability of a government is when you have member after member of the opposition pleading that there be no election this year," he said.

He recalled that all opposition members last session rallied around Opposition Leader Robert Strachan's declaration he was elected to oppose the government and he would do it with all his power.

"Now, apparently, there is no need of going to the people. Wait another two years, fill out your term, they say," he called across the floor.

"Last year we were supposed to have a triple-threat opposition but this year we don't even have one threat."

Man Guilty of Assault Trying to Get Cheque

A man who was trying to get into his wife's purse was convicted in central court Thursday of assaulting a police officer.

Magistrate William Ostler remanded Kenneth Harris, 1144 Queens, to Feb. 25 for presentence report.

Constable Bruce Campbell testified Harris punched him eight or 10 times in the struggle over the purse. The accused said he had been trying to recover part of his pay.

Const. Campbell said he and Constable Michael Poulton went to the Harris residence at 1:15 a.m. Jan. 30.

There they found Harris' wife Gloria bleeding from an eye laceration and a piece of broken glass sticking out of her nose.

She told police she had been hit in the eye while wearing her glasses.

She asked police to take her to hospital and went to get her purse.

Then Harris "bumped up against me," Constable Campbell testified.

But "most of his rage was directed toward his wife," he added.

Court was told Harris has two previous assault convictions and two for driving while suspended.

He pleaded guilty to a third charge of driving while suspended Thursday.

Rooms Said Unfit For Living

The director of Victoria's sanitation services has recommended the condemnation of residential rooms in a Government Street business block.

Addresses of the premises are 1802-14 and 1816-24 Government.

Health and personnel committee chairman Ald. Lily Wilson said she had visited the building herself and found the upstairs rooms used as living quarters by elderly Chinese to be in shocking condition.

"The stores on the ground floor are fine," she said. "But upstairs the rooms are definitely not fit to dwell in."

Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow said he was concerned about the future of the elderly people if the rooms were condemned and they were asked to leave.

"Where do the people living there go?" he asked.

He suggested that before the rooms were condemned and the people moved the welfare authorities be asked to take a look at the upper part of the building and bring in a report and recommendation.

His suggestion was approved by the committee.

Cadets To Add Civil Defence To Program

Shawnigan Lake School for Boys has become the first school in Canada to add a civil defence function to its cadet corps, it was announced Thursday.

A press release from B.C. Civil Defence Co-ordinator John Erb said the private school's cadet training program has been modified to organize third-year cadet trainees into four civil defence groups providing fire fighting, rescue, communications and welfare services.

The fire service has made a strong beginning with 16 boys who are learning how to take on fire safety responsibility for the school and also to help combat fires in the Shawnigan Lake community.

"It is our hope that this 'first' will encourage other areas to incorporate civil defence training in their schools," said Mr. Erb.

"We can assure educators of our fullest co-operation in providing trained instructors and equipment."

'WORTH $1,000 IN FEW YEARS'

Bennett Irked by Needling Over PGE Share Purchase

Premier Bennett was visibly irked by opposition needling when he asked for second reading of a bill to "invest" $25.2 million in the government-owned Pacific Great Eastern Railway.

He explained that there were 25,282 shares still unissued of the authorized share capital for the private railway. The government owns all paid up shares but wants to buy the remaining ones at $100 a share.

"Who has control of these shares?" asked Gordon Dowding (NDP — Burnaby).

"The fiscal agent," snapped Mr. Bennett, meaning himself.

"Well, are you afraid of somebody else getting control of these shares?" asked Mr. Dowding with mock innocence.

"These shares in a few years will be worth not $100 but $1,000 a share," stormed the premier.

He said the government would not sell any shares to private persons "because the people, through the government, have taken all the risks and feel that the people should have all the benefits as well."

He told the legislature that the PGE was bringing prosperity to Victoria, Vancouver and all corners of the province by opening up the north to development.

The major pulp mill developments, mining boom and Peace River project "would have been impossible without the PGE.

"People are too narrow in their viewpoint if they keep one thing too close to their eyes," he said, urging everyone to take a broad sweep view of the whole province's economic advance.

Opposition Leader Robert Strachan adjourned debate on the bill before it came to a vote on second reading.

Test Ban Extension Urged by Churches

GENEVA (AP) — The World Council of Churches Thursday urged a sweeping ban on nuclear testing and called on churches throughout the world to work toward this aim.

The international religious body grouping 214 Protestant, Orthodox, Anglican and Old Catholic churches acted because "of the urgency which characterizes the present situation."

A statement by its policy-making - central committee also backed efforts to call a world disarmament conference instead of the limited 17-nation group meeting in Geneva now.

The council's nuclear ban call followed an appeal for a negotiated solution in Viet Nam. It marked the council's growing entry into the field of politics in keeping with its attitude to "warn the people in the name of the Lord."

The world council expressed its "gratitude" for the 1963 Moscow partial test - ban treaty and said it "ought to be expanded to include underground tests."

SAYS TASK VITAL

"We address our member churches, but also in thus speaking, seek to encourage governments to press forward in this task upon which the fate of mankind may hang."

The religious body, whose newly elected head is an American, Dr. Eugene Carson Blake, also called for measures to halt the spreading of nuclear weapons—a major issue before the current Geneva conference.

In another move, the central committee of the council took note of the struggle in southern Sudan, calling it "not only a racial war but a religious war."

The council demanded "appropriate steps" to put an end "to suffering" in the conflict between the Arab government of the Sudan and its partly - Christian Negro minority inhabiting the southern part of the country.

$100 Million U.S. Loan To India

NEW DELHI (AP) — U.S. Vice-President Hubert Humphrey announced Thursday a $100,000,000 loan to India. At the same time he declared Asia cannot prosper "if aggression goes unchecked."

Emphasizing that India must help itself, Humphrey told a news conference the new loan is to purchase raw materials and spare parts to get Indian industry moving.

The loan is the first since U.S. development aid was halted to India and Pakistan when they fought a war over Kashmir in September. A U.S. official source said, however, the loan does not constitute a resumption of development aid.

Humphrey said he had told the Indian government of United States determination "to continue to assist the government of South Viet Nam and other governments in Asia in their resistance to aggression." He said the aggressive forces in Viet Nam "are the same forces that threaten India.

Swine Breeders To Visit Island

Cowichan Agricultural Society will be co-hosts with the City of Duncan and the North Cowichan municipality at a luncheon for the Canadian Swine Breeders' Association on Feb. 26 in Duncan.

The national directors of the swine breeders will hold their annual meeting in Vancouver the day before, the first time they have ever had it in B.C.

On Saturday, they will cross to Victoria, visit Butchart Gardens, attend the luncheon at Duncan, and visit the B.C. Forest Products pulp mill at Crofton in the afternoon.

Jim Hill, Cobble Hill, B.C. director of the Canadian Swine Breeders, is in charge.

CIA COMES OUT OF COLD ON CAMPUS

GRINNELL, Iowa (AP)—The Central Intelligence Agency, which ordinarily operates so secretly most congressmen don't know what it is doing, was thrust into the limelight Tuesday by a student picket line. Nine Grinnell College students toted signs protesting a campus visit of a CIA agent to interview prospective employees for the spy agency.

The CIA man, who identified himself as Charles R. Pecinovsky of St. Louis, grinned sheepishly as he strode past youngsters bearing signs saying, "where there is an invisible government there is no democracy."

Most of the pickets were members of a group called Students for a Democratic Society.

MAJOR HARBOR FOR VICTORIA

'Super' Port Development Asked

A tri-government conference on development of major ports in Victoria, Squamish, Prince Rupert and a "super port" in Vancouver was proposed Thursday by Donald Robinson (SC—Lillooett).

Mr. Robinson said the four provincial governments should get together with the federal government to discuss the expansion program.

The civic governments and private industry should be asked to help too.

He said transportation is vital to an expanding economy and unless the goods of Western Canada can be shipped cheaply and quickly to foreign markets, Canada's competitive position in the world will begin a rapid decline soon.

Mr. Robinson said "this is an emergency situation and something has to be done immediately."

"It's going to take contributions and finance from the federal level, the provincial level and possibly the civic level together with help from big business."

He said it would take at least $200 million and maybe up to $500 million to modernize Vancouver harbor facilities which was too much for private industry to handle.

Montreal and Chicago have been developed into super-ports but only after government leadership was shown," Mr. Robinson said.

MARKET SUMMARIES

N.Y. Slips Despite Boeing

Wall Street continued lower this afternoon despite sharp gains by Boeing and Studebaker. Losses were general in Vancouver mines.

AT NEW YORK volume for the day was estimated at 8,000,000 shares compared with 9,280,000 Thursday.

Boeing rebounded more than 5 points and Studebaker added another 2 points to its current updrive.

Kennecott spurted more than 4 points in response to a 3-for-1 stock split. Bigelow-Sanford advanced more than a point on news of a 2-for-1 split while Associated Spring was easy following news of a 3-for-2 split.

U.S. Steel was off a fraction although it said it is raising prices by $4 a ton on certain types of steel plate.

Losses of about a point were shown by General Motors, Chrysler, Zenith, Anaconda, Eastman Kodak, Du Pont, Polaroid, Standard Oil (New Jersey), Chesapeake and Ohio and Pennsylvania Railroad.

AT VANCOUVER Brenda dropped .45 to $6.10. Pyramid was down .37 to $13.75 and Yukon Antimony was off .10 to $2.60 after touching a high of $3.

Canusa gained .3 to .74.

In the industrials, Westcoast Transmission rose .50 to a 1966 high of $25.25.

AT TORONTO prices remained mixed in moderate trading in the main list. B.C. Telephone advanced ¾ to 76 and Atlantic Sugar ¼ to 27¾. The Bank of Montreal and Royal Bank each fell ⅜ to 63⅛ and 77 and CPR to 62¼.

Among base metals, Inco added 1 at 107, Denison ⅝ at 38⅛ and Rio Algom ⅛ at 21⅛. Noranda slipped ½ to 52¾.

Banff Oil led western oils higher gaining 1⅛ to 14⅛. Canadian Export Gas climbed 85 cents to 5.00 and Wilshire 40 to 6.20. Canadian Superior declined ⅝ to 23.

Golds were higher with La Luz up ⅞ to 23½ while Hollinger was off 6 to 27½.

AT MONTREAL most sections moved fractionally lower in moderately active trading.

Industrial volume was 112,600 and mines and oils 715,700.

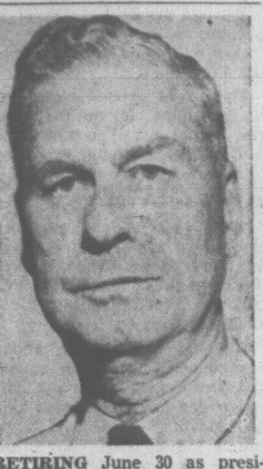
Papers were off. MacMillan Bloedel and Powell River dropped ⅛ to 27⅛. Abitibi and Great Lakes each fell ⅛ to 12⅛ and 23¾ respectively.

Utilities were lower with CPR slipping ½ to 62½.

The bank section moved lower. Nova Scotia and Royal each dropped ½ to 72½ and 77½ respectively.

AT LONDON the stock market, after earlier steadiness, tended to drift lower today on small pre-weekend selling and general lack of interest.

Dollar stocks mainly reflected trans-Atlantic declines but losses were small. Among Canadian issues, Canadian Husky, International Nickel and Noranda fell; Hudson Bay and Trans-Canada Pipe moved higher.



RETIRING June 30 as president of the Toronto Stock Exchange is Lt.-Gen. Howard D. Graham, 67. No successor has been named.

Royal Trust Net Profit Shows Gain

MONTREAL (CP) — Royal Trust Co. Thursday announced net profit for the year ended Dec. 31 of $2,942,000 or $4.66 a share, compared with $2,574,000 or $4.52 a share in 1964.

President Conrad F. Harrington told a shareholders' meeting the 1965 net profit after taxes represented a 14-per-cent increase over 1964.

Mr. Harrington, discussing developments in the pension and welfare fields in 1965, said it is essential that internal savings for productive capital purposes be encouraged and developed if Canada is to remain competitive in world markets.

What Canada needed was to "establish an order of priorities in the social security field, and implement these measures in future only when they are economically feasible and in the best interests of the country."

Door Open for Power Aid

By Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—The door is open for B.C. to acquire federal aid in the $400 to $500 million cost of transmission lines from the Peace and Columbia River dams.

And Premier Bennett already has his foot in the door.

He has been in touch with Ottawa since it was announced here Tuesday that Ottawa will build the $120 million line for the new billion-dollar Nelson River Hydro Project in northern Manitoba.

Ottawa set a new policy when it announced it would finance the line construction on a lease basis to the Manitoba government, financed over 50 years.

The details have not been spelled out yet, but it is in effect a lease-to-purchase deal and the line can eventually become provincial property.

Ottawa officials said the province also will gain from the lower federal interest rate—lower than it could acquire elsewhere.

Coast-Capilano MP Jack Davis said the federal government through the Manitoba move has established that any province can approach Ottawa for the same deal.

SUITABLE TYPE

But he said the federal financing will only be for lines in locations and of the type suitable for a future national power grid.

The cost of the lines from the Peace and the Columbia's Mica Creek Dam to Vancouver will be a total of between $400 and $500 million.

Davis is parliamentary secretary to Jean-Luc Pepin, the mines minister who will become the minister of energy and resources when the new department is approved by parliament.

Pepin is in charge of all energy resources in Canada, and is handling the federal end of negotiations in the Nelson River project.

He will deal with any negotiations that B.C. may want to enter into.

AIR ONCE WAS FREE AT STATION

TORONTO (CP)—A Canadian Tire Corp. Ltd. service station has started charging motorists for tire inflation and other formerly free auto checks.

A. B. Malcolm, manager of the corporation's service stations, said Thursday it is an experiment limited to one station, but could spread to other outlets in the group if it proves successful.

The charges are 15 cents for inflating tires, 10 cents to check the liquid level in power steering units, and 10 cents for a combined battery, radiator and automatic transmission fluid check.

QUARTERLY

BCT Sets 60-Cent Dividend

VANCOUVER — A quarterly dividend of 60 cents per share on the ordinary stock was declared Thursday by the Board of Directors of British Columbia Telephone Company.

The dividends will be payable on April 1, 1966, to shareowners of record on March 17, 1966.

The payment will bring to $2.40 a share the amount of 1965 dividends on B.C. Telephone Company ordinary stock, unchanged from the 1964 dividend rate.

J. Ernest Richardson, president and chief executive officer of B.C. Tel, said the payment will bring to $5,696,460 the total amount paid out in 1965 ordinary share dividends, compared with $5,523, 840 in 1964.

He said the increase in total amount results from an increase in the number of shares outstanding to 2,589,300 at the end of 1965 from 2,301,600 at the end of 1964.

SECOND HALF

During the second half of 1965, the company made a rights offering of one new ordinary share for each eight ordinary shares held. Proceeds of $16,400,000 went into the company's capital expansion program, which saw spending of $47,980,000 in 1965 and which calls for a record outlay of nearly $53,000,000 in 1966.

The directors also declared quarter [illegible] dends on the company's outstanding cumulative preference and preferred shares, having a par value of $100, as follows:

Six per cent preference, 5¾ per cent preferred, 4½ per cent preferred, payable April 1, 1966; 5.15 per cent preferred, 4¾ per cent preferred, payable April 15, 1966; 6 per cent preferred, 4⅝ per cent preferred, payable May 1, 1966; also 4.84 per cent preferred, having a par value of $25, payable April 1, 1966.

U.K. Overseas Trade Dealt Big Setback

LONDON (Reuters) — Britain's overseas trade suffered a big setback in January with fewer exports and rising imports resulting in a trade deficit of £90,000,000 ($270,000,000), the government has announced.

Exports and re-exports dropped to £411,000,000 ($1,323,000,000) from December's £436,000,000 ($1,308,000,000). It was the lowest figure since last October when exports and re-exports stood at £409,000,000 ($1,227,000,000).

Imports soared to £501,000,000 ($1,503,000,000) to equal the highest figure ever. In December they were £486,000,000 ($1,458,000,000). Twice last year, in May and August, they reached the peak of $501,000,000.

The deficit on visible trade—the difference between receipts from exports and payment for imports—increased from December's £50,000,000 ($150,000,000) to £90,000,000 ($270,000,000), the second highest deficit in more than six months.

Merger Contract Approved

NEW YORK (UPI)—The directors of American Broadcasting Companies, Inc. (ABC) and International Telephone and Telegraph Corp. have approved a contract for the merger of the two communications firms.

The contract, which was acted on Monday by the directors of ABC and ITT, must be approved by stockholders and the Federal Communications Commission before it becomes final. The proposal will be put before shareowners of both firms late in April, according to an announcement from ITT.

Merger negotiations got under way last year, and on Dec. 7 the presidents of both firms announced that their directors approved a merger. Under the terms of the agreement, ABC will become an autonomous subsidiary of ITT and will continue operations under its present management.

DIVIDENDS

B.C. Telephone, common 60 cents, payable April 1; record March 17; xd March 15 (the company also declared its usual dividends on its various preference and preferred shares).

Fleetwood Corporation, 16¼ cents, payable March 15; record Feb. 25; xd Feb. 23.

COCKPIT PRACTICES PROBED IN CRASHES

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Boeing 727, involved in four crashes which kiled 264 persons, is "completely airworthy" but the Federal Aviation Agency is recommending refinements in pilot practices.

The FAA left little doubt that while the crashes are still under investigation and no final causes have been determined, cockpit practices were the chief factor under suspicion in the four accidents.

Rainbow Firm Sets Work at Pine Point

Two areas of exploration are announced by Rainbow Mines Ltd., partly through options to Canex Aerial Exploration Ltd.

Canex, wholly-owned subsidiary of Placer Development Ltd., will initiate an induced polarization survey of the 80-claim Pine Point block known as the Monarch claims.

—Depending on results, further drilling or other programs are to be undertaken by Canex, which can earn a 50 per cent interest in the claims for production within three years, Rainbow Victoria representative C. B. Field said.

Vice-president Field, speaking on behalf of company president William Howden, said Rainbow had been given authority by the superintendent of brokers to allow an underwriting of 300,000 shares by Waite Reid and Co. for 40 cents a share.

OCEAN FALLS

Rainbow also expects to start diamond drilling its 38-claim Pooley Island property near Ocean Falls.

A geophysical survey has indicated two anomalous areas believed caused by copper mineraliaztion.

Now Ollie Knows They Know!

Sent aloft by coach Ollie Goldsmith, who wants to make sure his charges actually know what they are shooting at, three Chinooks discover that dunking baskets is easy—from this range. Goldsmith was wondering if his Victoria club knew where hoop was as poor shooting was major cause of Chinooks losing first two games of provincial junior men's basketball final to UBC Jayvees. Ron Stubbings (34), Barney Spaven (44) and Barry Turner hope shooting will be just as simple at Central Junior High tonight at 8:30, when Chinooks and Jayvees resume best-of-five series.

'MAYBE JOHNSON . . . . . . WILL CHANGE THIS'

'Why Me?' Asks 1-A Clay

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Chances are the heavyweight title fight between Cassius Clay and Ernie Terrell will be staged March 29 as scheduled, despite Clay's 1-A draft classification.

"I don't think he would be included in the March call if he appealed," said Winifred K. Phillips, chief clerk for Jefferson County's 10 draft boards.

Clay, in Miami training for the fight, said he will appeal the classification assigned him Thursday by Local Board 47. "I don't know just how I'll appeal. I don't know anything about the law. I just know I will."

Miss Phillips said the quota was expected today, and that Clay's name won't be placed on the list of eligibles until 10 days after his reclassification.

She said the April call will be issued about the middle of March. Should Clay be included in that call, he would have a mandatory 10-day appeal period from the day his induction notice was mailed.

The fight, then, though still uncertain, has a better than even chance of being staged in Chicago as planned.

Clay had been classified 1-Y, unacceptable for military service, because he scored less than the required standard on the mental aptitude tests of his pre-induction examinations.

But the army lowered its standards, due to the increased manpower needs in Viet Nam, and Clay's qualifications satisfied the new requirements.

The champion was bitter when informed of the new classification, which means almost certain induction since he is 24 years old and unmarried.

"Why me, why me?" he asked. "I can't see how they can reclassify me as 1-A, why they're so anxious to push me into the army out of all the people in Louisville officially classified 1-A.

"For two years the army told everybody I was a nut and I was ashamed. . . .

"Now, without ever testing me to see if I am wiser or worser than before, they decide I can go into the army. Well, President Johnson is a wise man. Maybe he will see what is happening and call up a few people and change this.

"Why are they so anxious to pay me $80 a month—me, who in two fights pays for six new jet planes? Why be anxious to take me, a man who pays the salary of at least 200,000 men a year, 200,000 men, you hear?"

* * *

No Such Rank As Greatest

NEW YORK (UPI)—Straighten out that hat and fix that tie, soldier, you're in the Army now and there is no such thing as "The Greatest" around here!

Cassius Clay had better get used to that kind of talk, and quickly, too, as his local draft board in Louisville reclassified him 1-A Thursday.

The first thing the world heavyweight champion will have to accustom himself to is being addressed as Pte. Clay.

He can forget all about being called Muhammed Ali, which he prefers, because an induction official advises that all recruits go into the Army by the name which they registered with selective service and the champ is registered as Cassius Clay.

Secondly, Clay can count on being treated "exactly like everyone else," according to one high-ranked member of the military.

Nothing's Changed

That means eight weeks of rigorous, infantry-type basic training and in case Cassius is a little foggy on that score, here's what it consists of:

There will be close order drill every day except Sunday (that means marching, Cassius): weapons instruction; field sanitation; first aid instruction; sessions at the infiltration course and on the rifle range, and naturally KP.

Clay can figure on pulling KP at least twice during his basic training, possibly three times, because they go by alphabetical order and it's one of those minor military tragedies that the "Cs" always wind up doing more KP than the "Zs."

KP hasn't changed much down through the years, Cassius.

KP's Still Fun

They still wake you up around 4 or 4:30 in the morning and keep you going until 8 or 9. KP is composed of several different jobs—washing dishes, cleaning up the mess hall or serving as "outside man" at the grease trap.

Reveille (that means get up, Cassius), usually is sounded at 0600 hours or 6 a.m., sometimes before that, depending on the particular post. Retreat generally comes at 1700 hours, or 5 p.m.

That doesn't mean you're finished for the day, champ. That merely means they're giving you some time for such other details as cleaning your rifle and polishing your boots before they sound Taps at 2200 hours or 10 p.m.

Then you're free to do anything you want, like go to sleep, but it's a good idea not to get too comfortable because they have this thing known as fire guard.

Check What Fire?

That's where they awaken you at 2 a.m. so you can walk around the barracks, make sure there's no fire, then go back to sleep again around 3 so you can be ready to get up again, fresh and raring to go, at 6.

At the end of basic training, they may put you in Special Services, Cassius, because you're the champ, and then again, there's no guarantee.

They could also assign you to the infantry, the medics or an armored division like they did with Elvis Presley.

Elvis was a pretty hot commodity when he went into the Army, too, and they never placed him in Special Services. He wound up a tank driver, "did one helluva fine job during all the time he was in," according to an officer who was over him, and came out with a sergeant's rating.

True, that's not the greatest, Cassius, but as you'll find out, there's no such rank in the army.

Not yet, anyway.

GARY DOAK
. . . newest Bruin

Prentice, Boivin Traded to Wings For Murphy, Doak

BOSTON (CP) — While National Hockey League teams took a breather Thursday, some behind-the-fronts action saw four players moved about in the seemingly never-ending game of trades.

A two-for-two exchange sent Ron Murphy and rookie defenceman Gary Doak of Detroit Red Wings to Boston Bruins in return for veterans Leo Boivin and Dean Prentice.

Boivin, 33, will help to fill the gap in the Wings' lineup left by the absence of all-star defenceman Doug Barkley, out with an eye injury. Warren Godfrey will also be off the Red Wings' roster for 10 days leaving another hole in the club's defense.

Murphy, 32, was in his second season with the Red Wings but missed 19 games earlier in the season due to a knee injury. He has scored 10 goals this season. Doak, 19, is in his first year of professionl hockey.

Prentice, also 33, is in his 13th year in the NHL having scored 236 goals, seven of them this season. Red Wings coach Sid Abel said both Prentice and Boivin will play with the Wings against Toronto Maple Leafs Sunday night but has not fitted them into the lineup yet.

Boston will receive an amateur player, under the agreement, to be named later plus an amateur draft concession.

All teams will be back in action Saturday night with Chicago at Montreal, New York at Toronto and Boston at Detroit.

Chicago leads the league with 63 points and Montreal is tied for second with Detroit with 59 points each. Toronto has 53 points and Boston has 34. New York is in the cellar with 32.

Vikettes March To Island Title

By MIKE WOODLEY

NANAIMO—University of Victoria Vikettes completed an impressive march to the Vancouver Island junior women's basketball title here Friday night by trouncing Nanaimo Golden Angels 52-33.

Vikettes, the reigning Canadian champions, chalked up a 101-50 margin in the two-game, total-points series as they topped the 50-point mark for the first time this season. In the opening clash Monday at Uvic, Vikettes slapped down the Angels 49-17.

Coach Wally Yeaman's club now advances to the B.C. tournament next weekend at Vancouver against Salmon Arm and two Vancouver teams—Hastings and Marpole.

Vikettes and either the winner or, if Victoria wins, the runner-up at Vancouver will represent B.C. in the Canadian tournament at Uvic March 7, 8 and 9. As host team, Vikettes are automatically entered but they hope to go into the national meet as provincial queens.

In the series with Nanaimo, Vikettes appeared to be rounding into peak form, displaying a balanced attack and a drum-tight zone defence that will undoubtedly be tested more severely at Vancouver.

Jean Robertson paced the Uvic crew by dunking 16 points, Lee Hagglund added 12 and sister Lyn added eight.

Sue Kelly, although collecting only four points, turned in a strong game for the Victorians. Ann Jeffrey, taking over from high-scoring Marg Maysmith, who was working in Victoria, was a standout in gathering rebounds.

Scoring:

Victoria (52)—Marg Oliver 2, Jean Robertson 16, Lee Hagglund 12, Lyn Hagglund 8, Irene Smith, Gaynol Vosberg 3, Ann Jeffreys 2, Sue Kelly 4, Eleanor Ingbritson 5.

Nanaimo (33) — Randa Galloway 8, Sherry Hoggan 6, Doris Skaife 6, Jan Davis, Carol Johnson, Lorna Goulding 4, Aggie Shelling 9.

GOALS DID IT

United Sports Spirited Look

The happy after-effects of last Sunday's 7-2 victory over New Westminster Royals still lingers with Victoria United.

United, scheduled to meet Columbus in a Pacific Coast Soccer League match Saturday at Royal Athletic Park, seems to have been stimulated by last week's flood of goals.

They stepped through practice Thursday in spirited and confident fashion, a feature that has been missing for several previous weeks.

TWO DOUBTFUL

Coach Frank Grealy plans to start with the same lineup he fielded Sunday, admits United "suddenly realizes they can score goals."

The only non-starters are fullback Tony Quinn, doubtful because of a leg injury, and forward Jim Schulz, whose soldiering duties have taken him to Edmonton for two weeks. Schulz is expected back next week.

First-division clubs of the Victoria and District League will continue on the Province Cup trail in a pair of Sunday matches.

ESQUIMALT UNBEATEN

Canadian Scottish is scheduled to battle Luckies at Central Park and Victoria West has been drawn against Hourigan Kickers at Heywood Avenue.

In second-division league matches, unbeaten Esquimalt goes against Sidney at Bullen Park, Victoria West faces Gorge Molsons at Topaz Park and Colony Inn clashes with Vikings at the Uvic campus.

All matches start at 2 p.m.

BOWLER OF WEEK

Pair of plus-300 games carried Stan Daniels to weekly men's fivepin award in Times Bowler-of-the-Week contest. Stan hit the top in City Hall League at Gibson's Recreations by cracking out 328 and 353 in his first two games and following up with 231 for three-game total of 912.

Distaff Bowlers Seek City Crowns

Saturday and Sunday are "ladies days" at Aurora Lanes but the gals may have to go some to steal attention from 10 kegling "misses."

The youngsters, in age from 11 to 17, will stage an exhibition match Saturday prior to the opening of the Victoria Women's Bowling Association city championship.

The novel exhibition has been scheduled to show the public the association's interest in promoting tenpins among juniors.

Here are the teams with names, ages and averages: Team 1—Heather Donald, 15, 129; Pat Holding, 12, 113; Lynn Groves, 16, 128; Sylvia Clark, 16, 106; Gail Jackson, 16, 141. CAMPBELL UNPERTURBED

Senator's Cry 'A Local Pitch'

The ins, and outs and the maybes in the National Hockey League's expansion plans still are being heard from as the NHL presses on towards its goal of a 12-team league in 1967-68.

Minneapolis-St. Paul, one of the six successful bidders for new franchises, reported 150 applicants for season tickets some 18 months in advance of the opening face-off.

St. Louis, the city that got into the league without asking, was warned by one of the NHL governors that the deal will be off unless the right kind of people come forward with the right kind of money.

And Baltimore, one of the rejected suitors, found a congressional champion who threatened to press a different kind of suit.

NHL President Clarence Campbell appeared unperturbed Thursday by the efforts of Senator Daniel B. Brewster, a Maryland Democrat, to interest the Senate's anti-trust subcommittee in the league's expansion efforts.

"Strictly a local pitch," said Campbell, noting that Zanvyl Krieger, promoter of the Baltimore bid, had disassociated himself from the senator's actions.

In awarding franchises to Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, St. Louis, Minneapolis-St. Paul, Los Angeles and San Francisco-Oakland last week, the NHL indicated that Baltimore rates top priority if any of the newcomers fail to meet their commitments.

DEADLINE APRIL 5

The first deadline comes up April 5, when a deal must be closed for the purchase of the St. Louis Arena.

Chicago Black Hawks, current owners of the 35-year-old building, have served notice that they aren't selling to just anybody.

Arthur M. Wirtz Sr., who owns the Hawks in partnership with James D. Norris, told a St. Louis newspaper Wednesday he and Norris are negotiating with an out-of-town group in the event that no acceptable offer is received from St. Louis interests.

He has quoted no price for the 16,000-seat arena but it is rumored to be as high as $4,500,000.

From Minneapolis - St. Paul there was nothing but optimism.

Gordon Ritz, Montreal - born head of the syndicate that acquired the Minnesota franchise, said architects' plans are complete for a stadium seating 12,500 and capable of being expanded to 17,000. He saw no risk in the $2,000,000 expenditure for getting NHL membership.

"There's a fantastic demand for professional hockey at the big-league level," he said.

Coody Leads by One After First-Round 67

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—Charles Coody carried a one-stroke lead into today's second round of the $60,000 Tucson Open Golf Tournament, but no less than 20 other par-busters were within three strokes of him.

Coody fired a five-under-par 67 Thursday to capture the first day lead. Applying the most pressure were Dick Lotz and Mason Rudolph, who had 68s.

Doug Sanders, Larry Griggs, Jay Dolan, Gardner Dickinson Jr., and Bob Johnson were tied Joe Campbell, George Archer, two strokes back at 69.

Grouped three strokes back at 70 after the first round were Randy Glover, Rocky Thompson, Dick Mayer, Julius Boros, Fred Parti, John Lotz, Steve Opperman, Billy Martindale, Johnny Pott and Steve Spray.

Tide's Trial On Saturday

Places on Victoria Crimson Tide in the annual inter-city rugby series for the historic McKechnie Cup will be at stake Saturday at Macdonald Park.

Selectors for the Victoria side will view candidates in action during a trial match, between Possibles and Probables. Action starts at 2 p.m.

Starting at the same time on the lower Macdonald Park pitch will be a second division game between Oak Bay Wanderers and JBAA.

On Sunday Oak Bay will face Vancouver Georgians at Windsor Park and Cowichan will tackle Vancouver Rowing Club at Duncan.

GAUDAUR SOUNDS WARNING

'Invasion Would Hurt'

MONTREAL (CP)—A National or American Football League franchise in a large Canadian city could ruin the Canadian Football League, Jake Gaudaur, president of Hamilton Tiger-Cats of the Eastern Football Conference, said Thursday.

"It's not that Canadians would prefer American football," he said at the annual awards dinner of the Sportsmen's Association of Montreal. "But sharing of revenue could eventually force some of the smaller clubs out of existence."

He said CFL clubs do not make large profits. "We have to compete with the NFL and ALF by paying the same salaries but we don't offer those bonuses like they do."

Gaudaur said that changes in the CFL's financial structure would be difficult to make since the Eastern and Western Conferences are vastly different. "The Western clubs are public ownership operations, while the Eastern are privately owned," he said.

"The West had its most successful season in history in 1965, financially and competitively," he said. "In the East it was a much different story. Because the competition was chiefly between Hamilton and Ottawa, all four clubs suffered at the box office. But all we need in the East is better balance . . . a better product in Montreal and Toronto."

COLLEGE BANTAMS WIN

St. Louis College bantam boys defeated Brentwood 28-13 in a minor league basketball game Thursday night at S. J. Willis.

Pumfrey Tops Tars

Ray Pumfrey's 73 took low gross honors Thursday in the Royal Canadian Navy Golf Association's monthly inter-ship competition at Gorge Vale. Bud Livingston had first low net, 62.

Profit-Reaping NFL Not Ready for Truce

PALM BEACH Fla., (AP)—The National Football League, with all 14 teams showing a profit for the last two years, is ready to continue indefinitely its dollar war with the rival American Football League.

Commissioner Pete Rozelle said at a news conference there was no discussion of any truce with the rival league at the annual meeting of the NFL that closed Thursday. Rozelle said there had been no consideration of a common draft and absolutely no talk of a merger.

The main business transacted was the stocking of the new Atlanta club which will compete as the 15th league team this season. The club was stocked Wednesday with 42 experienced players from the other teams.

Rozelle said no definite timetable had been set up for adding another team, but the league hopes to have 16 clubs in 1967.

SEVEN IN RUNNING

The commissioner said the confidential survey by a research institute had not eliminated any of the seven cities proposed as sites. They were Boston, Cincinnati, Houston, New Orleans, Phoenix, Portland, Ore., and Seattle.

"Although 16 clubs is not the absolute limit," said Rozelle, "the possibility of four four-club divisions make a very attractive scheduling program."

Rozelle said he had met with Charley Bradshaw of the Pittsburgh Steelers, president of the Player's Association, in New York a week ago. He said Bradshaw indicated the players had no interest in joining the Teamsters' Union as suggested by James Hoffa's organizer.

HOWE'S HOCKEY

By GORDIE HOWE

QUESTION: Have you noticed any change over the years as far as your reception by the fans is concerned? Are Montreal and Toronto fans more knowledgeable than in American cities?

P. Mac., Mt. Clemens, Mich.

ANSWER: It stands to reason Canadians should be more knowledgeable as far as the game is concerned, because hockey is Canada's national sport.

More of them had a chance to play the game as youngsters. However, this situation is changing, as the planned expansion of the National Hockey League proves.

* * *

Hockey already is a major sport in many United States cities. I understand there are artificial ice rinks in all except three states and that hockey is being played in all of them. This points up the tremendous growth the sport has had since the NHL was expanded to include the four U.S. cities in the twenties.

Certainly the fans in Toronto and Montreal are real students of the game. They are so avid as followers of the game that you almost have to inherit season tickets at the Maple Leaf Gardens and the Forum.

* * *

Montreal fans have treated me very nicely over the years, given me a big hand when I achieved a milestone goal there.

However, they still boo as hard if you do something they don't like. They love the game, like to see it played well, cheer their own club, jeer the opposition.

I think Detroiters have a great knowledge of hockey, partially because of the influx of Canadians from across the border. Another factor is the growth of junior hockey programs in the Metropolitan Detroit area. Seventeen communities within a 25 mile radius of Olympia have hockey programs for the youngsters.

* * *

This is an outgrowth of the work Jack Adams initiated in promoting the game in his 35 years with the Detroit Red Wings. When I first came in the league, Jack had us appearing at luncheons, banquets and meetings as many as three or four times a week.

He felt that nothing could promote the game any better than this personal contact. Today all of the out-of-town games of Chicago and Detroit are being televised back home. Hockey players are recognized wherever they go. Hockey has become "big time" in the U.S.

DIVING TONIGHT

Annual Swim Gala At Crystal Garden

If Saturday is "bath night," Victoria's busiest swimming hole this Saturday will be the Crystal Garden.

Some 400 youngsters from 30 district schools will "jump in" the Crystal in the 40th annual schools age-group swimming and diving gala.

Entries have been received from 19 elementary schools, six junior secondary schools and five private schools.

Fifty-seven divers will take over the pool tonight, starting at 6.

Saturday at 9 a.m., the swimmers, some 350 strong will begin the first of 110 heats leading to the finals at 5:30 p.m.

Nominal admission will be charged for the meet sponsored by Victoria Amateur Swimming Club.

Squash Stars Invade City For Tourney

Talented visitors will be swinging for titles tonight when the Pacific Northwest squash championships open at local courts.

Matches during the three-day meet will be held at Victoria Squash Club's courts at Sussex Hotel, Royal Roads, and HMCS Naden.

Listed among the invading stars are Dave Foster, Martin Gibson, Sandy Robertson, Jim Mackin, Neil Deslauriers, Bob Wade and George Morfitt.

Victoria hopes will be riding with Kemble Greenwood, Hugh Irving, Bob Houston, Gerry Davis, Doug Hawkes, John Creighton, Marjorie Stephenson and Nora Fenswick.

Tonight's draw (at Sussex courts unless otherwise indicated):

5 p.m.—Hawkes vs Smythe.
5.30—Reed vs Thompson, Wrightson vs Wright.
6—Bagley vs Stephenson.
7—Smith vs Murrell (Naden), Wooles vs Starling, Evans vs Martinoff.

EXCELLENT THE WORD FOR SKIERS

A light snowfall that began Thursday afternoon promised excellent conditions for skiers heading towards Green Mountain this weekend.

Temperature was reported at 28 degrees.

Both T-bar and rope tows are running and the road is open to the top parking lot.

Angling Club Sets Meeting

Annual general meeting of the Chinook Club, open only to those who have earned Victoria-Saanich Inlet Anglers' Association buttons for landing big salmon, will be held at the Ingraham Hotel on Feb. 26.

Winners of club trophies last season will receive their awards during the evening, which will also include dinner and a dance. The annual meeting will start at 8:30, following a 7 p.m. dinner.

Officials urge persons planning to attend to pick up tickets by Feb. 24. Tickets may be obtained from Stan Williams' Ben Hill's and Gordon sporting goods stores or from the Anchorage-Anglers Boat Rentals.

Ex-Navy Coach Finds New Post

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Wayne Hardin, who resigned as head football coach at Navy in 1964 during a public debate over his contract, has signed to coach Philadelphia Bulldogs of the Continental League.

It was reported Hardin will receive $20,000 a year, slightly more than he earned at the Annapolis, Md., school.

Hardin succeeds Babe Dimancheff, who recently signed as a Chicago Bears assistant in the National Football League.

Toronto Rifles are the only Canadian Club in the Continental League.

Pats Sans Huck For Playoffs

REGINA (CP) — The Saskatchewan Junior Hockey League has announced Fran Huck of the Canadian National hockey team will not eligible to rejoin Regina Pats for the SJHL playoffs which start next month.

League commissioner Frank Boucher said Huck has not played five regular games with Pats this season and thus failed to fulfill eligibility requirements for the playoffs.

California Angels Acquire Ed Bailey

CHICAGO (AP)—Ed Bailey, veteran major league catcher, was sold outright this week by Chicago Cubs to California Angels for an undisclosed price.

Bailey previously played with Cincinnati Reds, San Francisco Giants and Milwaukee Braves.

Bailey, a left-handed hitter, batted .253 last season while sharing Cub catching with Vic Roznovsky, 27, and Chris Krug, 26.

RACER RETURNED . . . . . . AFTER A YEAR

Hottest Hound Found

LONDON (AP) — The hottest dog in England was found safe and well Thursday more than a year since he was dognapped.

An anonymous phone call gave police the tip. Within hours the three-year-old Hi Joe was back with greyhound trainer Norah Collin.

Hi Joe, valued at £5,000, was a short-odds favorite for last year's Greyhound Derby when he was spirited out of Miss Collin's kennels, north of London. His owner, bookmaker Victor Chandler, offered a £1,000 reward for his safe return.

After the phone call, Miss Collin went with detectives to a ramshackle kennel in the garden of a house in Dunstable, 30 miles from Hi Joe's original home.

"It's him all right," she said, "and he's in tip-top form. "He seems to have been well cared for and may have been raced."

TANDREW WHITE WITH HIS V SAFETY DEVICE

HARNESS RECOMMENDED

Seat Belts Claimed Unsafe

LEE, N.H. (AP)—A retired millionaire who has devoted years to studying auto safety says the regular seatbelt installed in cars "has no protective value."

Andrew J. White, 60, says that in many instances a regular seatbelt "reduces the chances for survival in a traffic accident."

"The seatbelt leaves the head, the most vulnerable part of the anatomy, to act as a sledgehammer against the windshield and dashboard," said White in an interview.

White recommends instead a harness which he designed and says "is far superior to a regular seatbelt."

Wearing one, he drove a car at 50 miles an hour into a two-foot-thick brick wall and was uninjured.

The harness is a v-shaped yoke attached to the roof of the car.

White said it can be fastened in three seconds. "First you put on the lap strap, release two clips that hold the harness near the sun visors and attach the clips that hold the harness near the sun visors and attach the clips onto the strap."

White, who is president of the motor vehicle research of New Hampshire Incorporated, designed the harness to include a seatbelt, a shoulder strap, and a head sling. He said more than 10 years of study of actual accidents and numerous tests performed by his non-profit on proved the harness is the best safety device available.

'Crash Not Caused' By Faulty Component

LONDON (CP)—The British government said today a detailed investigation had shown British Motor Corporation front-drive car was not caused by a structural failure.

Transport Minister Barbara Castle told the House of Commons:

"I hope that this detailed investigation and conclusion reached will relieve any anxiety felt by owners and drivers of the front-wheel cars using this component (a constant velocity joint)."

A suspicion that a part failure had caused a fatal crash had stirred up a metal fatigue scare and worried millions of motorists around the world who own front - drive BMC cars.

Experts of the BMC and the transport ministry had examined the Austin 1100 car involved in the crash and found that the impact of the accident broke the car's constant velocity joint.

SWEEPSTAKE BILL AGAIN PROPOSED

'Ray of Hope . . . For That Pot of Gold'

By JOYCE FAIRBAIRN
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — A hospital sweepstakes board allowing the federal government to legally control lotteries in Canada was proposed Thursday by Alberta Conservative Jack Horner.

In a private member's bill, the member from Acadia gave the annual lotteries question a new twist by urging that the federal government be allowed to give a charter for such a board.

Most previous bills, which are invariably introduced in each session of Parliament, have specified that the provinces be given the authority to legalize their own lotteries.

As the entire question would involve an amendment to the Criminal Code, a move which traditionally would be made by the government, these private bills have never been passed.

BENEFIT HOSPITALS

Horner's proposed board would start out with two or three sweepstakes a year. It would ensure that money spent by Canadians on such activities would be redirected with a minimum of expense to the provinces for the benefit of hospitals.

The division of profits would be made according to the population of the provinces.

Horner, in an interview, suggested that sweepstake tickets could be purchased in the post office the same way as postage stamps.

Canadians could gamble as much as $1 per person with the government netting more than $5 million a year "or possibly $10 million," Horner said.

He argued that a person who is tied to a routine job in Canadian society "feels that a sweepstake is his one chance, his one ray of hope of obtaining the pot of gold at the end of the rainbow."

90 PER CENT FAVOR STAKES

Horner estimated that as many as 90 per cent of Canadians would favor legalized sweepstakes.

"The party that accepts national sweepstakes in its political platform will be rewarded with more votes because of it," he predicted.

He added that churches are "one of the biggest lobbyists" opposed to this, but if Canada as a whole does not accept the principle of legalizing lotteries, "Quebec will be given the rignt to have their own."

"I am opposed to this and, if nothing else, this bill is the lesser of two evils," said Horner.

Noting that the federal government now polices and supervises racetracks in Canada, he said a national sweepstakes board would be quite feasible and would give all Canadians a chance to do legally "what most are doing illegally."

His board would be composed of three members appointed by the cabinet, and would be the responsibility of the minister of finance. The capital, divided into 100,000 shares at $50 each, would be issued to the minister and the organization expenses would be financed by a loan from the Indistrial Development Bank.

The money involved would be used for the promotion of Canadian welfare, "rather than dissipated in large part for the benefit of promoters and, in many instances, persons outside Canada."

Charge Laid In Death Of Child

Colwood RCMP have laid a dangerous driving charge against a woman truck driver in connection with the death of a seven-year-old girl Monday.

Killed was Betty Ann Walker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Walker, 3957 Happy Valley Road.

Charged is Florence Evelyn Stolth, 50, of Milne's Landing.

The mishap occurred as the tot alighted from a school bus parked across the road in front of her Happy Valley Road home.

CARRYING VALENTINES

She was apparently rushing to her home to show her mother valentines she received at Happy Valley elementary school that day.

Cards were streewn near her body which was found at the rear of the school bus.

An inquest which opened Thursday night was told the tot died of a multiple spinal fracture and internal injuries.

The accident took place at 3:35 p.m. and she was pronounced dead at 4:05 p.m. at St. Joseph's Hospital.

HEART MASSAGE

External heart massage failed to bring her back to life when she reached the hospital.

Because a charge has been laid in connection with the death the inquest will continue at the discretion of the attorney-general's department.

Only medical evidence was introduced Thursday night. If the inquest is continued it will resume Feb. 28 at 7:30 p.m. in Victoria Law Courts, 805 Burdett.

Faulty Gun Aided Escapers

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP)—Warden Fred Smith said Wednesday plans to prevent a breakout from nearby Collin's Bay penitentiary last week went awry when one guard's rifle didn't fire and another guard didn't shoot in time.

Three of the four prisoners who escaped have been charged with rape and attempted murder. They were recaptured Saturday. The fourth man was caught shortly after the escape.

John Eaton, 25, of Toronto; Thomas Brydges, 18, of Elmira; Harold Dankwardt, 20, of Kitchener, and Thomas Fuhrmn, 19, of Kitchener, raced to freedom through the prison gate Wednesday in a prison truck.

Mr. Smith said an armed guard who was staked out in a surveillance car off the penitentiary driveway failed to fire at the fleeing truck immediately. He got out and held up his hand like a policeman stopping traffic, then fired his .38-calibre revolver at the truck's tires.

But he said the chief factor in the escape was excess grease on a tower guard's rifle. This prevented firing of two cartridges. The weapon fired on the third attempt but by then the prisoners had escaped, Mr. Smith said.

BRIDGE RESULTS

Winners of the allmasters duplicate bridge club's weekly game played Thursday at Broughton Club Rooms were: 1. Earle Dye and Les Isaacson; 2. Gwen Graham and Freda Small; 3. Dorothy Mulcahy and Pansy Raymond; 4. and 5. (tie) Ron Smith and Glen MacDonald, Florence Curran and Egerton Robertson.

Winners of the junior game were: N/S: 1. Babs Harris and Agnes Tipping; 2. Gladys Cropp and Kay Clark; 3. Percy and Florence Edwards; 4. and 5. (tie) Doris D. Amico and Bill Lamb, Roy Vaillancourt and Frank Willott.

E/W: 1. Frank and Phyllis Christian; 2. Joan Mitchell and Judy Langstaff; 3. Ed Harris and Robert Tipping; 4. Cliff and Addy Weatherhead; 5. Pete Herold and Sue Kelly.

Course In Worship

More than 90 men and women representing 21 different church congregations attended a study course in worship at St. David-by-the-Sea, Cordova Bay, on Sunday, Monday and Wednesday this week.

N.Z. Chief Admits Viet Trade

WELLINGTON (AP) — Prime Minister Keith J. Holyoake today confirmed reports that New Zealand is trading with North Viet Nam.

But he denied this trade could in any way assist Communist aggression against South Viet Nam.

Holyoake told a press conference: "On inquiry I find that any New Zealand goods which find their way to North Viet Nam could not have been considered to help the Communist regime to sustain in any way its aggressive policies against South Viet Nam.

"If this were so, the government would not hesitate to take speedy action to prevent such a development occurring."

Holyoake said New Zealand exports to north Viet Nam almost solely inedible tallow.

FOR COURAGEOUS EFFORTS DURING CALIFORNIA FLOODS

Canadian 'Copter Pilot Awarded Medal

HONG KONG (AP) — The United States today presented the U.S. Coast Guard commendation medal to the parents of a young Canadian helicopter pilot who was killed after helping rescue 13 persons in the California floods of 1964.

Sub - Lt. Alien Leonard Alltree, Royal Canadian Navy, was flying as an exchange co - pilot with the coast guard on rescue operations along the Ell River in northern California.

His helicopter had rescued 13 flood victims and was bringing out three more on an after-dark flight when it crashed at Arcata, Calif. All aboard were killed.

Alltree was 24 at the time and had served with the Royal Canadian Navy at Shearwater, N.S., before becoming an exchange pilot with the U.S. Coast Guard.

The coast guard medal and citation commending his courage, initiative, and devotion to duty was presented by U.S. Consul-General Edward Rice to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Alltree of Hong Kong.

TISDALLE CHARGES:

'Debt Write-Off Won't Relieve Pain of Death'

John Tisdalle (SC—Saanich) sharply criticized five government departments Thursday night in the legislature.

He peppered:

Public works department for failing to show signs it will build a promised 400-bed hospital in Saanich for retarded children;

Highways department for dragging its feet on widening Patricia Bay Highway and construction of an access 'ring road' for University of Victoria;

Foresty department for threatening to quarantine Vancouver Island nursery stocks of balsam trees;

Education department for not bringing down the teacher-pupil ratio in classrooms.

Finance department for not exempting plastic roll sheeting used by farmers from the 5 per cent sales tax.

"I think the premier has brought down a 'go' budget but we're going to require a go-go ministerial administration to carry it out," he concluded.

Mr. Tisdalle recalled he has fought for two years for construction of the promised retarded children's hospitals.

"But as far as I can gather from my research (of budget estimates and conversations with officials) there is very little likelihood of our having a retarded, mental and handicapped children's home here on this Island," he said.

Parents have phoned him in desperation recently asking if it was worth hoping or whether they should seek admission for their youngsters to the Woodlands institution in New Westminster.

Sympathy Doesn't Heal Wounds

Although Works Minister Chant is sympathetic, "sympathy doesn't heal the wounds of these children and their parents," he said.

"I think the parents have held their breath long enough and it is most necessary we have these facilities here soon."

Mr. Tisdalle criticized the budget's proposal to use $37 million of the tax surplus to wipe out B.C. Ferry Authority debt when the highway leading to Swartz Bay terminal can't properly handle present traffic and is causing numerous tragedies.

The debt write-off "is not going to relieve the pain of one parent bereaved by that highway," he said.

"This morning a young boy was the latest victim — a twisted bicycle and the boy almost as bad."

(He was referring to nine-year-old Kim Lucas who suffered a broken leg in an accident on Pat Bay Highway at Sayward.)

"This little lad is in the condition he is tonight in hospital because the highway won't handle its traffic."

He said less than 10 per cent has been spent of the $2 million widening promised last session.

"Promises are not sufficient to save lives. We need money spent there and it should be done this year."

Mr. Tisdalle said the University of Victoria, Saanich council and himself have been pressing the highways department to start building the $600,000 first phase of the ring road for the campus, between Ruby and Sinclair.

Unable To Get Any Information

"But I'm unable to get any information from the department on what is proposed to assist in this," he said. "I would hope the minister will take the prodding and see that access is provided to this university.

"It is a necessity if Finnerty Road is to be closed as planned in 1967."

Mr. Tisdalle said farmers are buying large quantities of rolled plastic sheeting as one of the methods of preventing the spread of golden nematode infestation and it was time the finance department recognized it as an agricultural supply so it could be exempted from sales tax.

He also criticized the forestry department which he said is preparing a proposal that would ban shipment of balsam trees from here as a method of preventing spread of the balsam wooly aphid to the interior forests.

Mr. Tisdalle said this will hit local nurseries hard, destroying the value of their present balsam stocks without preventing the aphid's spread because many stands of balsam in this area and others are extremely infected.

The ratio of pupils to teachers is too high and should be cut as a method of combating juvenile delinquency if nothing else, he argued.

"Pupils just can't get individual contact with the teacher" in present classrooms and this discourages learning and good behaviour.

HALL TAXATION BILL GETS SECOND READING

The legislature gave second reading—approval in principal—Thursday to a government bill aimed at removing property taxation on community halls and approved community groups in unorganized territory.

Premier Bennett, who introduced the Taxation Act amendment bill, said he hoped municipalities would follow the "government leadership" and give similar exemptions.

(Victoria city for years has paid the taxes for a long list of charitable and community organizations).

The premier indicated the amendment will apply to community halls, non-profit groups who operate summer camp facilities, picnic grounds, rehabilitation centres and similar facilities.

Rites Today For Veteran Of Red Cross

Funeral services were to be held in Christ Church Cathedral today for Mrs. Beatrice M. Dawson-Thomas, 95, who died Wednesday in hospital.

Born in Harpford, Devon, Mrs. Dawson-Thomas arrived in Canada in 1922 with her husband and daughter. Her husband died in 1936. She and her daughter Winnifred moved to Victoria in 1944.

Mrs. Dawson-Thomas was an active member of the Red Cross for 56 years. As Commandant of Somerset 14 Detachment of the British Red Cross from its formation in 1909, she was in charge of the Minehead Red Cross Hospital for wounded in the First World War. For her work she was awarded the M.B.E.

While in Duncan she organized an emergency hospital in the Guide Hall. She remained active as a Red Cross worker after arriving in Victoria.

She was an active member of the Cowichan Chapter I.O.D.E.

She is survived by her daughter at home, 951 Fairfield Road.

Witnesses Protest Blood Rule

TORONTO (CP)—Ontario will probably adopt the British view that doctors need not resort to the courts for permission to use blood transfusions where parents object, Attorney-General Arthur Wishart said Wednesday.

He was commenting in an interview on a statement by Health Minister Kenneth Robinson in the British House of Commons that hospitals have been told to rely on the clinical judgment of the consultants concerned after full discussion with the parents.

The report drew an angry objection from Toronto lawyer Glen Howe, who has represented Jehovah's Witnesses in court. The Witnesses object to transfusions on religious grounds.

Mr. Howe said 16,500 die each year in the United States alone by blood transfusions that go wrong. Canadian doctors who adopt the British view stand a good chance of facing legal action, he said.

IS IT UP TO THE CHURCH?

Bitter Poetry Follows Protest Against Welfare

Premier Bennett and leaders of an 82-citizen delegation seeking more welfare facilities for children summed up a meeting Thursday in contrasting terms.

And David Barrett (NDP—Dewdney) expressed his feelings about Welfare Minitser Black in poetically bitter terms in the legislature.

"It was a very interesting discussion and I'm confident that good will come out of it," said Premier Bennett who joined Mr. Black in receiving a submission from the group.

The leaders were more pessimistic of government action.

Said Mrs. Margaret Gilmaster, spokesman for the 32 persons from the Vancouver area:

COMMUNITY JOB?

"He listened and wanted to hear from everyone, then suggested that church ministers should ask their congregations to take in foster children because the community should look after its children."

Mrs. Ann Smith, publicity chairman for the Emotionally Disturbed Children's Association, and spokesman for the 46 persons from this area, added:

"We have had a lot of promises from the welfare minister, including a hospital for disturbed children, treatment centres and improved psychiatric treatment facilities at Brannen Lake.

"They were supposed to have broken ground for the hospital on Lee Avenue in December, then January. But they're still going around with a tape measure."

The hour-long meeting was a follow-up to a Dec. 20 session with Mr. Black which has since seen charges that at that time he told the group's leaders that children were second to forests in importance to the province.

The minister has denied the allegation, Mr. Barrett told the house, "but I've heard similar statements from the minister myself."

He read a poem he had composed about it, sarcastically entitled "The Black Forest":

"I think that I shall never see
"A child as lovely as a tree
"However parenthood be planned,
"No child can match productive land:
"A child just sits and costs all day
"But trees lift leafy arms and pay.
"A child with hungry mouth and eye
"Makes saving difficult: We try
"To draw the line between devotion
"And rather over-priced emotion
"As firmly as we can—Alack!
"The future may indeed be Black.
"I'll gladly rank a son or daughter
"Ahead of coal or fish or water,
"But valuewise, a child, of course,
"Is just our second-best resource."

250 Publications Termed 'Obscene' By Quebec Board

QUEBEC (CP) — Twenty-seven area police chiefs have received a list of 250 publications judged "obscene" by the Quebec Cinema Censor Board, Chief Fernand Lapointe of Suburban Ste. Foy said here Thursday.

The chief is president of the Quebec District Police Chiefs' Association. The association has formed a committee to submit publications to the censor board, which are deemed "immoral."

No date has been set for resumed seizures of the books, but Chief Lapointe said the 27 members of the association will strike in unison, all on the same day at the same hour.

The crackdown began in January.

Will the Laird allow his single malt whisky to marry?

The Laird's pride and joy is a rare malt whisky his family has been distilling for generations, deep in the Scottish highlands.

It's one of the 42 different whiskies that are expertly blended to create Ballantine's Scotch. Once blended, these whiskies are allowed to mingle, or "marry", in oaken casks for a period of years.

It's a natural process. And it's the only way to impart the mellow smoothness and authentic flavour that is Ballantine's.

Most whiskies are made this way. But with some, it's a marriage of convenience.

The Laird would have none of that.

His whisky, and the others that go into Ballantine's, are made for each other.

You might even call it a love match.

Your first sip of Ballantine's will tell you what marriage is all about.

FOR LIBRARY BOARD

City Responsible For All Books

Victoria's finance committee Thursday approved a draft agreement which would see the establishment of an Inter-municipal Library Board.

City solicitor T. P. O'Grady told the committee that the joint board would be responsible for the operation of the main branch of the library and would also administrate any branches opened in surrounding municipalities.

If the agreement is approved by respective councils the integrated board will assume duties immediately.

Under the agreement Victoria would provide books for branch libraries but the building or renting of suitable branch headquarters would be the responsibility of the municipality concerned.

Mr. O'Grady said the city library had enough books on hand to stock branch libraries.

"The books used and any books purchased in the future become and remain the property of the city," he said. "This isn't quite as one-sided as it sounds for if the board were ever dissolved the books would undoubtedly remain in the branch in question."

The finance committee also approved a $50,000 grant to the Victoria Visitors Bureau.

The same amount was granted last year.

The cost of consolidating city bylaws and binding them for the first time between hard covers came to $6,491.

The city's finance committee approved payment of the bill at their regular meeting.

Ald. Lily Wilson said the publication of the bylaws in book form had been a great boon to aldermen.

Copies of the bound bylaws can be purchased at a cost of $30 a copy.

When the Left Handed Golfers Association holds its first international tournament in Victoria this summer the week of play will be designated "Lefty Golf Week".

Mayor A. W. Toone said he had been most impressed by the amount of work done by the association in promoting their tournament and Victoria.

"They have already distributed 50,000 brochures across the United States and Canada," he said. "I would be very pleased to encourage them by designating the week of play 'Lefty Golf Week'."

300,000 HIT BY FLU BUG

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Aspirin, plenty of liquid, and rest was the mass prescription today for more than 300,000 bedridden Californians waylaid by a devastating Asian flu epidemic that raged throughout the state.

In Los Angeles, hardest hit by the three-day attack, eight parochial schools were closed because of a teacher shortage, and absenteeism ranged as high as 37 per cent. Public schools remained open.

HEAVY SECURITY

CANBERRA (Reuters)—Vice-President Hubert Humphrey arrived in this Australian city today from India more than an hour behind schedule.

Humphrey was met on arrival by Prime Minister Harold Holt, External Affairs Minister Paul Hasluck, and U.S. Ambassador Edward Clark.

Security precautions for the vice - president's arrival exceeded any ever seen in Canberra, including those for royal visits.

Famed Antarctic Explorer Dies

GREAT YARMOUTH, England (Reuters)—George Ross, in whose arms explorer Sir Ernest Shackleton died in 1922, has died at 76, it was learned today.

Ross, a survivor of Shackleton's last Antarctic expedition, made a cross for the explorer's grave in South Georgia, Antarctica, after he died aboard the ship Quest. Ross died at his home here.

After-Jail Treatment Lacking for Inmates

VANCOUVER (CP) — Peter Stein, assistant director of the British Columbia John Howard Society, said Tuesday Canada's treatment of ex-convicts is like a poor football coaching job.

Mr. Stein told a service club audience that not enough former inmates are being given after-jail care.

He said it is like a football coach who spends all week training his team, giving chalk talks and explaining strategy, only to be absent on the day of the big game.

Mr. Stein said the federal government spends about $45,000,000 a year to house prisoners while the parole service gets only $714,000.

He said jails which keep convicts from all but limited contact with the outside world are needed for only a small hard-core group of convicts.

He called for day parole programs, where a prisoner works outside the jail but sleeps inside, and closer supervision of ex-convicts.

Ex-Mayor Dies

KELOWNA (CP)—D. K. Gordon, 73, mayor in 1932 and 1933, died here Thursday. Mr. Gordon, born in Perth, Scotland, moved here in 1912 and was alderman from 1929-31.

Arthur Mayse

In this year when we celebrate our union with mainland British Columbia, we might spare a thought and perhaps a sigh for the Vancouver Island Secession Party. This was a lost-cause group organized and led by the late journalist, sage and historian, B. A. "Pinky" McKelvie.

The secessionists preached quite simply and devoutly to any who would listen that Vancouver Island can expect absolutely nothing from mainland British Columbia except the short and dirty end of the stick. Better, they insisted, that we sever the bond of 1866 and take our rightful place as Canada's eleventh province.

Today, the splendid isolation they craved is still further menaced. If the Pickersgill causeway doesn't do us in, the Gaglardi sea tube will. Over the one or through the other, the mainland hordes will be upon us.

In the name of progress, we may then see this poor distressful island of ours raped and plundered in a fashion to make even an old-time cut-and-clear-out logger swallow his snoose-juice.

★

Naturally, all this isn't going to happen the day after tomorrow. Mr. Gaglardi sees his underwater umbilical cord as a comfortable quarter-century distant. As for the causeway, the general feeling among the knowledgeable seems to be that the first hegale to hit the Gulf would roll it up like a carpet.

Still, it might be as well in anticipation of changing times, if we take that weasel word, progress, by its scruff and subject it to a thoughtful scrutiny.

You progress by going toward one point and away from another. Where, then, are we heading, and what are we leaving behind?

The last half of that question is easier to answer than the first.

Behind us is the era of coal and saw-logs, when a sparse population enjoyed the good and endured the bad in a state of insularity almost beyond belief.

That's how it used to be, in the years before war and post-war prosperity re-arranged and drastically expanded the Canadian population. But those years are past, and they won't return.

We have with us a present at which we seem to have arrived all in a rush . . . and here comes the future, edging and greedily pushing, before we're halfway ready to accommodate it.

Before we add too many mistakes to those already made and beyond recall, I think we should quit accepting the cry of "progress demands!" as sufficient excuse for short-sighted folly.

The intrusion permitted for the sake of a fast buck may permanently damage or even wipe out an irreplaceable asset.

A current case in point is the intrusion by miners into Strathcona Park. How long the producing life of any mine or mines in that area will be, we can only guess. From hard-earned experience, however, I suggest it will be much shorter than the professionally optimistic promoters would have us believe.

Against the long-term value of Strathcona to our Island and provincial economy, whatever we take in government revenue from mining in that unique park is the merest pittance.

I do not mean in beauty marred or a tract of true wilderness desecrated, but loss in dollars and cents.

Strathcona, untouched, was part of the stock in trade of what within a very few years may well be Vancouver Island's chief revenue producer. This is tourism. It's big now. It will be a lot bigger if we give it half a chance.

Apart from the forest industries, which if well managed will provide jobs and revenue until wood is outmoded, I fail to see an industrial future of any real consequence for us here. What I do see, if we cherish our shores, waters and wildlands, snatch our waning sport fishery back to health and bring order into our chaotic resort picture, is an economic future brighter than most.

FORMING CIRCLES across playground area of Vic West School, 120 elementary school youngsters polish up folk dances for massive gym display next Friday. Everything from rope climbing to jazz dancing will be demonstrated when YM-YWCA and Navy join Greater Victoria school students for event. Other features shown to public will be ball rhythms, circuit training, tumbling, square dancing, volleyball and Olympic gymnastics, starting at 8 p.m. in Gordon Head gymnasium of University of Victoria. Jewelry Thief Rifles Suite

Jewelry value at $820 was stolen Thursday from an Oak Bay Avenue apartment, city police said today.

The items, four rings and a gold bracelet were taken from the Senator Apartments suite of Mrs. Edith Jones, 1764 Oak Bay Avenue.

Police found no sign of forced entry into the apartment but pieces of metal were found in the door lock.

Taken from a dresser drawer were two diamond rings, a gold ring and a diamond and ruby ring.

The rings are valued at $200 each and the gold bracelet is worth $20, police said.

A. C. Ellison returned to his 1490 Dallas Road home after a month-long vacation Thursday to find it broken into.

A small pane of glass in a rear door was smashed to gain entry. Police said a bedroom was ransacked and $1 in change taken.

Judge 'Paned' By Story

A man who went on a window-breaking spree in downtown Victoria Thursday night found it costly in central court today.

Duane Blais, 24, of HMCS Mackenzie, was fined $100 and ordered to replace three windows valued at $170.

He pleaded guilty to charges of wilful damage.

Court was told he broke one window at Palm Springs and European Health Spa, 1315 Government Street, then went next door to Arrow Furniture.

LAY ON FLOOR

There he smashed a seven-by-six-foot window and a door window. Police found him inside the premises lying on the floor.

He told the court he broke the windows to attract attention as he was being chased by men in a car.

"Your story ranks with some of the most incomprehensible I've ever heard," commented Magistrate William Ostler.

Runaway Blast Hurts Motorist In City Centre

A passing motorist was struck by debris and two windows shattered by a blasting accident in downtown Victoria Thursday.

Wilfred Jones, 750 Cook, was treated at hospital with head bruises after a piece of hard clay flew in the window of the van he was driving at Douglas and View.

Two other pieces of earth or rock broke a window in Gibson's Ladies Wear and a second story office building across Douglas from an excavation site.

Mr. Jones lost control of his vehicle but it came to rest without further incident. A passenger was uninjured.

The blast was fired by workmen excavating for a new F. W. Woolworth Company store. There is hoarding around the site but the debris blew over it.

HMS Pinafore Closes Gangway

For the second time in two weeks, the "sold out" notice has gone up on a show at McPherson Playhouse.

Sellout tonight and Saturday is for HMS Pinafore, staged by Naden Amateur Concert Symphony with a cast, most of whom have never been in a show of this kind before.

The popular Gilbert and Sullivan offering has drawn big audiences since it opened Tuesday night.

High on its list of assets is a good orchestra composed of HMCS Naden band personnel and Victoria Symphony Orchestra string players. Conductor is Capt. J. M. Gayfer.

What's the difference between a Victorian and a Winnipeger?

About 97 degrees.

One of the coldest nights in Manitoba history sent the Winnipeg mercury tumbling to 49 degrees below zero. That's colder than a polar bear's tailbone.

In Victoria today the weather was 47, nudging 50, above zero.

The weather office at Winnipeg said the overnight low was coldest recorded in the 20th century.

Temperatures were under 40 below in almost every Manitoba centre. Brochet in northwest Manitoba registered 60 below.

Winnipegers who have moved to Victoria were smiling today.

OUT OF THE FRYING PAN

He Stole to Pay Fine

A youth who stole $87 and $161 in tools admitted in central court today to four break-ins.

James Grant Laurie, 19, of 660 Atkins Road, was remanded to Feb. 28 for pre-sentence report and sentence.

Three of the burglaries occurred on successive days this week.

Laurie was arrested at his home Thursday morning by Saanich police after his fourth break-in.

SMASHED WINDOW

Court was told he smashed a window to break into Suburban Motors garage at 3393 Douglas Jan. 16 where he took $26 from a cigarette machine.

Monday night he broke into the offices of Victoria Water Board, Old Island Highway, and took $12 from a desk drawer.

Tuesday he entered Ben's B-A, Old Island Highway, stole $33 and tools worth $75.

Wednesday night he smashed a window at Burnside Home Service, 2 Burnside Road W., and took $16 from a cigarette machine and tools worth $86.

When arrested he told police he needed the money to pay a traffic fine.

Topics of the Day

A stolen wallet turned up on the owner's front porch Thursday but without any money.

E. C. Banks, 1830 Crescent, told police he is missing $12 in U.S. bills and $4 Canadian.

A man who tried to start a fight Thursday night at Yates and Douglas was fined $50 in central court today for causing a disturbance.

Hendrikus Haamers, 939 Collinson, pleaded guilty.

Court was told he was shouting and swearing at occupants of a car at Douglas and Yates.

When police were talking to the persons in the car on Broad St., he returned and began again, court was told.

WHERE IS IT NOW? This old car is described in Times library as the first car in Nanaimo. It would be an invaluable addition to the vintage car collection the B.C. government plans to parade across the province in July. Many similar old-timers took part in 1958 run from Fernie to Victoria. Tour was a crowd pleaser.

Cars of Yesteryear Invited on B.C. Run

A parade of vintage cars will wend across British Columbia this summer.

The tour is sponsored by Canadian Confederation Centennial Committee as part of 1966 centenary celebrations. It begins July 2 at New Westminster and ends in Victoria July 9.

The course, subject to changes:

From New Westminster to Agassiz, to Hope, to Princeton, to Penticton, to Osoyoos, to Kelowna, to Salmon Arm, to Kamloops, to Barriere, to North Kamloops to Cache Creek, to Chilliwack, to Langley, to North Vancouver, to Nanaimo, to Victoria.

All cars must have been manufactured in 1936 or earlier. Rules drawn up by the Vintage Car Committee of the Provincial Centennial Committee state that cars do not have to be in mint condition but must be of good appearance complete with all standard parts, in sound mechanical condition, with sound tires.

Owners of Vintage Cars who would like to take them on tour are invited to apply for application forms to the Canadian Confederation Centennial Committee, Parliament Buildings, Victoria, or to the co-ordinator of the run, Frank Appelbe, Suite 7, 5860 Tisdall Street, Vancouver. Closing date for applications will be May 15, 1966, after which 30 cars will be chosen to make the run.

Bid to Get Liners Here Ruled Out

Victoria today lost its chance to be west coast Canadian terminal for P & O-Orient line's oceanic service.

Victoria Chamber of Commerce director Tom Denny reported to a noon meeting he had been in touch with P & O-Orient offices in San Francisco this morning. He learned the company had renewed its contract with the CPR to use Vancouver harbor facilities.

Chamber of Commerce study was undertaken when Vancouver port facilities were in doubt as far as P & O trans-Pacific and world cruise ships were concerned.

HAD CHANCE

Victoria stood a good chance of becoming the Canadian west coast terminal, although Ogden Point facilities were not quite suitable.

The chamber produced an argument in favor of Esquimalt Harbor as the docking point, and preliminary discussions with P&O Lines were encouraging.

Besides Canadian embarkations from Vancouver, P&O caters to a large part of the Pacific Northwest.

The chamber was told company officials did not consider Victoria to be a disadvantage, as far as connections with the mainland were concerned.

EX-MLA, TEACHER DIES HERE AT 75

James Harry Beatty, proprietor of Victoria's Sprott-Shaw school for 50 years and Conservative member of the B.C. Legislature for Victoria City from 1928 to 1933, died in the Royal Jubilee Hospital early today.

He was 75 and had lived in Victoria since 1913.

Born at Frankford, Ont., Mr. Beatty moved out to Vancouver in 1908 to become assistant manager of the Sprott-Shaw Business Institute. In 1913 he opened a school in Victoria under the same name and continued as teacher and proprietor until he sold the business in 1963.

During the First and Second World Wars the school trained hundreds of radio operators for the Royal Canadian Navy and the Merchant Marine. And it met the challenge of the depression with high quality business and commercial training.

ROTARIAN

Mr. Beatty was a past president of Victoria Chamber of Commerce and held many offices in Victoria Rotary Club. He also belonged to Vancouver Quadra Lodge No. 2, A.F. & A.M., and the Gizeh Shrine of Victoria.

In his younger years he played basketball with his students at the Sprott-Shaw school and was known for his musical ability as a cornet player.

JAMES H. BEATTY
. . . here since 1913

As a member of the legislature, Mr. Beatty was active in the private bills committee and campaigned vigorously for civic improvements.

He is survived by the widow, Jean, at the family home at 1009 Terrace Avenue, Victoria, and a stepdaughter, Mrs. Maurice Palmer at Port Renfrew.

Funeral arrangements will be announced later by Haywards Ltd., 734 Broughton Street.

STRATHCONA FIGHT

Boundary Change For Park?

Buttle Protection Policy Emerging

The broad indications of a compromise permitting a townsite near the controversial Western Mines operation but technically preserving the year-old Parks Act emerged today.

And a government policy statement reflected a tough attitude against any pollution or discoloration of Buttle Lake or Myra Creek.

Both events occurred during the third session of a special legislative committee studying the proposed location of a temporary townsite inside Strathcona Park near the new mine.

Howard Paish, secretary-manager of the B.C. Wildlife Federation, told the committee his organization would rather see the park's artificial map boundary changed to permit siting of the town rather than set a precedent which would undermine the act "at its first real test."

Trade Minister Ralph Loffmark later told the Times the government's view of the investigation would not forbid the committee from making such a recommendation.

FREE TO PROBE

Earlier, he told the committee that it was entirely free to investigate the possibility of the mining operation itself polluting or discoloring the watershed in any way.

He said the cabinet was disturbed at a suggestion earlier this week that the committee was being prevented from making any recommendations aimed at stopping dumping of fine rock silt into Myra Creek which might discolor the surface water of the creek or lake.

C. M. Campbell, manager of Western Mines, told the committee he was misunderstood in reports saying the company would do this or that it would make the lake murky. He said it is only a proposal under study and there would not be any residual murkiness to the surface waters.

Mr. Loffmark said any recommendations by the committee aimed at preventing the water from being discolored by either toxic or non-toxic substances would receive "the most serious consideration—I want to make that clear."

Mr. Paish made a submission that strongly urged exclusion of the town from the park even though it could be set up on the other side of the unnatural boundary line with less stringent controls.

But Forest Minister Ray Williston said this would be worse because a poorly-planned permanent community could be established which would be even more destructive to the recreational aspects of the general Buttle Lake area than a strictly-controlled temporary town.

Mr. Paish agreed with Mr. Williston but said the federation's submission was based on the argument that the most important thing was to prevent a precedent being established which would result in "thousands of applications" for residential concessions by companies and individuals in all provincial parks.

He said the federation felt that the mine alone would destroy the natural park aspects of its area and this could not be saved and the government should "go whole hog and remove this area from the park" rather than allow a townsite inside park borders, too.

"You would not be opposed to moving the park boundary then?" asked Mr. Loffmark.

"We recommended it 18 months ago. We wrote the minister that the ideal situation—if it is sincerely felt that the mine is more important than the park facility there—would be to remove this area from park status," replied Mr. Paish.

OPEN TO ARGUMENT

No member of the committee made any direct comment proposing this course but it undoubtedly will come up after hearings are over and it comes to grips with making recommendations. Mr. Loffmark's response indicated the government would not forbid such consideration.

Al King, representing the Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers indicated his union would support such a compromise. He said the union was opposed to industrial permits in provincial parks but the Western Mines situation was a "fait accompli."

Since locating a townsite outside the park would not restore the damage the mining operation would do to the natural recreational values of the area, it would be creating an unfair hardship to the miners and their families to refuse them the opportunity of living near their work, he said.

Mr. Paish said the federation "has faith" the fish and game branch, federal fisheries branch and B.C. Pollution Control Board would prevent pollution in the waters but only if they are brought into the picture immediately.

POINT OF NO RETURN

"They must be involved right from the start before you have a situation that has gone past the point of no return."

"You're not without friends in respect to pollution control," interjected Mr. Loffmark.

Federal fisheries officials should be involved, Mr. Paish said, because the Buttle Lake watershed drains into the Campbell River which is an important salt water salmon run.

Ask The Times

Q. Will you please tell me how many years ago it was since wood box covering was used as covering on car batteries?

A. This is still in use in some vehicles today, informs a local battery dealer.

The two-volt battery cells are covered individually by a rubber composition and enclosed in a wooden box.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to the Times, addressed to "Ask the Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve conundrums or legal problems. Nor will it attempt to put a value on old coins, stamps or antiques. These should be submitted to a dealer.

Featherless Friend Makes Meals a Treat

By Penny Saver

The other day, as I set out downtown, I promised the family that I would bring something special home for dinner. I knew that I would be too tired to prepare anything, so I had a meal suggestion in mind that would only need, at the most, some reheating. By mid-afternoon, the idea of having a hot meal delivered to the door at dinner time seemed like the simplest thing to do. However, I was too carried away with shopping and forgot all about that. Close to shop closing-time, I was exhausted, but not so tired as to want to let the family down.

With not much time to spare, I rushed into one food store, in pursuit of the delicatessen department. I didn't have anything particular in mind, until I saw a golden brown chicken in a heated glass container. That was for me.

This bird, a delicious meal for $1.85, was enough for four healthy servings. A smaller barbecued bird, enough for three servings, sells for $1.65.

The birds are placed in a foil-lined bag so that they remain warm. When you get them home, just pop the bag and its contents into a 350 degree oven for 20 minutes. The result is delicious.

For an accompaniment, what could be better than an ample serving of seasoned potato salad? One pound of this salad, with a slightly tart dressing, sells for 50 cents. My family loved it.

One day, I overheard two girls discussing plans for a party that they were about to have. The problem in mind was what kind of food to serve. One suggested either spaghetti or pizza. The other, who had just had a spaghetti party, didn't fancy an encore.

Both agreed on the pizza party, but their guest list was made out for 22 people. Enough pizza for that number requires a lot of work, and a lot of dough — no pun intended! Pizza mixes, with prepared dough, tomato sauce, and a tin of Parmesan cheese, are a simple solution for 51 cents. All that you have to do to the dough is add water, mix and let it rise in a warm place for about 10 minutes. Then, mold it onto the pizza pans, add the sauce, and garnish it with anything from anchovies and mushrooms to bacon and cold meats. Baking time in a hot oven is 25 minutes.

These foods are special treats in our household. If you want to know where Penny found them, give her a call at 382-3131.

Neely reported that the sum of $450 was realized from the recent Symphony Ball. It was also announced that the committee would sponsor a play at Langham Court Theatre in June.

THE BETTER HALF

By Bob Barnes

"The materials would cost next to nothing, and your getting a part-time job would easily cover my model's fees."

Distinctive hand-knitted fashions will be the featured attraction, Monday, when the Auxiliary to the Victorian Order of Nurses presents "Fantasy in Wool." The show will have two performances, 2 p.m. and 8 p.m. in the Greater Victoria Art Gallery, and refreshments will be served. The attractive trio previewing several of the outfits from Boutique de Laine, are, left to right, Mrs. R. E. Russell, Mrs. A. J. Hoey and Mrs. H. F. Hallatt.

DEAR ABBY ...

Let It Be Known!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I have positive proof that my husband is running around with five women in this neighborhood. Three live on my block and all have good and faithful husbands. Then there is a divorcee down the street, and a young widow in the next block. Each thinks she is the only one. I hate to walk down the street because I know who they are. What should I do?

HIS WIFE

DEAR WIFE: If you want to break up the harem, invite them all for coffee and conversation and tell them what they have in common. That should cut down the membership considerably. And don't worry about punishing your husband. The others will take care of that!

DEAR ABBY: A real nice guy who works with me has been looking awfully tired lately, so I asked him if he had not been feeling well. He replied, "Our six-year-old boy has always slept with the wife and me because he's afraid to sleep alone. Now we bought him a dog that's part-German shepherd and part-Labrador, and the boy won't go to sleep unless he has the dog next to him, so I don't get much sleep in such crowded conditions." He was absolutely serious. Abby, how idiotic can people be?

AMAZED

DEAR AMAZED: A father who lets his six-year-old son sleep with him and his wife, and then can't say no when the boy demands to include the dog, is in for many more sleepless nights. This "real nice" guy needs a "real good friend" to tell him what's what.

DEAR ABBY: Years ago I entered into a "shotgun" marriage. The agreement was that we marry to legalize the child's birth, the mother would raise the child, and we would go our separate ways. We never lived together.

Several years later my "wife" called me from another town to tell me that she had gotten a divorce and had remarried. I then remarried a lovely girl.

The other day my first wife MAILED me some divorce papers to sign! She admitted she had lied to me about having obtained the divorce years ago, and she is just now getting it. Abby, I have a wife and family. How do I get out of this mess without a lot of publicity? Can we secretly marry quickly in another province? For obvious reasons I can't divulge my name, and don't want to discuss this with a lawyer.

DESPERATE

DEAR DESPERATE: When people have a medical problem, they can't get a doctor fast enough. Why, then, when they have a legal problem, are they reluctant to get a lawyer? Laws are made to HELP people as well as to punish them, you know. And a lawyer can protect you by telling you what your rights are.

CONFIDENTIAL TO GARY: Don't let it bother you. It's always the girl who can't dance who says the orchestra is terrible.

Red and White

A bowl of snowdrops, flanked by white candles, highlighted a red and silver cloth on the head table when the Salt Spring Island Woman's Auxiliary held a Valentine tea in the parish hall at Ganges, Saturday. The sum of $87 was realized.

Receiving guests were Mrs. R. B. Horsefield and Mrs. Eric Faure. Presiding at the refreshment table were Mrs. Dorothy Hook, Mrs. Joyce Parsons, Mrs. R. R. Alton and Mrs. R. T. Cook.

General convener was Mrs. George Laundry and Mrs. V. L. Jackson was in charge of tea arrangements.

Other conveners were: Home baking, Mrs. N. W. Howland and Mrs. H. Ashby; needlework, Mrs. G. H. Holmes and Mrs. Edward Adams; tickets. Mrs. Harold Price.

Mrs. Parker Again Made Regent Of Salt Spring Island Chapter

Mrs. F. K. Parker was returned for another year in the office of regent when HMS Ganges Chapter IODE held its annual meeting in Ganges United Church Hall, Salt Spring Island. Mrs. O. L. Stanton presided and Mrs. V. C. Best took the chair for the election of officers.

Serving with Mrs. Parker on the new slate of officers are: First vice-regent, Mrs. O. L. Stanton; second, Mrs. E. A. Richardson; secretary, Mrs. H. J. Carlin; assistant secretary, Mrs. J. Pitts; treasurer, Mrs. Joyce Parsons; education, Mrs. G. D. Cruickshanks; Echoes, Mrs. Best; services at home and abroad, Mrs. Colin King; standard bearer, Mrs. Gavin C. Mouat.

Heading standing committees are: Membership, Mrs. George St. Denis; world affairs, Mrs. G. H. Holmes; commonwealth relations, Mrs. T. W. Portlock; public relations, Mrs. Parker; hospital, Mrs. W. M. Mouat and tea, Mrs. C. S. Hewett.

In her services at home and abroad report, Mrs. B. Earl Hardie said that donations valued at $724 had been given in this department. They included 15 bundles of books sent to Canadian servicemen in Germany, jewelry and clothing sent to the women's apparel shop at Riverview Hospital, Essondale; hampers for Island residents.

In addition, the chapter had organized a community tag day in aid of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind and members had given many hours of service with the local library and hospital auxiliary.

Mrs. Holmes read a paper, "Children's Commonwealth Conference" which told of the conference, organized by an English school principal in a Sussex town to bring more than 200 children from seven schools together to hear speakers from several Commonwealth countries.

Mrs. Gavin Mouat and Mrs. Holmes served tea at the close of the meeting.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Use Brush on Eyebrows For That Natural Look

Lowman

Q. I don't know what to do about my eyebrows. They are rather thin and I need to use an eyebrow pencil. However I just can't seem to use it with "feathery" strokes. No matter how hard I try you can still see the little lines. What am I doing wrong?

A. Use your finger to blend the little lines. The idea is to avoid one hard straight line. You might like to brush on your brows instead of using a pencil. This type brow coloring is easy to apply. You simply rub the little brush over the powder or cake and then brush on your brows. They look very natural.

Q. I am always reading that brows should be plucked only underneath, not on top. My brows are fuzzy at the top and don't look well-groomed or well-defined unless I pluck some hairs above the brows. Am I wrong?

A. When shaping the brows, pluck them only at the lower level. You can safely remove any stray hairs on top which are out of the natural line of the brow. You should do this.

Q. Sometimes I read that mascara should be applied to the lower lashes. This makes my eyes look like daisies or something. I feel silly.

A. While there is nothing wrong with looking like a daisy, I agree that the effect is usually much more attractive when mascara is used only on the upper lashes. A tiny little line at the outer corners of the eyes, made with an eyebrow pencil, adds zest for gala occasions.

Q. My makeup looks fine in daytime but at night it looks awful, sort of washed out and nil. Why?

A. Your makeup does not have enough pink in it for night-time. Artificial lighting washes out the pink. Try one at night which is pinker.

Q. I am only 35 but I have deep horizontal lines on my forehead. It seems to me that I am too young to have these. What could have caused it?

A. You almost surely have the habit of lifting your eyebrows. This facial mannerism will etch lines on a very young face if indulged in habitually. The first thing you must do is to correct this habit. Also massage a lubricating cream along the lines each night using your finger in a rotary motion. You can help by "ironing" them out.

Coffee Party

The Fine Arts Study Group of the University Women's Club of Victoria has extended an open invitation to everyone to attend a scholarship coffee party, Wednesday.

Proceeds from the affair, being held from 11 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. in the home of Mrs. R. M. Adamson, 1684 Yale Street, will go toward a scholarship to send a student to the Victoria Summer School of Music.

Mrs. M. C. M. Matheson is convening the event and presiding at the refreshment table will be Mrs. W. G. Jewitt, Mrs. Jay Durand, Mrs. T. H. Johns and Mrs. J. W. McCammon. A door prize will be offered.

Complexion Beautifier

The complexion should take on new beauty, through the use of a moisturizing discovery that feeds moisture to the skin. It revitalises the skins water carriers and the complexion should quickly take on a glorious youthful bloom. Smoothed over the face and neck before makeup is applied, this moisturizer helps make the complexion youthfully clear, wrinkle-free and lovely. For the information of readers, discovery referred to is known as CEP 600 in single strength and CEP 1200 double strength. It is found only in "2nd Debut." At drug and department stores.

Two ways. Kotex napkins are softer on the outside because of their unique covering. It's smoother, gentler, downier—but very strong. They're softer on the inside too, thanks to multiple layers of featherlight filler. Try them. They're softer. 4 proportioned sizes—Regular, Super, Slenderline, Maternity.

Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Neligan, 4156-Carey Road, announce the forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Margaret Helen, to Mr. D. James Steven Peterson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Peterson of Hudson, Ont. The wedding will take place on Saturday, March 12, at 7 p.m. in St. Andrew's Cathedral. (Meyers Studio).

Victoria Man Married In Up-Island Church

A wedding of interest in Victoria took place at Port Alberni recently when Miss Carol Eileen Smith exchanged vows and rings with Michael Richard Walker.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. K. R. Smith of Port Alberni. The groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Walker, 658 Sedger Road, Victoria.

Rev. George Affleck officiated at the evening ceremony in First United Church and Mrs. Nancy McLennon sang "I'll Walk Beside You" during the signing of the register.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was lovely in a full-length gown of white lace that was fashioned with a sweetheart neckline on the fitted bodice and graceful, full skirt. Her waist-length veil misted from a pearl coronet. Pink roses and stephanotis formed her bouquet.

Miss Gail Smith was maid of honor for her sister. Her floor-length gown of turquoise brocade had a matching jacket and was complemented with a bouquet of turquoise-tipped carnations. Pink carnations were in the bouquet carried by flower girl, Judy Sauchuk, matching those in her hair. Her pink nylon frock was styled with a tiered skirt.

Ronald Parker was best man and ushering guests were the bride's twin brothers, Kenneth and Richard Smith.

Pink and white streamers decorated the church's Fellowship Hall for the reception and dinner which followed the service. The same color theme was used on the wedding cake, which had been decorated by the bride's father.

Leaving on a honeymoon trip to Vancouver Island centres, the bride donned a royal blue double-knit suit, red accessories and a corsage of white carnation tipped in scarlet.

Several Victorians travelled to Port Alberni for the ceremony, including the groom's parents, his brothers, Ronald and Jack Jr. and his sister, Maureen. Also from Victoria were Mr. and Mrs. J. Tullock, Mrs. Clara Butler, Fred Thomas, Miss Una Hall, Keith Freeman, Mrs. Gail O'Brian and Mrs. R. Parker.

Other out-of-town guests were Mrs. J. Patterson and Mr. and Mrs. T. Douglas, all of Nanaimo; Mr. and Mrs. G. Willoughby of Jordan River.

Top Designer

MONTREAL (CP) — Marielle Fleury, one of Montreal's most promising couturieres, has been selected as Canada's fashion designer of the year by fashion writers across the country.

Miss Fleury, who designs fashionable but classic clothes with an accent on color and fabric, was awarded top honors for the best exclusive creation in the national collection competition sponsored by the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union.

Miss Fleury's creation was a sophisticated dinner ensemble. It consisted of a ruffle banded, low-backed dress of green crepe, covered by a light wool boucle coat of white, with the same hem detailing.

Two other designers, John Warden, originally of Niagara Falls, Ont., and Mr. Gilbert of Montreal, also won awards for their original creations.

John Warden designed the best ensemble for Auckie Sanft while Mr. Gilbert received the award for the best evening dress.

Entertain Competitors

Visiting competitors from Vancouver and Seattle and members of the Victoria Racquet Club will gather in the castle of Canadian Services College, Royal Roads, for a tea, Saturday afternoon. The visitors are in Victoria to compete in the Pacific Northwest Squash tournament this weekend. Saturday evening, the Pacific Club will be the setting for a dinner and dance, to be preceded by cocktails at 7 p.m. More than 100 members of the Victoria club and competitors are expected to attend. Hosts of the affair, being sponsored by the Racquet Club, will be Dr. Arthur Proctor, tournament director, and Mr. George Evans, squash director. Fred Usher's orchestra will play for dancing.

Young Dancers

Miss Peggy Stein, a student of the University of British Columbia, has arrived in Victoria to attend the Young People's Dance tonight in Government House. Another UBC student, Miss Sheila Dobson, of Duncan, will also attend the ball. Both are staying in the Upper Terrace home of Miss Stein's parents, Maj.-Gen. C. R. Stein and Mrs. Stein.

Pre-Dance Fun

Thirty members of the young set will gather in the Fairfield Road home of Capt. W. P. Hayes, RCN, and Mrs. Hayes this evening prior to attending the Young People's Dance at Government House. The party is being arranged by Miss Jane Hayes and Miss Janet Dixon, daughter of Cmdr. Garfield Dixon and Mrs. Dixon. Both the young hostesses are 1965 debutantes.

Naval Show

Several reserve naval officers of HMCS Malahat and their wives have made up a party to attend this evening's performance of HMS Pinafore in the McPherson Playhouse. They include Cmdr. and Mrs. W. F. Walker, Cmdr. and Mrs. R. D. Learoyd, Lt.-Cmdr. and Mrs. A. N. Foxgord, Lt.-Cmdr. and Mrs. E. K. Lee, Lt.-Cmdr. and Mrs. K. A. Stone, Lt.-Cmdr. and Mrs. R. S. Vickers, Lt.-Cmdr. and Mrs. L. Cottell, Lieut. and Mrs. R. E. Huffman, Lieut. and Mrs. S. Gill and Sub-Lt. (W) Jennifer Dyer.

From Vancouver

Travelling from Vancouver to attend the Young People's Ball in Government House this evening, was Miss Kathryn Jane Keate. She arrived in Victoria this afternoon and will spend the weekend as guest of Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Arnott in their Fairfield Road Home.

Announcement

Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Wescott, 1415 Simon Road, announce the recent marriage of their daughter, Gay, to Mr. Kenneth Gordon Leveridge, only son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Leveridge, 1341 Haultain Street. The wedding took place on Friday, Feb. 4, in the chapel of St. John's Anglican Church with Canon Grahame Baker officiating.

Recent Wedding

Mrs. M. L. Cawsey, 3071 Wascana Street, announces the recent marriage of her granddaughter, Miss Dauna M. Blatchford, to Mr. Robert A. Ellis, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Ellis of Barham, N.S.W., Australia. The ceremony took place in the Wascana Street home of Mr. and Mrs. R. Murray, and Rev. T. H. McAllister officiated. Mr. D. S. Bissett gave the bride in marriage, maid of honor was Miss Carmen Varcoe, and best man, Mr. Robert Clarke. Mr. G. E. Rogers proposed the toast to the bride at the reception which followed. The newlyweds are now making their home at 923 McClure Street.

Formal Dinner

Covers were laid for six when Miss Susan MacDougall entertained at a small formal dinner party Tuesday evening in the Lansdowne Road home of her parents, Maj. Keith MacDougall and Mrs. MacDougall. The 1965 debutante was also celebrating her 20th birthday.

ROYAL BANNS

AMSTERDAM (AP)—Crown Princess Beatrix of The Netherlands and her German fiance, Claus von Amsberg, signed their marriage banns Thursday. The wedding will take place March 10.

The princess, 28, and the former diplomat drove from the royal palace to the village of Baarn, 30 miles outside of Amsterdam, for the ceremony. The palace is just outside Baarn.

'New Teeth' In Rights Laws Asked

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson will ask Congress to put new teeth into federal laws aimed at desegregating public schools, it was learned today.

He also will ask for about 100 new FBI agents to cope with that agency's swelling civil rights caseload, informed sources said.

A bill being drafted by the Johnson administration would give the U.S. attorney-general great authority to initiate court action toward desegregation of schools instead of awaiting complaints and taking part in suits brought by Negroes.

The proposal would be aimed at blocking intimidation of Negroes seeking to integrate schools and harassment of Negro pupils attending previously all - white schools, informants said.

The president is expected to include school desegregation proposals in a civil rights package that will include proposed laws to eliminate discrimination in jury selection; extend federal court protection to Negroes and civil rights workers in the south, and eliminate discrimination in the sale or rental of housing.

JAIL DOCTOR REQUEST REJECTED BY POLICE

VANCOUVER (CP) — Police Chief Ralph Booth issued a report to the police commission Thursday saying a full-time doctor at the city jail would not be justified.

The chief's statement came at the same time another coroner's jury here called for a full-time doctor at the jail.

The jury, at an inquest into the death of John Chernesky, 57, was told that Chernesky died of a blood clot on the brain following his arrest.

Government 'Fumbles Ball' On Air Pollution Proposal

Social Credit MLAs Thursday blocked Alan Macfarlane (L—Oak Bay) from making an end run around their refusal to order a study of municipal financial grievances. But they fumbled the ball themselves.

The unexpected display of fancy footwork came up shortly before the pre-set adjournment time of 6 p.m.

Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell made a hastily-prepared motion that the legislative committee on municipal matters study the possibility of regional joint services boards undertaking air pollution control.

An argument developed immediately as Opposition Leader Robert Strachan moved an amendment that would require the committee to report its findings and make recommendations to the legislature.

John Squire (NDP—Alberni) who has helped organize a mass petition in the Alberni Valley protesting air pollution from a pulp mill, said the minister's motion did not indicate any action would result.

If recommendations were not requested, the government move plainly "was just a sop to the people of Alberni," he said.

Anthony Gargrave (NDP—Mackenzie) surprised everyone when he declared he would oppose both the motion and the NDP amendment.

"You can't have one regional district forcing a mill to put in expensive scrubbing equipment when another region doesn't do the same to a competing mill," he said.

"The study should not be done by throwing together an ad hoc committee in one corner of this building without enough time.

"We're not technical experts but the pollution control board is and it should study this and be empowered to act now and give leadership to this spineless government" by expanding the board's present jurisdiction over water and land to include air pollution.

Mr. Gargrave's remarks obviously nettled the government side and Mr. Macfarlane increased the heckling because he seized the opportunity to repeat his demands for a municipal finance study while ostensibly debating the pollution motion.

"It's absolutely ridiculous that the minister should bring this forward when there are matters of greater concern to the municipalities," he said to a mounting protest that he was out of order came from the backbenches.

"You bring this in to the house but you won't ask the committee to study a vital problem of finance as requested by the municipalities," he persisted.

Looking up at the clock, Mr. Macfarlane noted that the time was four minutes beyond automatic adjournment and he made a motion to adjourn the debate—which would have made him first speaker on the subject when it resumed after the supper break.

But some quickly relayed instructions brought a resounding Socred "no" vote to his adjournment motion and technically the debate was still under progress when a moment later Speaker William Murray invoked automatic adjournment of the sitting.

Premier Bennett broke out into a broad grin and nodded approvingly at the chair because under the procedural rules the pollution motion debate was dead.

The cost of the reprieve was a rare humiliation in which a government motion was "talked out"—debate being stopped by the clock.

8 CARD OF THANKS

Mrs. H. J. (Shirley) Powell of 3529 Salsbury Way, and the family of the late Mrs. Florence Cameron, wish to thank their many friends for their sincere sympathy, cards, letters and beautiful floral tributes and all those who helped in any way during the loss of our dear mother. A very special thank you to all Mother's friends who remained so faithful during her long illness; to Rev. A. Calder, Dr. G. F. Homer, McCall Bros., and to the nurses and staff of St. Joseph's Hospital for their wonderful care and concern; and the nurses and staff of Clovelly Private Hospital for their kindness and understanding.

"Nothing can ever take away
The love a heart holds dear
Fond memories linger every day
Remembrance keeps her near."

Sincerely, Shirley Powell.

8 CARD OF THANKS

We wish to extend our heartfelt thanks to our relatives and many friends for their kind expressions of sympathy, floral and memorial tributes and cards during our recent bereavement in the sad loss of our beloved mother, grandmother and sister Mrs. E. Glover. Special thanks to Rev. R. J. D. Morris, to doctors R. L. Wiggins and R. Matiko, also McCall Bros. for their kind services and staff of St. Joseph's Hospital.

—Mr and Mrs. R. Holman; Mr. and Mrs. G. Meeks; Mr. and Mrs. E. Keatley and families.

9 IN MEMORIAM

BRYCE—In cherished memory of a dear mother and grandmother, Sarah Bryce, who passed away Feb. 18, 1960.

We miss you because we loved you.
More precious than wealth untold.
No treasure on earth can replace you,
Your memory will never grow old.

—Ever lovingly remembered by all the family.

CLIFFORD—In loving memory of our darling son, Wayne Lionel Clifford, who was taken from us so suddenly, Feb. 18, 1957.

No stain was on his little heart,
Sin had not entered there;
And innocence slept sweetly on
That pale white brow so fair.
He was too pure for this cold earth,
Too beautiful to stay.
And so God's holy angel bore
Our darling one away.

—Ever remembered by mother, father, sister Bev and brother Ron.

FRANCE — In loving memory of mother, Emily France, who fell asleep February 18, 1952, Dar. 1943, and brother Herbert, 1938. He will swallow up death in victory: and the Lord God will wipe away tears from off all faces and the rebuke of His people shall He take away from off all the earth, for the Lord hath spoken it. And it shall be said in that day, so this is our God, we have waited for Him and He will save us. This is the Lord; we will be glad and rejoice in His salvation Isaiah 25:8.9.

—Ever remembered by daughters and sons, grandchildren and great-grandchildren.

BRIDGE LESSON

By JACOBY AND SON

Two young Californians, Bill Hanna and Douglas Steen, were playing in a Regional championship in St. Louis in 1952. Doug, sitting North, opened with three-no-trump and Bill raised him to six no-trump with the South hand.

A very unlucky expert sitting East doubled, whereupon Bill bid seven clubs. The unlucky expert sitting East doubled that also, whereupon South proceeded to make seven clubs doubled for a top score to end all top scores.

East was really unlucky. Doug and Bill were playing a brand new convention known as the gambling three no-trump. In this convention you open three no-trump with a solid suit and possibly an honor or two on the side and pray for fair weather.

This convention was listed on their card but the unlucky expert had not bothered to read the card so he doubled six no-trump with the smile of a hungry tiger who has just been offered fresh meat.

This gave Bill Hanna a chance to do some card reading of his own. Obviously, his partner's solid suit was clubs and it was equally obvious that East had doubled with the ace and king and possibly the queen of hearts.

Six no-trump was not going to make but there had to be hope for seven clubs so Bill bid it.

East doubled seven clubs also but it was not the cheerful sort of double he had made against six no-trump, and he was right not to be cheerful.

West had to choose which one of three suits to lead and guessed wrong. He opened the ten of spades and Bill drew trumps and claimed his grand slam.

UNSHELTERED WATERFRONT ! ! !

Yes my friend . . . when the south east wind blows in this location—(Sidney way) you have to hold on to your hat . . . After all, what is waterfront if one cannot enjoy a pounding surf, wheeling gulls, and escapee boom logs, standing on tippy toe . . . The home is 18 years old, immaculately maintained, and is much more suitable to lively retired, sea loving folks, than to a large family. Two bedrooms nice size—kitchen, bath and a great, great, big, big, (27x16) livingroom right across the front of the house . . . very nice indeed. Full basement with fireplace and rumpus room. Very pretty gardens . . . now here is the catch . . . ssh-h-h-h. You will need about $11,000 hard, cold, nasty cash money to handle it . . . clear title can be obtained if you are one of the Jones boys. This will pretty well preclude the honest working father with lots of babies to feed. If you are an honest retired father and have been thrifty, please call Mr. Stothers, EV 2-2101 or 658-5285 eves. to view. Full price firm and a good buy at $21,900.00

SHELTERED WATERFRONT
$25,700

It's different, it's unique and you'll love it. There is a large living room, dining room (with access to sheltered sun deck), four bedrooms, two bathrooms, a small den and recreation room with fireplace and bar. There is a surprising amount of privacy and an EXCEPTIONALLY GOOD WHARF. The extensive use of natural woods is intriguing and includes some beautiful built ins. A move from the city is the only circumstances that could take this happy family from a home that provides so much living pleasure. For full particulars and appointment to view, call Mr. Yells, EV 2-2101, Res. EV 3-5039.

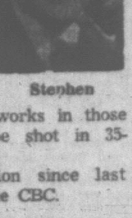
Andy Stephen Looks at TV

The Canadian-produced television series Seaway shot along the world famous international watercourse is going down the drain.



Stephen

A spokesman said the series will end in May after completing its 30 episodes as scheduled.

Producer Maxine Samuels is hoping to sell the hour-long series to a United States network as a summer replacement to recoup some of the $3,000,000 production costs. At this stage, no one has expressed interest in the show because it is in black and white.

The prospect of sale to both the U.S. and Britain was dimmed by networks in those countries demanding the programs be shot in 35-millimetre color film.

The series has been in production since last September and shown exclusively on the CBC.

* * *

There will be those wholly pleased by the program's demise. Here is one corner though which will be sad to see it fade from the Canadian production scene.

There are few enough attempts to produce television programs of quality to compete on the world market with the mass-produced Hollywood product.

It took a great deal of intestinal fortitude to even attempt a series of such magnitude. Apparently Miss Samuels had it in spades and carried on even in the face of a frightful verbal beating from the Canadian TV critics.

But, Seaway carried on week after week, pre-empted only by a special or two and took on the proportions of a friend.

I've never met Maxine Samuels, but there has been a lot written about her and everything would point to the fact that she won't be held down too long.

Her other series, Forest Rangers, is highly successful and widely accepted around the globe.

Romeo and Juliet, the CBC-TV Festival production of the ballet performed by the National Ballet of Canada, has won an award at the International Television Festival of Monte Carlo. The festival jury was headed by Peter Ustinov.

'Thanks' Not Enough Compensation

VANCOUVER (CP) — Police Chief Ralph Booth said Wednesday the war on crime can be sucessfully fought only if crime victims are compensated for their injuries.

The police chief said he favors any legislation authorizing establishment of a board — similar to the Workmen's Compensation Board — having the power to compensate victims of criminal activity.

"We are spending millions of dollars on rehabilitating criminals but nothing is being done for their victims," Chief Booth said.

"The police know only too well that their success in fighting crime depends upon the cooperation of the public."

He said many persons are reluctant to aid policemen in difficulty because of personal danger and the lack of compensation.

NO WAY

"So often when citizens do help police officers in trouble and are injured as a result of helping the police, they have no way of recovering damages for injuries.

"It is frustrating to think that all the police can do is send a letter of thanks to citizens in such an instance."

Oil Airlift Extended

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's participation in the oil airlift to Zambia will be extended until the end of April, External Affairs Minister Martin announced Wednesday. However, the number of RCAF planes in the lift will be reduced to two from four March 1 "because the air transport resources of the RCAF will be heavily taxed in meeting prior commitments."

CALL FOR TENDERS

ALFRED SLOAN
. . . dies at 90

GM Enjoyed Prosperity Under Him

NEW YORK (AP)—Alfred P. Sloan Jr., who guided General Motors Corporation through the depression and helped make it the world's largest manufacturing enterprise, died Thursday of a heart attack. He was 90.

A spokesman said Sloan complained of indigestion Thursday and was taken from his apartment to the hospital, where he died.

Sloan was honorary board chairman of GM at his death, a post he assumed in 1956 after 33 years of active leadership in guiding the fortunes of the giant industry.

Son of a coffee and tea importer, Sloan began his career as a draftsman for a roller-bearing manufacturer. He became president of GM in 1923 succeeding Pierre du Pont.

Under Sloan's management, GM showed a profit at the height of the depression.

AMASSED FORTUNE

During his long business career, Sloan amassed a huge personal fortune, once estimated by a close friend at more than $250,000,000.

In 1937, he made a $10,000,000 donation to the Alfred P. Sloan Foundation which had been established some time earlier. In 1945, the foundation was a key force in establishment of the memorial Sloan-Kettering Cancer Centre.

Big Airliner Crash Toll Cut to Eight

MOSCOW (CP) — The Soviet ministry of civil aviation announced today that only eight passengers were killed in the crash early Thursday during takeoff of a TU-114 airliner.

The ministry announcement, given to the official Soviet news agency Tass, said the crash "was caused by a sharp worsening of weather conditions at Sheremetyevo Airport outside Moscow."

"During the take - off run the plane ran into a strong gust of wet snow, veered off the runway and was damaged," it said. "Eight Soviet passengers died in the crash. None of the foreigners was injured."

Unofficial sources said 48 of 70 persons aboard the TU-114—world's largest airliner — had died. Western sources placed the number of dead at 38.

Gemini Flight Set for March 15

WASHINGTON (AP)—A U.S. space agency said Thursday night astronauts Neil Armstrong and David Scott will start their Gemini 8 orbital flight no earlier than March 15.

They will attempt to rendezvous with an Agena D target vehicle 5½ hours after liftoff and will try to link up with it physically to accomplish history's first docking in space, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration said.

Liberal MP Wants End To Flogging

OTTAWA (CP) — Private members' bills to abolish corporal punishment and prosecutions of mentally ill persons attempting suicide were introduced in the Commons Wednesday by two Liberal MPs.

Auguste Choquette Lotbiniere said flogging of prisoners is barbaric and inadmissible. Such penalties should be removed from the Criminal Code, although he favored the retention of capital punishment.

The abolition of flogging was recommended by a Commons-Senate committee in 1956 but no action was taken.

Ian Watson (Chateauguay-Huntingdon-Laprairie) proposed another amendment to the Criminal Code to provide for treatment of mentally ill persons who have attempted suicide, rather than prosecution.

This section of the code had fallen into disuse. But an overzealous prosecutor in his riding recently had charged a mentally ill person with the criminal offence of attempted suicide.

Prohibition Stays

NEW DELHI (Reuters) — Leaders of India's ruling Congress party has decided not to relax prohibition. The party rejected a request from the State of Madhya Pradesh to abolish dry laws in six areas to raise extra revenue by an excise duty on liquor.

City Losing Money . . . Too Many Fines!

The lone cash register handling fine payments from magistrate's court is jingling so fast these days the city is losing money.

The city's finance committee was told Thursday that a second cash register could halt the flow of wrong change.

City treasurer James Bramley said there was no suggestion of theft or wrongdoing involving missing sums of money, between $20 and $40.

"It's just that two girls use the same cash register and when they get swamped with people paying fines, errors in change crop up," he said.

Mr. Bramley said the only alternative to a second cash register was to make people seeking to pay fines or traffic tickets line up in a queue.

"I don't think that would be a very good idea," said committee chairman Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow. "People are already pretty mad when they walk up to pay the fine. I dread to think what would happen if after waiting in line to pay a parking ticket you walked out of the police building only to find you'd been ticketed again."

The committee agreed to buy a second register for $1,978 to eliminate the rush and, they hope, end the wrong-change shortages.

RACE RESULTS, ENTRIES

Thieves Honor Our Fish

LONDON (CP) — British Columbia salmon has received an unsolicited testimonial from Britain's shoplifters.

Store Detectives Ltd., a private security agency that operates throughout Britain,, reports that canned salmon was the article most often picked up by shoplifters in grocery stores during 1965.

"One dear old lady steals a can of salmon regularly every week," said K. C. Bath, national manager of the agency. "Regularly every week the price of the salmon is surreptitiously added to her bill to cover it, so both sides are happy."

A small, 7½-ounce can of salmon costs about 75 cents in Britain, although price varies according to quality. Russian and Scandinavian salmon competes against the B.C. product.

The detective agency apprehended 1,309 persons for shoplifting last year, with the average theft worth about 15 shillings ($2.25). Almost invariably the thief was carrying enough money to have paid for the items taken.

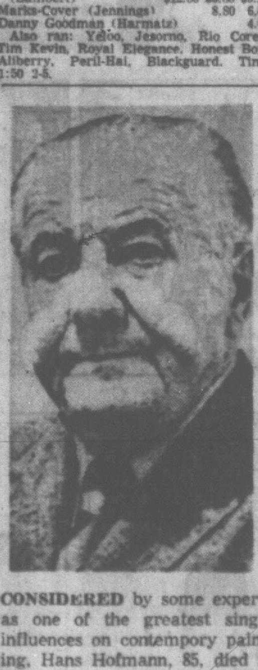
Agency statistics show that shoplifting is more prevalent in Birmingham and Liverpool than in London—or perhaps only that detectives in the midlands and north are more efficient, or shoplifters there more hamhanded.

A store detective in the Birmingham area catches a thief on the average every three hours one in Liverpool every 12 hours and in London once every 45 hours.

Stolen Stock

NEW YORK (AP) — Stolen certificates for $1,000,000 worth of stock have been recovered and three men long under surveillance have been arrested, the Manhattan district attorney's office said today.

The certificates allegedly are loot from the $2,100,000 securities holdup at the Goodbody and Company brokerage house last July, detectives said.



CONSIDERED by some experts as one of the greatest single influences on contempory painting, Hans Hofmann, 85, died in New York on Thursday. (AP Wirephoto)

HEY TAFFY!

Welsh Welcome St. David's

Victoria's Welsh folk—numbering about 4,000 in all—will be the first to welcome the spring of 1966. Yes, indeed.

They will celebrate on St. David's Day, March 1, with a festival of daffodils, the national flower of Wales, and a banquet and concert in the Empress Hotel.

There will be the usual Welsh dishes, including leek soup, and the tables will be decorated with daffodils.

Victoria vocalist Stanley Martin will propose toasts to St. David and Wales and the adopted land of Canada. He will sing the national songs of Wales and lead the company in community singing—an essential part of every Welsh gathering.

The spring celebration is organized by Victoria Cymrodorion Society, which is associated with Welsh organizations throughout Canada and the United States.

Tickets are available from Mrs. June Richardson, secretary, 2460 Quadra Street (Tel.: 383-3593); Mrs. Phyllis Hill, president, 3520 Lorraine Street (382-3992), or from the Lloyd-El Craft Shop, 780 Fort Street.

Tribesmen Arrested For Blast

NEW DELHI (CP) — Eight Naga tribesmen have been arrested in connection with the bombing of an express train which killed 37 persons in the eastern state of Assam, reports reaching New Delhi said today.

The Nagas, independence-minded members of the Sema tribe, were reported to have been aboard the Assam mail express when two time bombs went off in one coach Wednesday night. More than 50 persons were injured.

After the two explosions, two unexploded time bombs were found in other compartments of the train, the reports said.

Nagas are blamed for six attempts to wreck trains in Assam in the last 12 months. At least 52 persons have been killed.

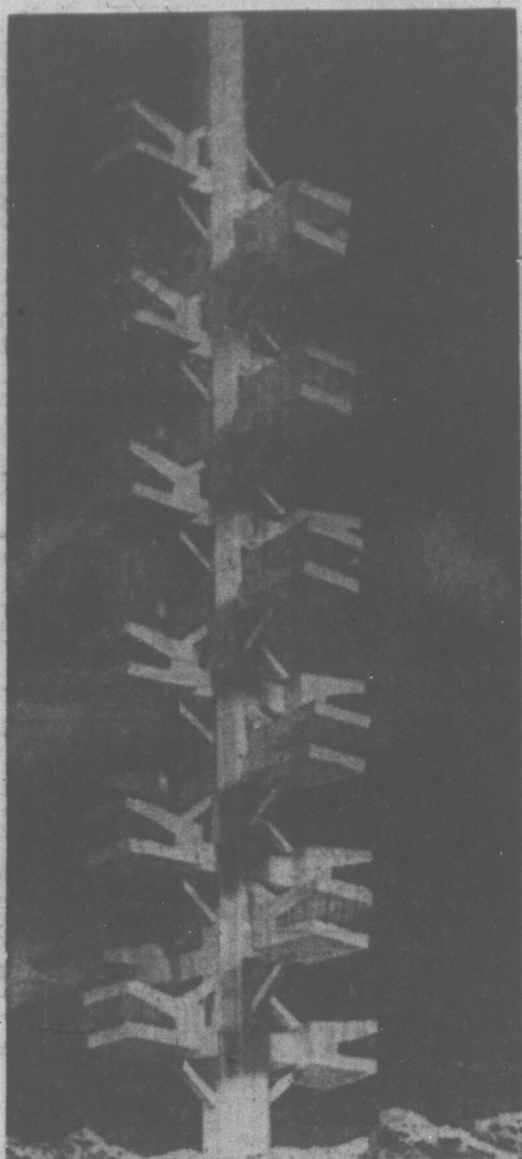
Mock Alouette To Be Shown At Jaycee Fair

A mock-up of Canada's only orbiting satellite, the Alouette, will be on display May 16 to 21 at the Jaycees' Exhibition at Memorial Arena.

Defense Minister Paul T. Hellyer Thursday confirmed the visit of the satellite mock-up in a letter to exhibition director Don Mathison.

A representative from the National Defense Research Board will accompany the satellite on its visit.

Mr. Mathison also quoted the U.S. consul in Vancouver as saying that "the chances are very good" for a display of the U.S. Gemini Capsule at the exhibition.



BACK TO THE TREETOPS! Charles Darwin insisted that humans descended from monkeys and came down from the trees. Now German architect Horst-Peter Dollinger of Stuttgart wants to put us back up there. Master Spy Gets Top Russian Award

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union's highest award, the Order of Lenin, has been presented to Col. Rudolph Abel.

The Soviet master spy who was arrested in the United States in 1957 also received a number of other high honors for his 30 years as an intelligence agent, the newspaper Trud (Labor) reported Thursday.

It published an article by Abel in which the retired spy said he had been caught "as a result of betrayal." He did not elaborate.

The article, parts of which had been published here Sunday, included claims that he destroyed some evidence under the noses of U.S. Federal Bureau of Investigation agents who arrested him.

An FBI spokesman in Washington denied the claim. He said Abel "obviously bungled his espionage mission."

Abel, 63, now is living in retirement in Moscow. After serving four years and eight months of a 30-year sentence in the United States, he was traded Feb. 10, 1962, for American U-2 pilot Francis Gary Powers.

Navy to Get Lion's Share Of Cash for New Weapons

By DAVE McINTOSH

OTTAWA (CP)—The defence department will pay more than usual attention to the weapons needs of the navy this year, officials here say.

For example, more than half of the department's $25,000,000 development fund for the 1966-67 fiscal year will be spent on naval projects.

Some $13,000,000 more will be spent on development of the 200-ton prototype anti-submarine hydrofoil boat. Total cost now is estimated at $36,200,000.

More than $1,000,000 will be spent on the continuing program code-named Nutmeg for oceanographic studies of underwater sound transmission. The studies are related to submarine detection.

Some $1,500,000 will go for another development project to improve ship-shore communications.

The biggest single weapons program at the moment is the CF-5 fighter - bomber for the RCAF.

But the immediate No. 2 weapons program as far as expenditures are concerned is the Sea King helicopter for the navy. An estimated $17,500,000 will be spent on the program in 1966-67.

Modernization of the navy's Tracker submarine - hunting planes will cost $8,400,000 during the year.

CONVERSION

Some $7,300,000 will be spent on the conversion of seven Restigouche - class destroyers and another $8,000,000 will go for the acquisition of three Oberon class submarines. A year-long refit of the aircraft carrier Bonaventure is scheduled to begin in April.

A $4,000,000 start will be made on the $142,000,000 program to obtain four new destroyers, on which construction will start in the summer of 1967.

Another $2,650,000 will be spent on a $38,900,000 program for two more operational support ships. Expenditures on a new naval research ship will amount to $2,000,000.

Some $9,000,000 will be spent for sonobuoys, devices used to detect submarines.

In all, the navy will receive some $91,000,000 for weapons, equipment and buildings in 1966-67. This will be nearly $20,000,000 more than in the current fiscal year ending March 31.

BIG PROTEST MARCH SET ON OTTAWA

OTTAWA (UPI)—A giant protest march on Canada's capital against the Viet Nam War is planned for Easter Sunday, April 10.

The marchers will present a brief to the federal government "outlining means of achieving peace and stability in Viet Nam through negotiating and the holding of free elections."

The New Democratic Party Youth originated the idea for the march, but hopes to make it a non-partisan "significant experiment in participatory democracy." All interested groups, church groups, labor unions, political parties and individuals have been asked to take part in the march and in its planning.

5 Sentenced to Die

MOSCOW (Reuters)—A military tribunal has sentenced to death five Russians accused of collaborating with the Nazis in killing more than 60,000 persons during the Second World War. A sixth was sentenced to 15 years in prison for his part in the killing of fellow Russians in the Stravropol territory of the Caucasus during the German occupation.

SOLUTION MONDAY

ask Andy
HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes.

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Dorothy Roman, age 10, of Stratford, Conn., for her question:

How did the bird of paradise get its name?

This story goes back 400 years and takes us halfway around the world. Even today, only a few travellers have seen the beauteous bird of paradise in his native jungles. And the people of long ago who named him had no idea of his habits or his home life.

In the 16th century, brave little ships were finding the lonely islands of the vast Pacific. They returned with many wonderful treasures for the markets of Europe. Some brought the skins of birds bedecked with gorgeous plumage. These pelts were prepared by the natives of New Guinea. The feathery ruffs and tufts, the lacy plumes and frothy crests of these strange birds were as lovely as a heavenly dream come true.

But in preparing the feathery pelts, the natives had removed the feet and legs from the beauteous birds. This was mystifying to people who had never seen the living birds in their native jungles. They were curious and their curiosity led to a common mistake. When people cannot find the true answer to a question, they sometimes invent a story to explain the problem. And this is what happened.

Surely, argued the people of the 16th century, this creature must be too beautiful to live in this world. He must dwell in Paradise. To back up this silly idea they pointed out that the fabulous pelts and no feet. And they went on to add even more nonsense to the yarn. Obviously, they said, this bird never lands on the ground or perches in a tree. He stays forever on the wing in the skies of Paradise.

There is even more to the story. Details were added to explain how the bird of paradise laid eggs and provided a nest for the young. The eggs, it was reported, were hatched and the young raised in the gorgeous plumage of the parents.

Female Drab-colored Bird

Nothing, it turned out, could be farther from the truth. These birds have strong feet and legs and spend most of their lives perched high among the jungle foliage. What's more, only the papa is a razzle-dazzler and his wife is a drab-colored bird. The glamorous male spends his time preening and strutting while the work of building the nest and raising the children is done by Mrs. Bird of Paradise.

There are more than 40 different birds of paradise, each more beautiful than his cousins. For generations, countless numbers of them were slaughtered by the natives and sold to the markets of Europe. For millinery and other decor, the feathers were worth their weight in gold. Then, in 1924, the nations of the world decided to stop this trading before all the birds were lost forever. Trading in bird of paradise feathers is now banned by international law.

Andy sends a 15-inch World Book Globe to Donald Meer, age 10, of Phoenix, Ariz., for his question:

What happens to diatoms when the water evaporates?

Diatoms are midget water plants, and most of them are too small for human eyes to see. Unlike most plants they build themselves shells and live inside them. The numbers of these tiny plants adrift in the sea are more than anyone can count, and if a shallow stretch of water evaporates, countless hordes of them dry up and perish.

As the tiny plants live and die in the watery ocean, their dainty shells sink down and form thick piles on the sea floor. Sometimes a shallow sea bed is lifted above the water level. A carpet of old diatom shells is left high and dry. The gritty substance is called diatomaceous earth and some of it is made into cleansing powder.

Lake Levels Rising

DETROIT (AP)—Rising water levels will enable Great Lakes freighters to carry more tonnage when the shipping season opens this spring. All the lakes are up—from a couple of inches to a couple of feet—compared with a year ago, and the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers' lake survey expects them to keep right on rising into July.

YOUR HEALTH

The 'Anorexia' Girl Who Weighs 78 lbs.

By DR. WALTER ALVAREZ

Occasionally, a woman will bring me in her daughter who weighs anywhere from 75 to 85 pounds. The girl will actually be "skin and bones." She will be eating very little, and she may be regurgitating much of that.

Alvarez

Regurgitation is very different from vomiting. With vomiting, the person usually suffers with nausea, and then suddenly there is a spasm of the muscles of the abdomen and the stomach, and up comes a whole meal.

With regurgitation there is commonly no nausea, and without any effort on the person's part, up will come mouthfuls of food. This regurgitation can start even during a meal. It is due to waves coming up from the bowel through the stomach and along the gullet up to the throat.

It is commonly due to nervousness, but it can come during pregnancy or menstruation, when there is a tendency for wavelets to run up the bowel and stomach and gullet to produce nausea, heartburn, and sometimes — besides the regurgitation—real vomiting.

* * *

Now, why does a girl with "Anorexia nervosa" starve herself down to 75 pounds? A year or more ago I was pleased to see a study of these girls made by that fine psychiatrist at the Utah State Medical School, Dr. Hardin Branch. He and his associates decided that virtually all of these emaciated girls they studied were mildly psychotic (mentally disturbed).

Through the years I have seen a few dozen of these women, and with only a few exceptions, I would say they were mildly psychotic. Only a few seemed to become well-adjusted after I rescued them from the very unhappy situation in which they had gotten caught. A few of the girls whom I fattened up in a hospital returned later—skin and bones again.

These young women usually stop menstruating, probably because of their malnutrition. Curiously, they often keep up and about and active; and like girls suffering from hysteria, they show but little concern about the serious condition in which they find themselves.

* * *

Some, in early life, had become so fat that no beau would have them. Accordingly, they started reducing rapidly; the only trouble was that when they got down to their normal weight, they went on starving themselves until they were walking skeletons. One young woman of 30, with a pinched face, I cured in a few minutes. I just asked, "Are you trying to commit suicide?" And she said, "Yes; I suppose you could say that." I asked, "Because of boy trouble?" And she said, "Yes; when the third beau I ever had walked out on me, because I was unpleasant with him, I gave up hope; I said to myself, 'What's the use of going on living in this way'?"

After chatting with her for a while about the remaining "fish in the sea," she got up out of bed, started eating well, and went back to her job in an office. When I saw her later, she was able to work, but she still was poorly adjusted.

ALL FOR LOVE

Logger Gives Up Stardom

By DON DINGWALL

LADYSMITH—You're young, handsome, talented and at 30 you're a 'pop' singing star in England.

Then you give it all up.

You marry and go to work on Vancouver Island as a logger.

It's the true life story of Daryl Quist of Ladysmith.

In August last year Daryl Quist was earning £65 ($200) a week.

He had just finished a season starring in his own show.

Daryl had cut records for one of the major United Kingdom companies and made TV appearances.

* * *

But Daryl was homesick—and lovesick.

Having a house of his own in a resort town and a London apartment was not happiness for Daryl.

He believes it's in marrying his childhood sweetheart, in working like his father as a logger and in setting up his own home in his native town.

In his early teens, Daryl was a tap dancer. He took lessons in Vancouver from Greta Hunt.

She instilled in him the idea of going on the stage.

* * *

Daryl saved from his weekend jobs, and in 1961 went to England on his own to seek fame and fortune.

He achieved a measure of both in four short years.

The day after he arrived he landed a job in the Tommy Steele "Humpty Dumpty" pantomime at Liverpool.

Later he auditioned as a singer and joined a summer show at Great Yarmouth.

The next winter he spent doing "one night stands" with such stars as Cilla Black, Cliff Richards, the Rolling Stones and the Dave Clark Five.

* * *

But Daryl never quite settled to the life of living out of a suitcase.

The painted glamour couldn't hold him.

Twice he flew back home to his family, and childhood sweetheart Carolyn.

Daryl came back a third time last August.

He said this week: "I think I'm home to stay . . . I mean I know I'm home to stay."

He and Carolyn were married Saturday and are busily making plans for their new home.

* * *

Meanwhile Daryl works at the Nanaimo River camp of MacMillan, Bloedel & Powell River Ltd.

He pulls rigging and admits "it's quite a change."

But Daryl says: "At least you can make plans. On the stage you can make a lot of money one year and starve the next.

"I'm a lot happier now," he said.

Daryl said audiences in England for 'pop' shows still work themselves into the type of mass hysteria common in the early years of Elvis Presley.

He's happy to leave it all behind.

Increase Seen In Hepatitis

NORTH COWICHAN—Infectious hepatitis is again on the increase in Central Vancouver Island.

Coun. Elaine Dobbyn said Thursday the increase was not alarming but quite definite.

She said so far children were bearing the brunt of the increase of the disease.

Mrs. Dobbyn expressed the hope news of the spreading disease would strengthen public support for the sewer bylaw shortly to be put to municipal ratepayers in the Sherman Road-Mary Street area.

Keep Sexes Apart?

NANAIMO — Sex segregated classes in Vancouver schools are drawing attention from the Nanaimo School Board.

The board is keeping an eye on the Vancouver experiment in response to a request from a group of North Cedar residents.

Just a Tattoo?

NANAIMO—The trial of a man and girl charged with theft and illegal possession of narcotics entered its second day here Thursday.

Admissibility of statements made by the accused, Allan Edward Ross, 23, and Glenna Mae Wilson, 20, as evidence at the trial was disputed.

Constable William Kerr testified he pointed out needle marks on Miss Wilson's arm when he took her to police station, but she stated they were a tattoo she was having removed

Consultant Named

NANAIMO—Dr. J. P. Tully of this city, has been appointed oceanographic consultant, to the chairman of the Fisheries Research Board of Canada, it was announced Thursday.

Among other things, he will act as secretary of a co-ordinating committee on great lakes pollution programs and of the Canadian committee on oceanography.

$3,300 Collected

NANAIMO—Plans for purchasing a new Nanaimo ambulance are now $3,300 towards their goal.

But there's still $10,200 left to go, and local residents, headed by Mrs. Dolly Fearon and Local 180 of the Hospital Employees' Union, are determined to make it.

At present a door-to-door bilitz, which pulled in more than $1,800 on its first day, is in progress.

Six-Month Term

COURTENAY — An 18-year-old Quadra Island youth with a record for breaking and entering was given two concurrent sentences of six months definite and 12 months indefinite.

The sentences were given Harry Price, told by the magistrate he had "a very bad record" for breaking and entering and attempted breaking and entering.

Paint-Up Set

DUNCAN — The city may shortly have a paint-up campaign among merchants.

The advisory planning commission is trying to get the ball rolling.

Commission member Robert D. Howard said today: "Some of the business premises in town are a disgrace.

"We want to try to instil some pride in the city's merchants regarding their premises.

"City hall has an over-all color scheme for the business area but a selling job has to be done with the merchants."

Golf Club Plans

DUNCAN — Cowichan Golf Club is to have a $35,000 addition and remodelling job done to the clubhouse.

At the annual meeting Thursday evening members voted the board authority to borrow the necessary money.

The directors were also authorized to spend up to $4,500 buying ten acres of land giving access to Cowichan Bay Road.

New director W. Bradshaw Harrison said this would allow for possibly three new holes to be added to the existing nine, and a driving range.

The addition to the clubhouse will be 46 feet by 28 feet with a large balcony.

Up-Island Cities' Projects Approved

Official approval of Centennial projects for Courtenay and Cumberland has been received from both federal and provincial authorities.

Development of Puntledge Park at Courtenay, costing a total of $20,526, will be split almost exactly between local backing and government grants.

Cost of a $9,000 park house at Cumberland will be paid by $3,816 from federal and provincial funds, and $5,184 from the local fund.

Milk Board Lax?

DUNCAN — Archie Stevenson of Cowichan Station, president of the B.C. Federation of Agriculture, said here that the B.C. Milk Board does not exercise its full powers.

He said the new Ontario Milk Board would have absolute power to regulate all retail and wholesale prices of milk and to control all movement of milk. He said that it would be a 15-man board made up entirely of producers and that the board chairman would receive $25,000 a year.

Steward-Scientist Fishes in Depth

Harry Watkins is a man with two unusual jobs.

He's steward aboard the Canadian weathership Stonetown which takes its turns at station Papa 500 miles out in the Pacific.

At the same time he fishes the ocean depths in the interests of marine biology. He keeps records of the depths at which he catches various kinds of fish and reports to the Marine Biological Station at Nanaimo, bringing them back scales and fish stomach specimens.

He has no facilities aboard to keep fish alive. But recently when he made a rare catch of a number of skilfish (erilepis zonfer) he improvised a makeshift tank from a 4-by-2½-foot box lined with part of a weather balloon.

He kept the tank in the Stonetown's engine room where he was able continually to pump fresh sea water into the box. He caught and froze salmon to feed them.

Of the eight skilfish he brought aboard, two died. He kept the three smallest and let the others go back to the ocean.

"They became so tame, I could feed them by hand," he reported, adding that once adjusted to people, skilfish apparently like to have their bellies rubbed. "I would rub their bellies and when I'd take my hand away they would turn over for more."

Nanaimo biologists were enthused about his report and their offer of the rare fish to the Vancouver Aquarium was accepted.

Vince Penfold, assistant curator at the Vancouver Aquarium, says the skilfish is a relative of the Alaska black cod, but "very little is known about them." They have large heads, mouth and eyes, indicating the ocean depths are their normal habitat.

The aquarium now has half a dozen, all captured by the weathership or Nanaimo Biological Station personnel.

COUNCILLORS CAUGHT IN HKENIPSEN FEUD

NORTH COWICHAN — The half-dozen residents of Khenipsen Road on the north arm of Cowichan Bay are staging their own little feud.

The feud is over the state of the road.

Caught in the middle is North Cowichan Council.

At alternate meetings since the fall council bombarded with letters either demanding the road be blacktopped, or else that it be left in it's "country lane" style but graded.

Latest blast came from Dennis Gaunt who said the road was "already a race track for the not-so-youthful and therefore might as well be blacktopped."

Reeve Donald Morton said before making a decision council should bear in mind the complaint of increased taxes by Khenipsen residents meant in fact paying a $1 a year instead of nothing.

The problem was left with the public works committee.

INSTITUTE FOUNDER

An Unusual Woman With 'Queer' Ideas

By ELIZABETH FORBES

Forbes

In this day and age we may be conscious that the principles of homemaking did not happen by accident but we are not curious enough to explore those principles back to their beginnings and to probe for ths spark that propelled them into our lives.

If we did, we would find in almost every instance, a dedicated man or woman who dreamed and who worked tirelessly for its fulfilment.

This was brought home to me a few days ago when I was reminded that Saturday is Adelaide Hoodless Day.

To the average person, that name means little or nothing. Yet, this woman crusaded more than 70 years ago and won her fight to have clean milk provided in the Ontario town where she lived.

She headed a campaign to have home economics education for girls — "domestic science" they called it then.

And she was the force behind the organization of the first women's institute in the world, at Stoney Creek, Ontario.

It is for this last accomplishment that Adelaide Hoodless is remembered each year. For it was on Feb. 19, 69 years ago, that the first institute was born.

★ ★ ★

At that time Mrs. Hoodless was known to many as a woman with "queer views." She had been agitating for the teaching of domestic science in the public schools. Because her first baby died at 18 months from drinking impure milk — something she believed she could have prevented if she had "known better" — she was doing everything in her power to help others to gain the knowledge she had lacked.

She was also noted as an entertaining — if unusual — speaker. It was for this reason (not because they were interested in her views) that the Ontario Farmers' Institutes Experimental Union invited her to speak at its annual meeting in Guelph.

At the meeting Adelaide Hoodless heard farmers talking about the health of their animals. When she got up to speak she argued that the health of their families was far more important.

One young farmer, Erland Lee of Stoney Creek, more farsighted than the others, was intrigued by this revolutionary idea. He promised Mrs. Hoodless that if she would present the same view at a meeting of his farmers' institute he's guarantee to have the women out to hear her.

Adelaide Hoodless urged the women who did turn out to form an organization of their own to study homemaking, just as the farmers' institutes studied farming. She offered to help.

A date was set — Feb. 19, 1897. Thirty-five women promised to attend. When the night came 101 women were there and the first institute was founded.

Today there are women's institutes in every province in Canada, in Great Britain, Belgium, France, New Zealand, South Africa and India. Internationally they are banded together as the Associated Countrywomen of the World.

Adelaide Hoodless had the vision and the determination needed to start this movement that still holds to the belief that home and family is of vital and almost universal concern to women.

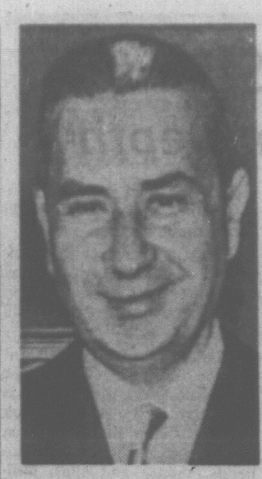
She was derided in the press and from the platform as one of those "new women." Especially when she made over 60 speeches in two years to help educate public opinion to allow government grants for the domestic sciences courses she wished to see started.

★ ★ ★

She helped raise funds to open a training school for domestic science teachers in Hamilton, Ontario, and when it became too small, she persuaded Sir William Macdonald, than "tobacco king" of Montreal, to give money to build Macdonald Institute for this purpose at the Ontario Agricultural College at Guelph.

She also dreamed of a course in some university where more advanced training in household science could be given. The government could not see eye to eye with her so she set out to find the capital.

It was while she was pleading with Toronto women at a special meeting of the Federated Women's Clubs on Feb. 25, 1910, that Adelaide Hoodless died. She was only 52.



CALLED UPON to form a new centre-left government in Italy is former premier Aldo Moro, 49, as party leaders were on the verge of agreeing to a new coalition.

Arbutus Members Double

A total of 35 handicapped persons now attend the Arbutus Crafts Workshop, an increase of nearly 100 per cent from January 1965, board of governors chairman Mrs. Phyllis Sutton announced earlier this week.

The centre, which provides work and recreational facilities for handicapped persons, has also expanded from half day to full day operation during the year.

Displays of work done at Arbutus Crafts in the fall resuled in a sales increase, bringing the total income from handicrafts to more than $1,000, Mrs. Sutton told more than 80 persons attending the annual general meeting.

CRAFTS

Weaving, woodworking, basketry, ceramic tile and rug making are among the crafts done by handicapped workers.

Help in driving workers to and from the Craft Centre on Vancouver Street is still needed, said Mrs. Sutton.

Miss Lorrayne Kennedy, president of the workers club, said projects carried out at Arbutus Crafts have given handicapped persons there "an interest in life and a feeling of accomplishment."

She thanked members of the Arbutus Crafts Association for making the workshop possible for the disabled in Victoria.

'Must Teach Reds Lesson,' Hearing Told

Policy Defended By Rusk

RUSK
. . . answers critics

WASHINGTON (UPI)—U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk told critical senators today that the fighting in Viet Nam is vital to show that the United States keeps its pledges and to teach the Chinese Reds that "they cannot redraw the boundaries of the world by force."

Testifying before the senate foreign relations committee in defence of adminisration policies, Rusk declared: "What we face in Viet Nam is what we have faced on many occasions before—the need to check the extension of Communist power in order to maintain a reasonable stability, in a precarious world."

He also pointedly recalled that when the Southeast Asian Treaty Organization (SEATO) pact was ratified in 1954, all members of the committee who were senators at that time endorsed it.

Rusk declared that the "far-reaching implications of this commitment were well understood" when the senate ratified the SEATO treaty by an 82-1 vote.

The U.S. fight against the Communists in Viet Nam has worldwide implications, Rusk declared, because "we must make clear that the U.S. keeps its word wherever it is pledged."

'SIMPLE POINTS'

At another point, he commented that the Chinese Communists and other Red regimes such as North Viet Nam "must learn that they cannot redraw the boundaries of the world by force."

This was one of five "simple points" which Rusk said "are at the heart of the problem, and at the heart of the U.S. policy in South Viet Nam."

The others he listed in his 6,000-word opening statement were:

● "The elementary fact is that there is an aggression in

HAMILTON FIRE CLAIMS 5 CHILDREN

HAMILTON (CP) — Five children from two families died in a fire that destroyed their two-storey frame house early today. Dead in one family are Stanley Thatcher, 14, and his brother Steven, 9, and in the other family Kevin Paul, 11, his sister, Tracy, 6, and brother, Matthew, 3. All five died in their bedrooms on the second floor of the second floor of the house.

Two Thatcher children escaped the fire. Ron Thatcher, 19, and his sister, Nancy, 16, leaped from second-floor windows to the street below.

INTO SOUTH

Ho Troops Hike Infiltration Rate

SAIGON (Reuters)—The number of North Vietnamese regular army troops infiltrated into South Viet Nam has grown to 4,500 a month, U.S. military spokesman said today.

He said the rate of infiltration has been stepped up and so far this year about 4,000 have come in.

Latest intelligence reports place the combined strength of Viet Cong guerrillas and North Vietnamese regulars at 237,000—a total outnumbered more than three to one by South Vietnamese, U.S. and other allied troops.

South Vietnamese regular and para-military forces now total about 550,000, and the U.S. has 205,000. Other allies — largely South Koreans but also including more than 1,000 Australians and a smaller number of New Zealanders—total about 24,000.

The spokesman said the 20,000 North Vietnamese troops are concentrated in the northern half of South Viet Nam, in the central highland and lowland provinces.

As the figures of Viet Cong strength were announced U.S. troops continued patrols around coastal Tuy Hoa province, 230 miles north of Saigon, where they are guarding farmers bringing in a rice crop that has been allowed to go to the Viet Cong in recent years.

Sixty per cent of the harvest —30,000 tons — now has been gathered, a U.S. spokesman said.

The Viet Cong continued to strike at the farmers with mines which killed more than 40 harvest hands during the last week. In one incident Thursday a mine blew up both a farmer and his horse.

CHOPPERS CRASH

Two helicopter crashes within the last 24 hours took the lives of seven Americans. And eighth American died when he threw himself on a Viet Cong grenade.

The soldier died when a Viet Cong company attacked a small unit 25 miles west of Saigon.

In the bombing of North Viet Nam, a spokesman said U.S. planes hit the air base at Dien Bien Phu, west of Hanoi, for the third straight day.

'BLOOD MONEY'

Ship Boycott Threatened

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — AFL-CIO maritime unions told President Johnson today they will boycott ships of all foreign countries trading with the North Vietnamese.

In a telegram to Johnson, union officials said "trade with North Viet Nam puts blood money in the pocket of ship owners and other profiteers of so-called Allied nations."

The telegram added that "we believe the time for pussyfooting is long past," and said:

"We must inform you, therefore, very soon our members will begin to demonstrate their protests on all waterfronts in this country directed against any and all ships of those nations which permit trade with North Viet Nam."

HIT MANY NATIONS

The boycott, spokesmen for the AFL-CIO maritime trades department said, will affect hundreds of foreign vessels from countries including Britain, Norway, Sweden, Denmark, France, Italy and Egypt.

The boycott will be imposed by refusing to load any such vessel entering U.S. ports.

The telegram to Johnson was signed by Paul Hall, maritime tades department president; president Thomas W. Gleason of the International Longshoremen's Association, and president Joseph Curran of the National Maritime Union.

GOT NO REPLY

A union spokesman said the telegram to Johnson made public today actually was sent to the White House last Monday and that there had been no reply.

Hall said the boycott will be imposed unless the U.S. government takes up the matter with "so-called allied nations" and stops them from trading with North Viet Nam.

Hall said the unions will call a meeting in Washington within a few weeks and that if the government has done "nothing effective" by then the boycott will begin.

Hall said the current U.S. Senate inquiry into Johnson's policies in Viet Nam is "completely irresponsible" and that the unions' proposed boycott is an effort to act responsibly to back up the U.S. war effort.

WIRE BRIEFS

Shakeup Coming

SAIGON (Reuters) — South Viet Nam's ruling generals will announce major government changes during the next few days in a bid to step up the non-military effort to win the war, informed government sources said today.

Firemen Killed

NORWICH, Eng. (Reuters) —Three firemen have died in a blaze still raging through a top secret underground radar bunker near here early today—more than 36 hours after it stared.

Hectic Plane Ride

MONTREAL (CP) — A 24-year-old university student safely landed a single-engine Cessna plane at Cartierville Airport early today after a hectic 90-minute joy ride over Montreal rooftops and power lines. Police reported the plane almost crashed at least twice as its pilot attempted several street landings in the city.

Attaches Walk Out

MOSCOW (UPI) — Three U.S. military attaches today staged a walkout at a news conference when a Soviet general denounced the United States as "aggressors" in Viet Nam.

Get-Tough Move Against Unions Hints U.K. Vote

LONDON (Reuters) — Renewed speculation that Prime Minister Wilson is preparing for a general election in March swept Britain today.

The view held in political quarters is that he will settle for March 31. Conservative Leader Edward Heath Thursday night warned his supporters to be prepared for an election on that date.

Political observers felt Wilson was likely to name the day next Tuesday after a visit to Moscow.

Several British newspapers today saw another strong election clue in Thursday's announcement by Herbert Bowden, the ruling Labor party leader in the House of Commons, that the government will stage a debate on social services next week.

The Daily Mirror described it as the government's "first clear sign that they are thinking of an early election."

Bowden also said a bill aimed at enforcing advance warning of union wage demands will be published next week.

TWO EFFECTS SEEN

Political observers said this will have the twin effect of demonstrating to international economists that the government is determined to tackle the country's basic economic problems—and taking advantage of a current "get tough with the union" mood among voters.

Other new pointers that the Labor government soon ill seek an election after struggling for 17 months with only a tiny parliamentary voting margin are:

1. Announcement today of details of potential vote-winning legislation by the government aimed at easing conditions for people who own houses but not the land they stand on.
2. The annual defence review, expected to reveal cuts to Britain's current £2,100,000,000 ($6,300,000,000) defence budget, will be published Tuesday.

TERRORISM in Santo Domingo must come to an end and anyone opposing this view will be deported, President Garcia-Godoy declared today. He says the terrorists, both right and left wing, are well known and peace in the capital of the Dominican Republic must be restored. See story Page 3.

RED MISSILES 'INVULNERABLE'

MOSCOW (AP)—A high-ranking Soviet officer said today that Russia has invulnerable missiles with a world range range and because of its might canot be intimidated by the United States.

Gen. Pavel Batitsky, first deputy chief of staff of the Soviet Army, told a press conference that not only are the missiles invulnerable to interventors but their "precise accuracy" has been proven by Pacific tests last year.

"No, no, Mr. McNamara, we cannot be intimidated," Batitsky said.

Batitsky said he was referring to U.S. Defence Secretary Robert McNamara's statement before the House of Representatives armed services subcommittee in Washington last month.

The defence secretary said the U.S. strategic missile force recommended for the 1967-71 period will provide "substantially more force than is required for an assured destruction capability against both the Soviet Union and Communist China."

Batitsky asserted that "the Soviet armed forces have everything necessary to cool off any military gamblers."

Bennett Demanding Probe Of Tight Money Policy

Premier Bennet said Thursday he will investigate through Prime Minister Pearson an eastern Canada controlled "tight money policy" which is hurting the B.C. forest industry.

The premier made the statement after Lands and Forests Minister R. G. Williston revealed in the Legislature that Mr. Bennett had already written to Bank of Canada Governor Louis Rasminsky about the problem.

Premier Bennett did not reveal Mr. Rasminsky's reply, but added: "I am now going further, to take it up with the prime minister.

Mr. Williston earlier said in the Legislature that a heavy demand for wood material suitable for pulp has affected every aspect of the forest industry and the necessary finance for capital, maintenance and inventory has strained credit facilities.

More than $300 million was spent in 1965 on the two items, he said.

"Eastern-controlled tight money has failed to recognize the changing conditions in the forest industry.

"Pulp mills operate throughout the year and wood inventories must be maintained at much higher levels than for a sawmill economy.

Link to Island May Not Be a Pipedream!

By AB KENT

B.C.'s awakening north can trigger the mainland railway link for which Vancouver Island has yearned 100 years.

If the Federal government won't do it—and so honor a 95-year-old Term of Union agreement with B.C. — then Premier Bennett may be the one to act.

There are those who think the canny premier cherishes a railway bridge via Bute Inlet and Seymour Narrows as a powerful bargaining point in his dealings with Ottawa.

It is felt that any premier who can lend Quebec $100 million; produce a ferry fleet almost out of his hat; quash all opposition to his two-river development policy to build the biggest hydro-electric plant in the Western World, can extend a railway from the interior without much trouble.

When the Peace and Prince George country roar with forest, mineral and allied industries fostered by Peace River hydro power, a new link to the seaports of Vancouver Island may be not only desirable but necessary.

Characteristically, the premier admits nothing.

He was asked what he thought of the idea of a link with the mainland—either rail or highway.

"Not much," was his quick reply.

"Years and years in the future," Mr. Benntt said.

Pressing Needs

"There are other more pressing needs to be fulfilled in the immediate future. Human betterment, education, social welfare—these are the things we are concerned with now."

But in resource-rich B.C. he also is fathering one of the continent's greatest economic expansions.

Seven new pulp mills are started or planned in the area between Prince George and Bute Inlet alone.

There is a treasurehouse of untapped hydro power from glacier-fed lakes and rivers in the interlocking Coast Range.

Lying almost at the foot of 13,260-foot Mount Waddington and 11,500-foot Mount Munday their reservoir capacity can be considered everlasting.

One estimate puts the potential of the Talyoko Lake system at 1½ million horsepower, virtually at the head of Bute Inlet.

What an inducement to industry — like Alcan's smelter at Kitimat, although the aluminum company built its own hydro facilities using the Nechako River system.

With the added convenience of railway and deepsea shipping access, both within a few hours' rail travel of Victoria and Prince George, the possibilities seem irresistible.

From the head of Bute Inlet the partly surveyed road leads about 175 miles almost directly to Alexandria, a point on Mr. Bennett's own Pacific Great Eastern Railway, on the mainstream of the Fraser, a hop-step from the Canadian National line at Prince George.

From there the tracks lead through mining, ranching and forest land; south to Vancouver and east to the fabulous Peace country straddling B.C.

BRISTOL, Eng.—George Hodges, 42, says he has learned the hard way that a girl's age is no joking matter.

It happened, he said, at a wedding party. He asked Sylvia Hallett her age and she said 25. Hodges suggested she looked nearer 45. That's how it started.

Miss Hallett, who is in fact 19, was charged in court with causing damage of £81 9s ($244) to furniture and windows in an attack on Hodges.

"I just had to express myself," she said.

Miss Hallett admitted breaking the windows but testified that others at the party did some of the throwing.

Hodges, who suffered a bruised nose and torn coat, testified that his remark about her age was meant only as a joke.

The court fined Miss Hallett £5 ($15) plus costs.

SAN FRANCISCO—Superior Court Judge Neubarth received a delayed Valentine Thursday from 45 San Quintin prison convicts who identified themselves as tenants of "Neubarth Alley."

The convicts' card was eight by ten inches and decorated with love birds, horseshoes and words "cops" and "robbers." Its salute to the judge went: "He gave us all security . . . when he banged his gavel down . . . and dumped us in this bide-a-wee . . . in old repressa town."

GOSFIELD, Eng.—Bernard Brooks says he's not a spy, has never seen Russia, with love or without, and will the police please go away.

The trouble is his car number—007. Brooks says wherever he goes police chase him, stop him and want to know why.

"The whole thing is becoming a bit of a nuisance," said Brooks.

"When I got the car there was no special significance attached to 007.

"It's just that 00 is Essex county's registration code and it was a pure coincidence that I got a 7 to go with it."

Brooks added that he has never read a James Bond novel or seen a James Bond movie and his car is an E-type Jaguar. Bond, special agent 007 in the Ian Fleming thrillers, drives an Astin Martin.

MOSCOW—Western wine, western-style women and a Ford car led to the downfall of Yury Sevidov, former star forward for Moscow Spartak soccer team, a Moscow newspaper says.

Sevidov has just gone on trial for drunken driving and manslaughter.

Not long ago he was close to selection for the Soviet national team. He was one of several soccer players banned for life last October.

KITCHENER, Ont.—The 21st item on Kitchener council's petty cash account was a set of billiard balls costing $16.46.

"Could somebody explain who has the table?" said Ald. Robert Wagner.

City treasurer R. V. Eby cleared the air and said plumbing inspectors bought the balls to test ventilators in new construction.

He said the balls are lowered into the ventilating systems to make sure they are clear of obstruction.

Bennett's Protest Studied by Ottawa

OTTAWA (CP)—The federal government is considering a letter from Premier Bennett of British Columbia objecting to recent changes in shipbuilding subsidies, the Commons was told Thursday night.

Transport Minister Pickersgill said Prime Minister Pearson has received Premier Bennett's letter criticizing cancellation of federal subsidies for the construction of provincially-owned vessels.

The change was announced last month, along with a cut in ship-building subsidies to 25 per cent from 35.

The B.C. government owns a fleet of ferries and Premier Bennett has threatened to place future ship orders with Japanese shipyards unless federal subsidies are restored.

Mr. Pickersgill was questioned on the issue by Tom Barnett (NDP — Comox - Alberni) during discussion of transport department estimates.

Chairman Refuses Resignation

A member of North Saanich and Sidney fire protection committee submitted his resignation Thursday night, and had it handed back by Sidney village chairman Arthur Freeman.

The resignation came from W. W. Gardner, Sidney village commissioner, who had been a member of the joint committee since Jan. 1.

It was refused "because it was a public works committee meeting and we had an agenda to follow," said the chairman.

The letter of resignation from the committee was the second in two weeks.

Mr. Gardner proffered his resignation from the committee because "I felt I couldn't do any more on it," he said.

He will meet Mr. Freeman today to discuss the matter further.

Indonesian Red Plans Defence

JAKARTA (Reuters) — The prosecution has demanded the death penalty for top Indonesian Communist leader Njono, on trial here for treason in connection with last October's abortive coup, informed sources said today.

They said the demand was made Thursday night during the prosecution's two - hour closing address to the special military tribunal trying the former chairman of the Communist-dominated Federation of Unions.

Njono was captured shortly after the Oct. 1 coup attempt and was accused by the army of being one of the plot's leaders.

The tribunal gave the defence 32 hours to prepare its case and adjourned the trial until Saturday.

AFTER MEETINGS WITH THANT, GOLDBERG

Martin Hopeful ICC Can Bridge Peace Gap

By BORIS MISKEW

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—External Affairs Minister Martin said today that the International Control Commission may be useful in bridging the gap between the United Nations and the Geneva conference in the attempts to bring peace to Viet Nam.

Martin said following separate meetings Thursday night with UN Secretary-General U Thant and U.S. Ambassador Arthur Goldberg that Canada "would fully support" any role the commission might be called on to play in helping to reach a Vietnamese settlement.

"But I don't want to make a final judgment until I get the views of the other members of the commission," Martin said in an interview prior to his departure to Washington.

The three - nation commission is made up of Canada, Poland and India. It was established in 1954 when the Geneva agreements were signed leading to the departure of French forces from Indochina.

The primary role of the commission was to supervise free elections aimed at the reunification of Viet Nam following the country's partition under the Geneva agreements. However, the elections never took place.

Martin plans to meet with U.S. officials in Washington to discuss such items as President Johnson's economic guidelines to keep U.S. capital at home and to confer Saturday with U.S. State Secretary Dean Rusk on the Vietnamese crisis.

"I'm encouraged with the attitude of Secretary - General U Thant and with my talks with Ambassador Goldberg," the external affairs minister said.

"I'm also encouraged with the possibility of a role for the commission in the Vietnamese situation."

MARKET SUMMARIES

N.Y. Slips Despite Boeing

Wall Street continued lower this afternoon despite sharp gains by Boeing and Studebaker. Losses were general in Vancouver mines.

AT NEW YORK volume for the day was estimated at 8,000,000 shares compared with 9,280,000 Thursday.

Boeing rebounded more than 5 points and Studebaker added another 2 points to its current updrive.

Kennecott spurted more than 4 points in response to a 3-for-1 stock split. Bigelow-Sanford advanced more than a point on news of a 2-for-1 split while Associated Spring was easy following news of a 3-for-2 split.

U.S. Steel was off a fraction although it said it is raising prices by $4 a ton on certain types of steel plate.

Losses of about a point were shown by General Motors, Chrysler, Zenith, Anaconda, Eastman Kodak, Du Pont, Polaroid, Standard Oil (New Jersey), Chesapeake and Ohio and Pennsylvania Railroad.

AT VANCOUVER Brenda dropped .45 to $6.10. Pyramid was down .37 to $13.75 and Yukon Antimony was off .10 to $2.60 after touching a high of $3.

Canusa gained .3 to .74.

In the industrials, Westcoast Transmission rose .50 to a 1966 high of $25.25.

AT TORONTO prices ramained mixed in moderate trading in the main list. B.C. Telephone advanced ¾ to 76 and Atlantic Sugar ¼ to 27¾. The Bank of Montreal and Royal Bank each fell ¾ to 63⅛ and 77 and CPR to 62¼.

Among base metals, Inco added 1 at 107, Denison ⅜ at 38⅛ and Rio Algom ⅛ at 21⅛. Noranda slipped ½ to 52¾.

Banff Oil led western oils higher gaining 1⅛ to 14⅛. Canadian Export Gas climbed 85 cents to 5.00 and Wilshire 40 to 6.20. Canadian Superior declined ⅝ to 23.

Golds were higher with La Luz up ⅜ to 23½ while Hollinger was off 6 to 27½.

AT MONTREAL most sections moved fractionally lower in moderately active trading.

RETIRING June 30 as president of the Toronto Stock Exchange is Lt.-Gen. Howard D. Graham, 67. No successor has been named.

Industrial volume was 112,600 and mines and oils 715,700.

Papers were off. MacMillan Bloedel and Powell River dropped ½ to 27½. Abitibi and Great Lakes each fell ¼ to 12⅛ and 23¾ respectively.

Utilities were lower with CPR slipping ½ to 62½.

The bank section moved lower. Nova Scotia and Royal each dropped ½ to 72½ and 77½ respectively.

AT LONDON the stock market, after earlier steadiness, tended to drift lower today on small pre-weekend selling and general lack of interest.

Dollar stocks mainly reflected trans-Atlantic declines but losses were small. Among Canadian issues, Canadian Husky, International Nickel and Noranda fell; Hudson Bay and Trans-Canada Pipe moved higher.

GRAIN PRICES

WINNIPEG (CP)—Most futures prices were firm to higher in moderate trade today on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange. Export interest was light.

Royal Trust Net Profit Shows Gain

MONTREAL (CP) — Royal Trust Co. Thursday announced net profit for the year ended Dec. 31 of $2,942,000 or $4.66 a share, compared with $2,574,000 or $4.52 a share in 1964.

President Conrad F. Harrington told a shareholders' meeting the 1965 net profit after taxes represented a 14-per-cent increase over 1964.

Mr. Harrington, discussing developments in the pension and welfare fields in 1965, said it is essential that internal savings for productive capital purposes be encouraged and developed if Canada is to remain competitive in world markets.

What Canada needed was to "establish an order of priorities in the social security field, and implement these measures in future only when they are economically feasible and in the best interests of the country."

'WORTH $1,000 IN FEW YEARS'

Bennett Irked by Needling Over PGE Share Purchase

Premier Bennett was visibly irked by opposition needling when he asked for second reading of a bill to "invest" $25.2 million in the government-owned Pacific Great Eastern Railway.

He explained that there were 25,282 shares still unissued of the authorized share capital for the private railway. The government owns all paid up shares but wants to buy the remaining ones at $100 a share.

"Who has control of these shares?" asked Gordon Dowding (NDP — Burnaby).

"The fiscal agent," snapped Mr. Bennett, meaning himself.

"Well, are you afraid of somebody else getting control of these shares?" asked Mr. Dowding with mock innocence.

"These shares in a few years will be worth not $100 but $1,000 a share," stormed the premier.

He said the government would not sell any shares to private persons "because the people, through the government, have taken all the risks and feel that the people should have all the benefits as well."

He told the legislature that the PGE was bringing prosperity to Victoria, Vancouver and all corners of the province by opening up the north to development.

The major pulp mill developments, mining boom and Peace River project "would have been impossible without the PGE.

"People are too narrow in their viewpoint if they keep one thing too close to their eyes," he said, urging everyone to take a broad sweep view of the whole province's economic advance.

Opposition Leader Robert Strachan adjourned debate on the bill before it came to a vote on second reading.

Test Ban Extension Urged by Churches

GENEVA (AP) — The World Council of Churches Thursday urged a sweeping ban on nuclear testing and called on churches throughout the world to work toward this aim.

The international religious body grouping 214 Protestant, Orthodox, Anglican and Old Catholic churches acted because "of the urgency which characterizes the present situation."

A statement by its policy-making - central committee also backed efforts to call a world disarmament conference instead of the limited 17-nation group meeting in Geneva now.

The council's nuclear ban call followed an appeal for a negotiated solution in Viet Nam. It marked the council's growing entry into the field of politics in keeping with its attitude to "warn the people in the name of the Lord."

The world council expressed its "gratitude" for the 1963 Moscow partial test - ban treaty and said it "ought to be expanded to include underground tests."

SAYS TASK VITAL

"We address our member churches, but also in thus speaking, seek to encourage governments to press forward in this task upon which the fate of mankind may hang."

The religious body, whose newly elected head is an American, Dr. Eugene Carson Blake, also called for measures to halt the spreading of nuclear weapons—a major issue before the current Geneva conference.

In another move, the central committee of the council took note of the struggle in southern Sudan, calling it "not only a racial war but a religious war."

The council demanded "appropriate steps" to put an end "to suffering" in the conflict between the Arab government of the Sudan and its partly - Christian Negro minority inhabiting the southern part of the country.

$100 Million U.S. Loan To India

NEW DELHI (AP) — U.S. Vice-President Hubert Humphrey announced Thursday a $100,000,000 loan to India. At the same time he declared Asia cannot prosper "if aggression goes unchecked."

Emphasizing that India must help itself, Humphrey told a news conference the new loan is to purchase raw materials and spare parts to get Indian industry moving.

The loan is the first since U.S. development aid was halted to India and Pakistan when they fought a war over Kashmir in September. A U.S. official source said, however, the loan does not constitute a resumption of development aid.

Humphrey said he had told the Indian government of United States determination "to continue to assist the government of South Viet Nam and other governments in Asia in their resistance to aggression." He said the aggressive forces in Viet Nam "are the same forces that threaten India.

Swine Breeders To Visit Island

Cowichan Agricultural Society will be co-hosts with the City of Duncan and the North Cowichan municipality at a luncheon for the Canadian Swine Breeders' Association on Feb. 26 in Duncan.

The national directors of the swine breeders will hold their annual meeting in Vancouver the day before, the first time they have ever had it in B.C.

On Saturday, they will cross to Victoria, visit Butchart Gardens, attend the luncheon at Duncan, and visit the B.C. Forest Products pulp mill at Crofton in the afternoon.

Jim Hill, Cobble Hill, B.C. director of the Canadian Swine Breeders, is in charge.

ENERGY

Where does it come from?

When you look deeply enough, the basic energies that push forward our progress are spiritual — and could only come from God. This insight changes people's lives. CIA COMES OUT OF COLD ON CAMPUS

GRINNELL, Iowa (AP)—The Central Intelligence Agency, which ordinarily operates so secretly most congressmen don't know what it is doing, was thrust into the limelight Tuesday by a student picket line. Nine Grinnell College students toted signs protesting a campus visit of a CIA agent to interview prospective employees for the spy agency.

The CIA man, who identified himself as Charles R. Pecinovsky of St. Louis, grinned sheepishly as he strode past youngsters bearing signs saying, "where there is an invisible government there is no democracy."

Most of the pickets were members of a group called Students for a Democratic Society.

MAJOR HARBOR FOR VICTORIA

'Super' Port Development Asked

A tri-government conference on development of major ports in Victoria, Squamish, Prince Rupert and a "super port" in Vancouver was proposed Thursday by Donald Robinson (SC—Lillooett).

Mr. Robinson said the four provincial governments should get together with the federal government to discuss the expansion program.

The civic governments and private industry should be asked to help too.

He said transportation is vital to an expanding economy and unless the goods of Western Canada can be shipped cheaply and quickly to foreign markets, Canada's competitive position in the world will begin a rapid decline soon.

Mr. Robinson said "this is an emergency situation and something has to be done immediately."

"It's going to take contributions and finance from the federal level, the provincial level and possibly the civic level together with help from big business."

He said it would take at least $200 million and maybe up to $500 million to modernize Vancouver harbor facilities which was too much for private industry to handle.

Montreal and Chicago have been developed into super-ports but only after government leadership was shown," Mr. Robinson said.

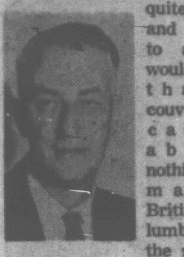
VICTORIA, B.C., FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 18, 1966—PAGE 19

Arthur Mayse

In this year when we celebrate our union with mainland British Columbia, we might spare a thought and perhaps a sigh for the Vancouver Island Secession Party. This was a lost-cause group organized and led by the late journalist, sage and historian, B. A. "Pinky" McKelvie.



The secessionists preached quite simply and devoutly to any who would listen that Vancouver Island can expect absolutely nothing from mainland British Columbia except the short and dirty end of the stick. Better, they insisted, that we sever the bond of 1866 and take our rightful place as Canada's eleventh province.

Today, the splendid isolation they craved is still further menaced. If the Pickersgill causeway doesn't do us in, the Gaglardi sea tube will. Over the one or through the other, the mainland hordes will be upon us.

In the name of progress, we may then see this poor distressful island of ours raped and plundered in a fashion to make even an old-time cut-and-clear-out logger swallow his snoose-juice.

★

Naturally, all this isn't going to happen the day after tomorrow. Mr. Gaglardi sees his underwater connecting link as a comfortable quarter-century distant. As for the causeway, the general feeling among the knowledgeable seems to be that the first hegale to hit the Gulf would roll it up like a carpet.

Still, it might be as well in anticipation of changing times, if we take that weasel word, progress, by its scruff and subject it to a thoughtful scrutiny.

You progress by going toward one point and away from another. Where, then, are we heading, and what are we leaving behind?

The last half of that question is easier to answer than the first.

Behind us is the era of coal and saw-logs, when a sparse population enjoyed the good and endured the bad in a state of insularity almost beyond belief.

That's how it used to be, in the years before war and post-war prosperity re-arranged and drastically expanded the Canadian population. But those years are past, and they won't return.

We have with us a present at which we seem to have arrived all in a rush . . . and here comes the future, edging and greedily pushing, before we're halfway ready to accommodate it.

Before we add too many mistakes to those already made and beyond recall. I think we should quit accepting the cry of "progress demands!" as sufficient excuse for short-sighted folly.

The intrusion permitted for the sake of a fast buck may permanently damage or even wipe out an irreplaceable asset.

★

A current case in point is the intrusion by miners into Strathcona Park. How long the producing life of any mine or mines in that area will be, we can only guess. From hard-earned experience, however, I suggest it will be much shorter than the professionally optimistic promoters would have us believe.

Against the long-term value of Strathcona to our Island and provincial economy, whatever we take in government revenue from mining in that unique park is the merest pittance.

I do not mean in beauty marred or a tract of true wilderness desecrated, but loss in dollars and cents.

Strathcona, untouched, was part of the stock in trade of what within a very few years may well be Vancouver Island's chief revenue producer. This is tourism. It's big now. It will be a lot bigger if we give it half a chance.

Apart from the forest industries, which if well managed will provide jobs and revenue until wood is outmoded, I fail to see an industrial future of any real consequence for us here. What I do see, if we cherish our shores, waters and wildlands, snatch our waning sport fishery back to health and bring order into our chaotic resort picture, is an economic future brighter than most.

FORMING CIRCLES across playground area of Vic West School, 120 elementary school youngsters polish up folk dances for massive gym display next Friday. Everything from rope climbing to jazz dancing will be demonstrated when YM-YWCA and Navy join Greater Victoria school students for event. Other features shown to public will be ball rhythms, circuit training, tumbling, square dancing, volleyball and Olympic gymnastics, starting at 8 p.m. in Gordon Head gymnasium of University of Victoria. Jewelry Thief Rifles Suite

Jewelry value at $820 was stolen Thursday from an Oak Bay Avenue apartment, city police said today.

The items, four rings and a gold bracelet were taken from the Senator Apartments suite of Mrs. Edith Jones, 1764 Oak Bay Avenue.

Police found no sign of forced entry into the apartment but pieces of metal were found in the door lock.

Taken from a dresser drawer were two diamond rings, a gold ring and a diamond and ruby ring.

The rings are valued at $200 each and the gold bracelet is worth $20, police said.

A. C. Ellison returned to his 1490 Dallas Road home after a month-long vacation Thursday to find it broken into.

A small pane of glass in a rear door was smashed to gain entry. Police said a bedroom was ransacked and $1 in change taken.

Judge 'Paned' By Story

A man who went on a window-breaking spree in downtown Victoria Thursday night found it costly in central court today.

Duane Blais, 24, of HMCS Mackenzie, was fined $100 and ordered to replace three windows valued at $170.

He pleaded guilty to charges of wilful damage.

Court was told he broke one window at Palm Springs and European Health Spa, 1315 Government Street, then went next door to Arrow Furniture.

LAY ON FLOOR

There he smashed a seven-by-six-foot window and a door window. Police found him inside the premises lying on the floor.

He told the court he broke the windows to attract attention as he was being chased by men in a car.

"Your story ranks with some of the most incomprehensible I've ever heard," commented Magistrate William Ostler.

Runaway Blast Hurts Motorist In City Centre

A passing motorist was struck by debris and two windows shattered by a blasting accident in downtown Victoria Thursday.

Wilfred Jones, 750 Cook, was treated at hospital with head bruises after a piece of hard clay flew in the window of the van he was driving at Douglas and View.

Two other pieces of earth or rock broke a window in Gibson's Ladies Wear and a second story office building across Douglas from an excavation site.

Mr. Jones lost control of his vehicle but it came to rest without further incident. A passenger was uninjured.

The blast was fired by workmen excavating for a new F. W. Woolworth Company store. There is hoarding around the site but the debris blew over it.

HMS Pinafore Closes Gangway

For the second time in two weeks, the "sold out" notice has gone up on a show at McPherson Playhouse.

Sellout tonight and Saturday is for HMS Pinafore, staged by Naden Amateur Concert Symphony with a cast, most of whom have never been in a show of this kind before.

The popular Gilbert and Sullivan offering has drawn big audiences since it opened Tuesday night.

High on its list of assets is a good orchestra composed of HMCS Naden band personnel and Victoria Symphony Orchestra string players. Conductor is Capt. J. M. Gayfer.

What's the difference between a Victorian and a Winnipeger?

About 97 degrees.

One of the coldest nights in Manitoba history sent the Winnipeg mercury tumbling to 49 degrees below zero. That's colder than a polar bear's tailbone.

In Victoria today the weather was 47, nudging 50, above zero.

The weather office at Winnipeg said the overnight low was coldest recorded in the 20th century.

Temperatures were under 40 below in almost every Manitoba centre. Brochet in northwest Manitoba registered 60 below.

Winnipegers who have moved to Victoria were smiling today.

OUT OF THE FRYING PAN

He Stole to Pay Fine

A youth who stole $87 and $161 in tools admitted in central court today to four break-ins.

James Grant Laurie, 19, of 660 Atkins Road, was remanded to Feb. 28 for pre-sentence report and sentence.

Three of the burglaries occurred on successive days this week.

Laurie was arrested at his home Thursday morning by Saanich police after his fourth break-in.

SMASHED WINDOW

Court was told he smashed a window to break into Suburban Motors garage at 3393 Douglas Jan. 16 where he took $26 from a cigarette machine.

Monday night he broke into the offices of Victoria Water Board, Old Island Highway, and took $12 from a desk drawer.

Tuesday he entered Ben's B-A, Old Island Highway, stole $33 and tools worth $75.

Wednesday night he smashed a window at Burnside Home Service, 2 Burnside Road W., and took $16 from a cigarette machine and tools worth $86.

When arrested he told police he needed the money to pay a traffic fine.

Topics of the Day

A stolen wallet turned up on the owner's front porch Thursday but without any money.

E. C. Banks, 1830 Crescent, told police he is missing $12 in U.S. bills and $4 Canadian.

A man who tried to start a fight Thursday night at Yates and Douglas was fined $50 in central court today for causing a disturbance.

Hendrikus Haamers, 939 Collinson, pleaded guilty.

Court was told he was shouting and swearing at occupants of a car at Douglas and Yates.

When police were talking to the persons in the car on Broad St., he returned and began again, court was told.

WHERE IS IT NOW? This old car is described in Times library as the first car in Nanaimo. It would be an invaluable addition to the vintage car collection the B.C. government plans to parade across the province in July. Many similar old-timers took part in 1958 run from Fernie to Victoria. Tour was a crowd pleaser.

Cars of Yesteryear Invited on B.C. Run

A parade of vintage cars will wend across British Columbia this summer.

The tour is sponsored by Canadian Confederation Centennial Committee as part of 1966 centenary celebrations. It begins July 2 at New Westminster and ends in Victoria July 9.

The course, subject to changes:

From New Westminster to Agassiz, to Hope, to Princeton, to Penticton, to Osoyoos, to Kelowna, to Salmon Arm, to Kamloops, to Barriere, to North Kamloops to Cache Creek, to Chilliwack, to Langley, to North Vancouver, to Nanaimo, to Victoria.

All cars must have been manufactured in 1936 or earlier. Rules drawn up by the Vintage Car Committee of the Provincial Centennial Committee state that cars do not have to be in mint condition but must be of good appearance complete with all standard parts, in sound mechanical condition, with sound tires.

Owners of Vintage Cars who would like to take them on tour are invited to apply for application forms to the Canadian Confederation Centennial Committee, Parliament Buildings, Victoria, or to the co-ordinator of the run, Frank Appelbe, Suite 7, 5860 Tisdall Street, Vancouver. Closing date for applications will be May 15, 1966, after which 30 cars will be chosen to make the run.

Bid to Get Liners Here Ruled Out

Victoria today lost its chance to be west coast Canadian terminal for P & O-Orient line's oceanic service.

Victoria Chamber of Commerce director Tom Denny reported to a noon meeting he had been in touch with P & O-Orient offices in San Francisco this morning. He learned the company had renewed its contract with the CPR to use Vancouver harbor facilities.

Chamber of Commerce study was undertaken when Vancouver port facilities were in doubt as far as P & O trans-Pacific and world cruise ships were concerned.

HAD CHANCE

Victoria stood a good chance of becoming the Canadian west coast terminal, although Ogden Point facilities were not quite suitable.

The chamber produced an argument in favor of Esquimalt Harbor as the docking point, and preliminiary discussions with P&O Lines were encouraging.

Besides Canadian embarkations from Vancouver, P&O caters to a large part of the Pacific Northwest.

The chamber was told company officials did not consider Victoria to be a disadvantage, as far as connections with the mainland were concerned.

EX-MLA, TEACHER DIES HERE AT 75

James Harry Beatty, proprietor of Victoria's Sprott-Shaw school for 50 years and Conservative member of the B.C. Legislature for Victoria City from 1928 to 1933, died in the Royal Jubilee Hospital early today.

He was 75 and had lived in Victoria since 1913.

Born at Frankford, Ont., Mr. Beatty moved out to Vancouver in 1908 to become assistant manager of the Sprott-Shaw Business Institute. In 1913 he opened a school in Victoria under the same name and continued as teacher and proprietor until he sold the business in 1963.

During the First and Second World Wars the school trained hundreds of radio operators for the Royal Canadian Navy and the Merchant Marine. And it met the challenge of the depression with high quality business and commercial training.

ROTARIAN

Mr. Beatty was a past president of Victoria Chamber of Commerce and held many offices in Victoria Rotary Club. He also belonged to Vancouver Quadra Lodge No. 2, A.F. & A.M., and the Gizeh Shrine of Victoria.

In his younger years he played basketball with his students at the Sprott-Shaw school and was known for his musical ability as a cornet player.

. . . here since 1913

As a member of the legislature, Mr. Beatty was active in the private bills committee and campaigned vigorously for civic improvements.

He is survived by the widow, Jean, at the family home at 1009 Terrace Avenue, Victoria, and a stepdaughter, Mrs. Maurice Palmer at Port Renfrew.

Funeral arrangements will be announced later by Haywards Ltd., 734 Broughton Street.

STRATHCONA FIGHT

Boundary Change For Park?

Buttle Protection Policy Emerging

The broad indications of a compromise permitting a townsite near the controversial Western Mines operation but technically preserving the year-old Parks Act emerged today.

And a government policy statement reflected a tough attitude against any pollution or discoloration of Buttle Lake or Myra Creek.

Both events occurred during the third session of a special legislative committee studying the third session of a special legislative committee studying the proposed location of a temporary townsite inside Strathcona Park near the new mine.

Howard Paish, secretary-manager of the B.C. Wildlife Federation, told the committee his organization would rather see the park's artificial map boundary changed to permit siting of the town rather than set a precedent which would undermine the act "at its first real test."

Trade Minister Ralph Loffmark later told the Times the government's view of the investigation would not forbid the committee from making such a recommendation.

FREE TO PROBE

Earlier, he told the committee that it was entirely free to investigate the possibility of the mining operation itself polluting or discoloring the watershed in any way.

He said the cabinet was disturbed at a suggestion earlier this week that the committee was being prevented from making any recommendations aimed at stopping dumping of fine rock silt into Myra Creek which might discolor the surface water of the creek or lake.

C. M. Campbell, manager of Western Mines, told the committee he was misunderstood in reports saying the company would do this or that it would make the lake murky. He said it is only a proposal under study and there would not be any residual murkiness to the surface waters.

Mr. Loffmark said any recommendations by the committee aimed at preventing the water from being discolored by either toxic or non-toxic substances would receive "the most serious consideration—I want to make that clear."

Mr. Paish made a submission that strongly urged exclusion of the town from the park even though it could be set up on the other side of the unnatural boundary line with less stringent controls.

But Forest Minister Ray Williston said this would be worse because a poorly-planned permanent community could be established which would be even more destructive to the recreational aspects of the general Buttle Lake area than a strictly-controlled temporary town.

Mr. Paish agreed with Mr. Williston but said the federation's submission was based on the argument that the most important thing was to prevent a precedent being established which would result in "thousands of applications" for residential concessions by companies and individuals in all provincial parks.

He said the federation felt that the mine alone would destroy the natural park aspects of its area and this could not be saved and the government should "go whole hog and remove this area from the park" rather than allow a townsite inside park borders, too.

"You would not be opposed to moving the park boundary then?" asked Mr. Loffmark.

"We recommended it 18 months ago. We wrote the minister that the ideal situation—if it is sincerely felt that the mine is more important than the park facility there—would be to remove this area from park status," replied Mr. Paish.

OPEN TO ARGUMENT

No member of the committee made any direct comment proposing this course but it undoubtedly will come up after hearings are over and it comes to grips with making recommendations. Mr. Loffmark's response indicated the government would not forbid such consideration.

Al King, representing the Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers indicated his union would support such a compromise. He said the union was opposed to industrial permits in provincial parks but the Western Mines situation was a "fait accompli."

Since locating a townsite outside the park would not restore the damage the mining operation would do to the natural recreational values of the area, it would be creating an unfair hardship to the miners and their families to refuse them the opportunity of living near their work, he said.

Mr. Paish said the federation "has faith" the fish and game branch, federal fisheries branch and B.C. Pollution Control Board would prevent pollution in the waters but only if they are brought into the picture immediately.

POINT OF NO RETURN

"They must be involved right from the start before you have a situation that has gone past the point of no return."

"You're not without friends in respect to pollution control," interjected Mr. Loffmark.

Federal fisheries officials should be involved, Mr. Paish said, because the Buttle Lake watershed drains into the Campbell River which is an important salt water salmon run.

Featherless Friend Makes Meals a Treat

By Penny Saver

The other day, as I set out downtown, I promised the family that I would bring something special home for dinner. I knew that I would be too tired to prepare anything, so I had a meal suggestion in mind that would only need, at the most, some reheating. By mid-afternoon, the idea of having a hot meal delivered to the door at dinner time seemed like the simplest thing to do. However, I was too carried away with shopping and forgot all about that. Close to shop closing-time, I was exhausted, but not so tired as to want to let the family down.

With not much time to spare, I rushed into one food store, in pursuit of the delicatessen department. I didn't have anything particular in mind, until I saw a golden brown chicken in a heated glass container. That was for me.

This bird, a delicious meal for $1.85, was enough for four healthy servings. A smaller barbecued bird, enough for three servings, sells for $1.65.

The birds are placed in a foil-lined bag so that they remain warm. When you get them home, just pop the bag and its contents into a 350 degree oven for 20 minutes. The result is delicious.

For an accompaniment, what could be better than an ample serving of seasoned potato salad? One pound of this salad, with a slightly tart dressing, sells for 50 cents. My family loved it.

One day, I overheard two girls discussing plans for a party that they were about to have. The problem in mind was what kind of food to serve. One suggested either spaghetti or pizza. The other, who had just had a spaghetti party, didn't fancy an encore.

Both agreed on the pizza party, but their guest list was made out for 22 people. Enough pizza for that number requires a lot of work, and a lot of dough — no pun intended! Pizza mixes, with prepared dough, tomato sauce, and a tin of Parmesan cheese, are a simple solution for 51 cents. All that you have to do to the dough is add water, mix and let it rise in a warm place for about 10 minutes. Then, mold it onto the pizza pans, add the sauce, and garnish it with anything from anchovies and mushrooms to bacon and cold meats. Baking time in a hot oven is 25 minutes.

These foods are special treats in our household. If you want to know where Penny found them, give her a call at 382-3131.

DEAR ABBY . . .

Let It Be Known!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I have positive proof that my husband is running around with five women in this neighborhood. Three live on my block and all have good and faithful husbands. Then there is a divorcee down the street, and a young widow in the next block. Each thinks she is the only one. I hate to walk down the street because I know who they are. What should I do?

HIS WIFE

DEAR WIFE: If you want to break up the harem, invite them all for coffee and conversation and tell them what they have in common. That should cut down the membership considerably. And don't worry about punishing your husband. The others will take care of that!

DEAR ABBY: A real nice guy who works with me has been looking awfully tired lately, so I asked him if he had not been feeling well. He replied, "Our six-year-old boy has always slept with the wife and me because he's afraid to sleep alone. Now we bought him a dog that's part-German shepherd and part-Labrador, and the boy won't go to sleep unless he has the dog next to him, so I don't get much sleep in such crowded conditions." He was absolutely serious. Abby, how idiotic can people be?

AMAZED

DEAR AMAZED: A father who lets his six-year-old son sleep with him and his wife, and then can't say no when the boy demands to include the dog, is in for many more sleepless nights. This "real nice" guy needs a "real good friend" to tell him what's what.

DEAR ABBY: Years ago I entered into a "shotgun" marriage. The agreement was that we marry to legalize the child's birth, the mother would raise the child, and we would go our separate ways. We never lived together.

Several years later my "wife" called me from another town to tell me that she had gotten a divorce and had remarried. I then remarried a lovely girl.

The other day my first wife MAILED me some divorce papers to sign! She admitted she had lied to me about having obtained the divorce years ago, and she is just now getting it. Abby, I have a wife and family. How do I get out of this mess without a lot of publicity? Can we secretly marry quickly in another province? For obvious reasons I can't divulge my name, and don't want to discuss this with a lawyer.

DESPERATE

DEAR DESPERATE: When people have a medical problem, they can't get a doctor fast enough. Why, then, when they have a legal problem, are they reluctant to get a lawyer? Laws are made to HELP people as well as to punish them, you know. And a lawyer can protect you by telling you what your rights are.

CONFIDENTIAL TO GARY: Don't let it bother you. It's always the girl who can't dance who says the orchestra is terrible.

Red and White

A bowl of snowdrops, flanked by white candles, highlighted a red-and-silver cloth on the head table when the Salt Spring Island Woman's Auxiliary held a Valentine tea in the parish hall at Ganges, Saturday. The sum of $87 was realized.

Receiving guests were Mrs. R. B. Horsefield and Mrs. Eric Faure. Presiding at the refreshment table were Mrs. Dorothy Hook, Mrs. Joyce Parsons, Mrs. R. R. Alton and Mrs. R. T. Cook.

General convener was Mrs. George Laundry and Mrs. V. L. Jackson was in charge of tea arrangements.

Other conveners were: Home baking, Mrs. N. W. Howland and Mrs. H. Ashby; needlework, Mrs. G. H. Holmes and Mrs. Edward Adams; tickets, Mrs. Harold Price.

Mrs. Parker Again Made Regent Of Salt Spring Island Chapter

Mrs. F. K. Parker was returned for another year in the office of regent when HMS Ganges Chapter IODE held its annual meeting in Ganges United Church Hall, Salt Spring Island. Mrs. O. L. Stanton presided and Mrs. V. C. Best took the chair for the election of officers.

Serving with Mrs. Parker on the new slate of officers are: First vice-regent, Mrs. O. L. Stanton; second, Mrs. E. A. Richardson; secretary, Mrs. H. J. Carlin; assistant secretary, Mrs. J. Pitts; treasurer, Mrs. Joyce Parsons; education, Mrs. G. D. Cruickshanks; Echoes, Mrs. Best; services at home and abroad, Mrs. Colin King; standard bearer, Mrs. Gavin C. Mouat.

Heading standing committees are: Membership, Mrs. George St. Denis; world affairs, Mrs. G. H. Holmes; commonwealth relations, Mrs. T. W. Portlock; public relations, Mrs. Parker; hospital, Mrs. W. M. Mouat and tea, Mrs. C. S. Hewett.

In her services at home and abroad report, Mrs. B. Earl Hardie said that donations valued at $724 had been given in this department. They included 15 bundles of books sent to Canadian servicemen in Germany, jewelry and clothing sent to the women's apparel shop at Riverview Hospital, Essondale; hampers for Island residents.

In addition, the chapter had organized a community tag day in aid of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind and members had given many hours of service with the local library and hospital auxiliary.

Mrs. Holmes read a paper, "Children's Commonwealth Conference" which told of the conference, organized by an English school principal in a Sussex town to bring more than 200 children from seven schools together to hear speakers from several Commonwealth countries.

Mrs. Gavin Mouat and Mrs. Holmes served tea at the close of the meeting.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Use Brush on Eyebrows For That Natural Look

Q. I don't know what to do about my eyebrows. They are rather thin and I need to use an eyebrow pencil. However I just can't seem to use it with "feathery" strokes. No matter how hard I try you can still see the little lines. What am I doing wrong?

Lowman

A. Use your finger to blend the little lines. The idea is to avoid one hard straight line. You might like to brush on your brows instead of using a pencil. This type brow coloring is easy to apply. You simply rub the little brush over the powder or cake and then brush on your brows. They look very natural.

Q. I am always reading that brows should be plucked only underneath, not on top. My brows are fuzzy at the top and don't look well-groomed or well-defined unless I pluck some hairs above the brows. Am I wrong?

A. When shaping the brows, pluck them only at the lower level. You can safely remove any stray hairs on top which are out of the natural line of the brow. You should do this.

Q. Sometimes I read that mascara should be applied to the lower lashes. This makes my eyes look like daisies or something. I feel silly.

A. While there is nothing wrong with looking like a daisy, I agree that the effect is usually much more attractive when mascara is used only on the upper lashes. A tiny little line at the outer corners of the eyes, made with an eyebrow pencil, adds zest for gala occasions.

Q. My makeup looks fine in daytime but at night it looks awful, sort of washed out and nil. Why?

A. Your makeup does not have enough pink in it for night-time. Artificial lighting washes out the pink. Try one at night which is pinker.

Q. I am only 35 but I have deep horizontal lines on my forehead. It seems to me that I am too young to have these. What could have caused it?

A. You almost surely have the habit of lifting your eyebrows. This facial mannerism will etch lines on a very young face if indulged in habitually. The first thing you must do is to correct this habit. Also massage a lubricating cream along the lines each night using your finger in a rotary motion. You can help by "ironing" them out.

Coffee Party

The Fine Arts Study Group of the University Women's Club of Victoria has extended an open invitation to everyone to attend a scholarship coffee party, Wednesday.

Proceeds from the affair, being held from 11 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. in the home of Mrs. R. M. Adamson, 1684 Yale Street, will go toward a scholarship to send a student to the Victoria Summer School of Music.

Mrs. M. C. M. Matheson is convening the event and presiding at the refreshment table will be Mrs. W. G. Jewitt, Mrs. Jay Durand, Mrs. T. H. Johns and Mrs. J. W. McCammon. A door prize will be offered.

Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Neligan, 4156 Carey Road, announce the forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Margaret Helen, to Mr. D. James Steven Peterson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Peterson of Hudson, Ont. The wedding will take place on Saturday, March 12, at 7 p.m. in St. Andrew's Cathedral. (Meyers Studio).

Victoria Man Married In Up-Island Church

A wedding of interest in Victoria took place at Port Alberni recently when Miss Carol Eileen Smith exchanged vows and rings with Michael Richard Walker.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. K. R. Smith of Port Alberni. The groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. J. R Walker, 658 Sedger Road, Victoria.

Rev. George Affleck officiated at the evening ceremony in First United Church and Mrs. Nancy McLennon sang "I'll Walk Beside You" during the signing of the register.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was lovely in a full-length gown of white lace that was fashioned with a sweetheart neckline on the fitted bodice and graceful, full skirt. Her waist-length veil misted from a pearl coronet. Pink roses and stephanotis formed her bouquet.

Miss Gail Smith was maid of honor for her sister. Her floor length gown of turquoise brocade had a matching jacket and was complemented with a bouquet of turquoise-tipped carnations. Pink carnations were in the bouquet carried by flower girl, Judy Sauchuk, matching those in her hair. Her pink nylon frock was styled with a tiered skirt.

Ronald Parker was best man and ushering guests were the bride's twin brothers, Kenneth and Richard Smith.

Pink and white streamers decorated the church's Fellowship Hall for the reception and dinner which followed the service. The same color theme was used on the wedding cake, which had been decorated by the bride's father.

Leaving on a honeymoon trip to Vancouver Island centres, the bride donned a royal blue double-knit suit, red accessories and a corsage of white carnation tipped in scarlet.

Several Victorians travelled to Port Alberni for the ceremony, including the groom's parents, his brothers, Ronald and Jack Jr. and his sister, Maureen. Also from Victoria were Mr. and Mrs. J. Tullock, Mrs. Clara Butler, Fred Thomas, Miss Una Hall, Keith Freeman, Mrs. Gail O'Brian and Mrs. R. Parker.

Other out-of-town guests were Mrs. J. Patterson and Mr. and Mrs. T. Douglas, all of Nanaimo; Mr. and Mrs. G. Willoughby of Jordan River.

Top Designer

MONTREAL (CP) — Marielle Fleury, one of Montreal's most promising couturieres, has been selected as Canada's fashion designer of the year by fashion writers across the country.

Miss Fleury, who designs fashionable but classic clothes with an accent on color and fabric, was awarded top honors for the best exclusive creation in the national collection competition sponsored by the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union.

Miss Fleury's creation was a sophisticated dinner ensemble. It consisted of a ruffle banded, low-backed dress of green crepe, covered by a light wool boucle coat of white, with the same hem detailing.

Two other designers, John Warden, originally of Niagara Falls, Ont., and Mr. Gilbert of Montreal, also won awards for their original creations.

John Warden designed the best ensemble for Auckie Sanft while Mr. Gilbert received the award for the best evening dress.

OF PERSONAL INTEREST

Entertain Competitors

Visiting competitors from Vancouver and Seattle and members of the Victoria Racquet Club will gather in the castle of Canadian Services College, Royal Roads, for a tea, Saturday afternoon. The visitors are in Victoria to compete in the Pacific Northwest Squash tournament this weekend. Saturday evening, the Pacific Club will be the setting for a dinner and dance, to be preceded by cocktails at 7 p.m. More than 100 members of the Victoria club and competitors are expected to attend. Hosts of the affair, being sponsored by the Racquet Club, will be Dr. Arthur Proctor, tournament director, and Mr. George Evans, squash director. Fred Usher's orchestra will play for dancing.

Young Dancers

Miss Peggy Stein, a student of the University of British Columbia, has arrived in Victoria to attend the Young People's Dance tonight in Government House. Another UBC student, Miss Sheila Dobson, of Duncan, will also attend the ball. Both are staying in the Upper Terrace home of Miss Stein's parents Maj.-Gen. C. R. Stein and Mrs. Stein.

Pre-Dance Fun

Thirty members of the young set will gather in the Fairfield Road home of Capt. W. P. Hayes, RCN, and Mrs. Hayes this evening prior to attending the Young People's Dance at Government House. The party is being arranged by Miss Jane Hayes and Miss Janet Dixon, daughter of Cmdr. Garfield Dixon and Mrs. Dixon. Both the young hostesses are 1965 debutantes.

Naval Show

Several reserve naval officers of HMCS Malahat and their wives have made up a party to attend this evening's performance of HMS Pinafore in the McPherson Playhouse. They include Cmdr. and Mrs. W. F. Walker, Cmdr. and Mrs. R. D. Learoyd, Lt.-Cmdr. and Mrs. A. N. Foxgord, Lt.-Cmdr. and Mrs. E. K. Lee, Lt.-Cmdr. and Mrs. K. A. Stone, Lt.-Cmdr. and Mrs. R. S. Vickers, Lt.-Cmdr. and Mrs. L. Cottell, Lieut. and Mrs. R. E. Huffman, Lieut. and Mrs. S. Gill and Sub-Lt. (W) Jennifer Dyer.

From Vancouver

Travelling from Vancouver to attend the Young People's Ball in Government House this evening, was Miss Kathryn Jane Keate. She arrived in Victoria this afternoon and will spend the weekend as guest of Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Arnott in their Fairfield Road Home.

Announcement

Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Wescott, 1415 Simon Road, announce the recent marriage of their daughter, Gay, to Mr. Kenneth Gordon Leveridge, only son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Leveridge, 1341 Haultain Street. The wedding took place on Friday, Feb. 4, in the chapel of St. John's Anglican Church with Canon Grahame Baker officiating.

Recent Wedding

Mrs. M. L. Cawsey, 3071 Wascana Street, announces the recent marriage of her granddaughter, Miss Dauna M. Blatchford, to Mr. Robert A. Ellis, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Ellis of Barham, N.S.W., Australia. The ceremony took place in the Wascana Street home of Mr. and Mrs. R. Murray, and Rev. T. H. McAllister officiated. Mr. D. S. Bissett gave the bride in marriage, maid of honor was Miss Carmen Varcoe, and best man, Mr. Robert Clarke. Mr. G. E. Rogers proposed the toast to the bride at the reception which followed. The newlyweds are now making their home at 923 McClure Street.

Formal Dinner

Covers were laid for six when Miss Susan MacDougall entertained at a small formal dinner party Tuesday evening in the Lansdowne Road home of her parents, Maj. Keith MacDougall and Mrs. MacDougall. The 1965 debutante was also celebrating her 20th birthday.

ROYAL BANNS ARE SIGNED

AMSTERDAM (AP)—Crown Princess Beatrix of The Netherlands and her German fiance, Claus von Amsberg, signed their marriage banns Thursday. The wedding will take place March 10.

The princess, 28, and the former diplomat drove from the royal palace to the village of Baarn, 30 miles outside of Amsterdam, for the ceremony. The palace is just outside Baarn.

'New Teeth' In Rights Laws Asked

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson will ask Congress to put new teeth into federal laws aimed at desegregating public schools, it was learned today.

He also will ask for about 100 new FBI agents to cope with that agency's swelling civil rights caseload, informed sources said.

A bill being drafted by the Johnson administration would give the U.S. attorney-general great authority to initiate court action toward desegregation of schools instead of awaiting complaints and taking part in suits brought by Negroes.

The proposal would be aimed at blocking intimidation of Negroes seeking to integrate schools and harassment of Negro pupils attending previously all - white schools, informants said.

The president is expected to include school desegregation proposals in a civil rights package that will include proposed laws to eliminate discrimination in jury selection; extend federal court protectiion to Negroes and civil rights workers in the south, and eliminate discrimination in the sale or rental of housing.

JAIL DOCTOR REQUEST REJECTED BY POLICE

VANCOUVER (CP) — Police Chief Ralph Booth issued a report to the police commission Thursday saying a full-time doctor at the city jail would not be justified.

The chief's statement came at the same time another coroner's jury here called for a full-time doctor at the jail.

The jury, at an inquest into the death of John Chernesky, 57, was told that Chernesky died of a blood clot on the brain following his arrest.

Government 'Fumbles Ball' On Air Pollution Proposal

Social Credit MLAs Thursday blocked Alan Macfarlane (L—Oak Bay) from making an end run around their refusal to order a study of municipal financial grievances. But they fumbled the ball themselves.

The unexpected display of fancy footwork came up shortly before the pre-set adjournment time of 6 p.m.

Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell made a hastily-prepared motion that the legislative committee on municipal matters study the possibility of regional joint services boards undertaking air pollution control.

An argument developed immediately as Opposition Leader Robert Strachan moved an amendment that would require the committee to report its findings and make recommendations to the legislature.

John Squire (NDP—Alberni) who has helped organize a mass petition in the Alberni Valley protesting air pollution from a pulp mill, said the minister's motion did not indicate any action would result.

If recommendations were not requested, the government move plainly "was just a sop to the people of Alberni," he said.

Anthony Gargrave (NDP—Mackenzie) surprised everyone when he declared he would oppose both the motion and the NDP amendment.

"You can't have one regional district forcing a mill to put in expensive scrubbing equipment when another region doesn't do the same to a competing mill," he said.

"The study should not be done by throwing together an ad hoc committee in one corner of this building without enough time.

"We're not technical experts but the pollution control board is and it should study this and be empowered to act now and give leadership to this spineless government" by expanding the board's present jurisdiction over water and land to include air pollution.

Mr. Gargrave's remarks obviously nettled the government side and Mr. Macfarlane increased the heckling because he seized the opportunity to repeat his demands for a municipal finance study while ostensibly debating the pollution motion.

"It's absolutely ridiculous that the minister should bring this forward when there are matters of greater concern to the municipalities," he said to a mounting protest that he was out of order came from the backbenches.

"You bring this in to the house but you won't ask the committee to study a vital problem of finance as requested by the municipalities," he persisted.

Looking up at the clock, Mr. Macfarlane noted that the time was four minutes beyond automatic adjournment and he made a motion to adjourn the debate—which would have made him first speaker on the subject when it resumed after the supper break.

But some quickly relayed instructions brought a resounding Socred "no" vote to his adjournment motion and technically the debate was still under progress when a moment later Speaker William Murray invoked automatic adjournment of the sitting.

Premier Bennett broke out into a broad grin and nodded approvingly at the chair because under the procedural rules the pollution motion debate was dead.

The cost of the reprieve was a rare humiliation in which a government motion was "talked out"—debate being stopped by the clock.

ISLAND DIGEST

DARYL QUIST
. . . singing woodsman

ALL FOR LOVE

Logger Gives Up Stardom

By DON DINGWALL

LADYSMITH—You're young, handsome, talented and at 30 you're a 'pop' singing star in England.

Then you give it all up.

You marry and go to work on Vancouver Island as a logger.

It's the true life story of Daryl Quist of Ladysmith.

In August last year Daryl Quist was earning £65 ($200) a week.

He had just finished a season starring in his own show.

Daryl had cut records for one of the major United Kingdom companies and made TV appearances.

* * *

But Daryl was homesick—and lovesick.

Having a house of his own in a resort town and a London apartment was not happiness for Daryl.

He believes it's in marrying his childhood sweetheart, in working like his father as a logger and in setting up his own home in his native town.

In his early teens, Daryl was a tap dancer. He took lessons in Vancouver from Greta Hunt.

She instilled in him the idea of going on the stage.

* * *

Daryl saved from his weekend jobs, and in 1961 went to England on his own to seek fame and fortune.

He achieved a measure of both in four short years.

The day after he arrived he landed a job in the Tommy Steele "Humpty Dumpty" pantomime at Liverpool.

Later he auditioned as a singer and joined a summer show at Great Yarmouth.

The next winter he spent doing "one night stands" with such stars as Cilla Black, Cliff Richards, the Rolling Stones and the Dave Clark Five.

* * *

But Daryl never quite settled to the life of living out of a suitcase.

The painted glamour couldn't hold him.

Twice he flew back home to his family, and childhood sweetheart Carolyn.

Daryl came back a third time last August.

He said this week: "I think I'm home to stay . . . I mean I know I'm home to stay."

He and Carolyn were married Saturday and are busily making plans for their new home.

* * *

Meanwhile Daryl works at the Nanaimo River camp of MacMillan, Bloedel & Powell River Ltd.

He pulls rigging and admits "it's quite a change."

But Daryl says: "At least you can make plans. On the stage you can make a lot of money one year and starve the next.

"I'm a lot happier now," he said.

Daryl said audiences in England for 'pop' shows still work themselves into the type of mass hysteria common in the early years of Elvis Presley.

He's happy to leave it all behind.

Accidental Death

LAKE COWICHAN — An inquest jury returned with a verdict of accidental death with no blame attached to anyone in the Feb. 8 logging accident which killed David Reed.

ISLAND ROUNDUP

Increase Seen In Hepatitis

NORTH COWICHAN—Infectious hepatitis is again on the increase in Central Vancouver Island.

Coun. Elaine Dobbyn said Thursday the increase was not alarming but quite definite.

She said so far children were bearing the brunt of the increase of the disease.

Mrs. Dobbyn expressed the hope news of the spreading disease would strengthen public support for the sewer bylaw shortly to be put to municipal ratepayers in the Sherman Road-Mary Street area.

Keep Sexes Apart?

NANAIMO — Sex segregated classes in Vancouver schools are drawing attention from the Nanaimo School Board.

The board is keeping an eye on the Vancouver experiment in response to a request from a group of North Cedar residents.

Just a Tattoo?

NANAIMO—The trial of a man and girl charged with theft and illegal possession of narcotics entered its second day here Thursday.

Admissibility of statements made by the accused, Allan Edward Ross, 23, and Glenna Mae Wilson, 20, as evidence at the trial was disputed.

Constable William Kerr testified he pointed out needle marks on Miss Wilson's arm when he took her to police station, but she stated they were a tattoo she was having removed

Consultant Named

NANAIMO—Dr. J. P. Tully of this city, has been appointed oceanographic consultant, to the chairman of the Fisheries Research Board of Canada, it was announced Thursday.

Among other things, he will act as secretary of a co-ordinating committee on great lakes pollution programs and of the Canadian committee on oceanography.

$3,300 Collected

NANAIMO—Plans for purchasing a new Nanaimo ambulance are now $3,300 towards their goal.

But there's still $10,200 left to go, and local residents, headed by Mrs. Dolly Fearon and Local 180 of the Hospital Employees' Union, are determined to make it.

At present a door-to-door bilitz, which pulled in more than $1,800 on its first day, is in progress.

Six-Month Term

COURTENAY — An 18-year-old Quadra Island youth with a record for breaking and entering was given two concurrent sentences of six months definite and 12 months indefinite.

The sentences were given Harry Price, told by the magistrate he had "a very bad record" for breaking and entering and attempted breaking and entering.

Paint-Up Set

DUNCAN — The city may shortly have a paint-up campaign among merchants.

The advisory planning commission is trying to get the ball rolling.

Commission member Robert D. Howard said today: "Some of the business premises in town are a disgrace.

"We want to try to instil some pride in the city's merchants regarding their premises.

"City hall has an over-all color scheme for the business area but a selling job has to be done with the merchants."

Golf Club Plans

DUNCAN — Cowichan Golf Club is to have a $35,000 addition and remodelling job done to the clubhouse.

At the annual meeting Thursday evening members voted the board authority to borrow the necessary money.

The directors were also authorized to spend up to $4,500 buying ten acres of land giving access to Cowichan Bay Road.

New director W. Bradshaw Harrison said this would allow for possibly three new holes to be added to the existing nine, and a driving range.

The addition to the clubhouse will be 46 feet by 28 feet with a large balcony.

Up-Island Cities' Projects Approved

Official approval of Centennial projects for Courtenay and Cumberland has been received from both federal and provincial authorities.

Development of Puntledge Park at Courtenay, costing a total of $20,526, will be split almost exactly between local backing and government grants.

Cost of a $9,000 park house at Cumberland will be paid by $3,816 from federal and provincial funds, and $5,184 from the local fund.

Milk Board Lax?

DUNCAN — Archie Stevenson of Cowichan Station, president of the B.C. Federation of Agriculture, said here that the B.C. Milk Board does not exercise its full powers.

He said the new Ontario Milk Board would have absolute power to regulate all retail and wholesale prices of milk and to control all movement of milk. He said that it would be a 15-man board made up entirely of producers and that the board chairman would receive $25,000 a year.

HELP KIDNEYS PASS 3 LBS. A DAY

Most people pass about three pints of liquid a day or about three pounds of liquid-waste. Now, if kidneys become sluggish, urinary irritation and bladder discomfort may follow. The result can be backache and restless nights. This is when Dodd's Kidney Pills can help bring relief. Dodd's stimulate kidney action, help relieve the irritated condition that causes the backache. Take Dodd's and see if you don't feel better, rest better. Used successfully by millions for over 70 years. New large size saves money. Advt.

Steward-Scientist Fishes in Depth

Harry Watkins is a man with two unusual jobs.

He's steward aboard the Canadian weathership Stonetown which takes its turns at station Papa 500 miles out in the Pacific.

At the same time he fishes the ocean depths in the interests of marine biology. He keeps records of the depths at which he catches various kinds of fish and reports to the Marine Biological Station at Nanaimo, bringing them back scales and fish stomach specimens.

He has no facilities aboard to keep fish alive. But recently when he made a rare catch of a number of skilfish (erilepis zonfer) he improvised a makeshift tank from a 4-by-2½-foot box lined with part of a weather balloon.

He kept the tank in the Stonetown's engine room where he was able continually to pump fresh sea water into the box. He caught and froze salmon to feed them.

Of the eight skilfish he brought aboard, two died. He kept the three smallest and let the others go back to the ocean.

"They became so tame, I could feed them by hand," he reported, adding that once adjusted to people, skilfish apparently like to have their bellies rubbed. "I would rub their bellies and when I'd take my hand away they would turn over for more."

Nanaimo biologists were enthused about his report and their offer of the rare fish to the Vancouver Aquarium was accepted.

Vince Penfold, assistant curator at the Vancouver Aquarium, says the skilfish is a relative of the Alaska black cod, but "very little is known about them." They have large heads, mouth and eyes, indicating the ocean depths are their normal habitat.

The aquarium now has half a dozen, all captured by the weathership or Nanaimo Biological Station personnel.

COUNCILLORS CAUGHT IN KHENIPSEN FEUD

NORTH COWICHAN — The half-dozen residents of Khenipsen Road on the north arm of Cowichan Bay are staging their own little feud.

The feud is over the state of the road.

Caught in the middle is North Cowichan Council.

At alternate meetings since the fall council bombarded with letters either demanding the road be blacktopped, or else that it be left in it's "country lane" style but graded.

Latest blast came from Dennis Gaunt who said the road was "already a race track for the not-so-youthful and therefore might as well be blacktopped."

Reeve Donald Morton said before making a decision council should bear in mind the complaint of increased taxes by Khenipsen residents meant in fact paying a $1 a year instead of nothing.

The problem was left with the public works committee.

INSTITUTE FOUNDER

An Unusual Woman With 'Queer' Ideas

By ELIZABETH FORBES

In this day and age we may be conscious that the principles of homemaking did not happen by accident but we are not curious enough to explore those principles back to their beginnings and to probe for ths spark that propelled them into our lives.

Forbes

If we did, we would find in almost every instance, a dedicated man or woman who dreamed and who worked tirelessly for its fulfilment.

This was brought home to me a few days ago when I was reminded that Saturday is Adelaide Hoodless Day.

To the average person, that name means little or nothing. Yet, this woman crusaded more than 70 years ago and won her fight to have clean milk provided in the Ontario town where she lived.

She headed a campaign to have home economics education for girls — "domestic science" they called it then.

And she was the force behind the organization of the first women's institute in the world, at Stoney Creek, Ontario.

It is for this last accomplishment that Adelaide Hoodless is remembered each year. For it was on Feb. 19, 69 years ago, that the first institute was born.

★ ★ ★

At that time Mrs. Hoodless was known to many as a woman with "queer views." She had been agitating for the teaching of domestic science in the public schools. Because her first baby died at 18 months from drinking impure milk — something she believed she could have prevented if she had "known better" — she was doing everything in her power to help others to gain the knowledge she had lacked.

She was also noted as an entertaining — if unusual — speaker. It was for this reason (not because they were interested in her views) that the Ontario Farmers' Institutes Experimental Union invited her to speak at its annual meeting in Guelph.

At the meeting Adelaide Hoodless heard farmers talking about the health of their animals. When she got up to speak she argued, that the health of their families was far more important.

One young farmer, Erland Lee of Stoney Creek, more farsighted than the others, was intrigued by this revolutionary idea. He promised Mrs. Hoodless that if she would present the same view at a meeting of his farmers' institute he's guarantee to have the women out to hear her.

Adelaide Hoodless urged the women who did turn out to form an organization of their own to study homemaking, just as the farmers' institutes studied farming. She offered to help.

A date was set — Feb. 19, 1897. Thirty-five women promised to attend. When the night came 101 women were there and the first institute was founded.

Today there are women's institutes in every province in Canada, in Great Britain, Belgium, France, New Zealand, South Africa and India. Internationally they are banded together as the Associated Countrywomen of the World.

Adelaide Hoodless had the vision and the determination needed to start this movement that still holds to the belief that home and family is of vital and almost universal concern to women.

She was derided in the press and from the platform as one of those "new women." Especially when she made over 60 speeches in two years to help educate public opinion to allow government grants for the domestic sciences courses she wished to see started.

★ ★ ★

She helped raise funds to open a training school for domestic science teachers in Hamilton, Ontario, and when it became too small, she persuaded Sir William Macdonald, than "tobacco king" of Montreal, to give money to build Macdonald Institute for this purpose at the Ontario Agricultural College at Guelph.

She also dreamed of a course in some university where more advanced training in household science could be given. The government could not see eye to eye with her so she set out to find the capital.

It was while she was pleading with Toronto women at a special meeting of the Federated Women's Clubs on Feb. 25, 1910, that Adelaide Hoodless died. She was only 52.

CALLED UPON to form a new centre-left government in Italy is former premier Aldo Moro, 49, as party leaders were on the verge of agreeing to a new coalition.

Arbutus Members Double

A total of 35 handicapped persons now attend the Arbutus Crafts Workshop, an increase of nearly 100 per cent from January 1965, board of governors chairman Mrs. Phyllis Sutton announced earlier this week.

The centre, which provides work and recreational facilities for handicapped persons, has also expanded from half day to full day operation during the year.

Displays of work done at Arbutus Crafts in the fall resuled in a sales incrrease, bringing the total income from handicrafts to more than $1,000, Mrs. Sutton told more than 80 persons attending the annual general meeting.

CRAFTS

Weaving, woodworking, basketry, ceramic tile and rug making are among the crafts done by handicapped workers.

Help in driving workers to and from the Craft Centre on Vancouver Street is still needed, said Mrs. Sutton.

Miss Lorrayne Kennedy, president of the workers club, said projects carried out at Arbutus Crafts have given handicapped persons there "an interest in life and a feeling of accomplishment."

She thanked members of the Arbutus Crafts Association for making the workshop possible for the disabled in Victoria.

Ottawa Sets Bonus To Keep Servicemen

5 Years Worth $1,000

OTTAWA (UPI) — The government, in a move to stop the flow of military men to private industry for higher salaries, said today it will pay non-commissioned officers and men hard cash bonuses for staying in the forces.

Associate Defence Minister Leo Cadieux told the Commons the bonuses will amount to $200 for each additional year of re-enlistment.

In other words, if a serviceman signs up for another five years, he will receive $1,000 at the time he signs his name.

Making the announcement during debate on defence department spending estimates, Cadieux said the bonus system will cost an estimated $47 million over the next two years.

The program is retroactive to Feb. 1.

Cadieux said that in the interests of equity, all men and women now in the regular forces will be paid the bonus on a prorated basis according to the length of time left in their re-engagement.

FOUR YEARS

A person who re-enlisted Feb. 1, 1965 and still has four years to serve will receive $800.

The bonus also will be prorated for part years at one-twelfth of $200 for each month of eligible service.

Cadieux said the program is expected to cost $27,600,000 in the present fiscal year and another $19,400,000 in 1966-67.

He said the costs would be "largely offset by savings in training costs" through a reduction in turnover.

"A further important benefit to the forces and to the nation will be the increase in efficiency and effectiveness resulting from the retention in the services of a higher proportion of skilled, experienced men," he added.

Defence Minister Paul Hellyer, under sharp opposition criticism in recent weeks, has admitted government concern over the numbers of skilled military personnel leaving the service for higher wages and better working conditions in civilian industry.

He said it is due to Canada's booming economy which has created a need for skilled workers and has admitted the government must take steps to meet strong competition from private industry.

RUSK CHALLENGES CONGRESS TO VOTE

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk challenged Congress today to vote again, if it has any doubts, on the 1964 resolution under which President Lyndon Johnson has pursued the war in Viet Nam.

Rusk told the Senate foreign relations committee at a televised hearing that he had no doubt about the outcome of any such vote. But he cautioned:

"Before the vote is taken, I hope Congress and the Senate will go into a quiet corner and quietly and deeply think what we have been through, and then decide which vote is a vote for war and which is a vote for peace."

Rusk spoke forcefully about the so-called Gulf of Tonkin resolution, which the House and Senate approved in August, 1964, by a combined vote of 540 to 2. It authorized the president to take all necessary steps to resist further Communist aggression in southeast Asia.

Since then, the American war effort has increased substantially, and some legislators who are concerned over administration policy have suggested the 1964 resolution has become outdated.

HEARING TOLD

U.S. Target: Halt China

WASHINGTON (UPI) — U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk told critical senators today that the fighting in Viet Nam is vital to show that the United States keeps its pledges and to teach the Chinese Reds that "they cannot redraw the boundaries of the world by force."

Testifying before the senate foreign relations committee in defence of adminisration policies, Rusk declared: "What we face in Viet Nam is what we have faced on many occasions before—the need to check the extension of Communist power in order to maintain a reasonable stability in a precarious world."

He also pointedly recalled that when the Southeast Asian Treaty Organization (SEATO) pact was ratified in 1954, all members of the committee who were senators at that time endorsed it.

Rusk declared that the "far-reaching implications of this commitment were well understood" when the senate ratified the SEATO treaty by an 82-1 vote.

The U.S. fight against the Communists in Viet Nam has worldwide implications, Rusk declared, because "we must make clear that the U.S. keeps its word wherever it is pledged."

'SIMPLE POINTS'

At another point, he commented that the Chinese Communists and other Red regimes such as North Viet Nam "must learn that they cannot redraw the boundaries of the world by force."

This was one of five "simple points" which Rusk said "are at the heart of the problem, and at the heart of the U.S. policy in South Viet Nam."

The others he listed in his 6,000-word opening statement were:

- "The elementary fact is that there is an aggression in

FIRE CLAIMS 5 CHILDREN

HAMILTON (CP) — Five children from two families died in a fire that destroyed their two-storey frame house early today. Dead in one family are Stanley Thatcher, 14, and his brother Steven, 9, and in the other family Kevin Paul, 11, his sister, Tracy, 6, and brother, Matthew, 3. All five died in their bedrooms on the second floor of the house.

Tight Cash Probe Demanded

Premier Bennett said Thursday he will investigate through Prime Minister Pearson an eastern Canada controlled "tight money policy" which is hurting the B.C. forest industry.

The premier made the statement after Lands and Forests Minister R. G. Williston revealed in the Legislature that Mr. Bennett had already written to Bank of Canada Governor Louis Rasminsky about the problem.

Premier Bennett did not reveal Mr. Rasminsky's reply, but added: "I am now going further, to take it up with the prime minister.

Mr. Williston earlier said in the Legislature that a heavy demand for wood material suitable for pulp has affected every aspect of the forest industry and the necessary finance for capital, maintenance and inventory has strained credit facilities.

"Eastern-controlled tight money has failed to recognize the changing conditions in the forest industry.

"Pulp mills operate throughout the year and wood inventories must be maintained at much higher levels than for a sawmill economy.

'BLOOD MONEY'

Ship Boycott Threatened

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — AFL-CIO maritime unions told President Johnson today they will boycott ships of all foreign countries trading with the North Vietnamese.

In a telegram to Johnson, union officials said "trade with North Viet Nam puts blood money in the pocket of ship owners and other profiteers of so-called Allied nations."

The telegram added that "we believe the time for pussyfooting is long past," and said:

"We must inform you, therefore, very soon our members will begin to demonstrate their protests on all waterfronts in this country directed against any and all ships of those nations which permit trade with North Viet Nam."

HIT MANY NATIONS

The boycott, spokesmen for the AFL-CIO maritime trades department said, will affect hundreds of foreign vessels from countries including Britain, Norway, Sweden, Denmark, France Italy and Egypt.

The boycott will be imposed by refusing to load any such vessel entering U.S. ports.

The telegram to Johnson was signed by Paul Hall, maritime trades department president; president Thomas W. Gleason of the International Longshoremen's Association, and president Joseph Curran of the National Maritime Union.

GOT NO REPLY

A union spokesman said the telegram to Johnson made public today actually was sent to the White House last Monday and that there had been no reply.

Hall said the boycott will be imposed unless the U.S. government takes up the matter with "so-called allied nations" and stops them from trading with North Viet Nam.

Hall said the unions will call a meeting in Washington within a few weeks and that if the government has done "nothing effective" by then the boycott will begin.

Hall said the current U.S. Senate inquiry into Johnson's policies in Viet Nam is "completely irresponsible" and that the unions' proposed boycott is an effort to act responsibly to back up the U.S. war effort.

Get-Tough Move Against Unions Hints U.K. Vote

LONDON (Reuters) — Renewed speculation that Prime Minister Wilson is preparing for a general election in March swept Britain today.

The view held in political quarters is that he will settle for March 31. Conservative Leader Edward Heath Thursday night warned his supporters to be prepared for an election on that date.

Political observers felt Wilson was likely to name the day next Tuesday after a visit to Moscow.

Several British newspapers today saw another strong election clue in Thursday's announcement by Herbert Bowden, the ruling Labor party leader in the House of Commons, that the government will stage a debate on social services next week.

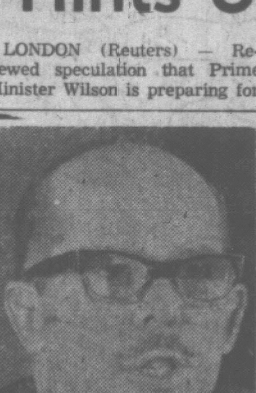
The Daily Mirror described it as the government's "first clear sign that they are thinking of an early election."

Bowden also said a bill aimed at enforcing advance warning of union wage demands will be published next week.

Political observers said this will have the twin effect of demonstrating to international economists that the government is determined to tackle the country's basic economic problems—and taking advantage of a current "get tough with the union" mood among voters.

Other new pointers that the Labor government soon ill seek an election after struggling for 17 months with only a tiny parliamentary voting margin are:

1. Announcement today of details of potential vote-winning legislation by the government aimed at easing conditions for people who own houses but not the land they stand on.
2. The annual defence review, expected to reveal cuts to Britain's current £2,100,000,000 ($6,300,000,000) defence budget, will be published Tuesday.



TERRORISM in Santo Domingo must come to an end and anyone opposing this view will be deported, President Garcia-Godoy declared today. He says the terrorists, both right and left wing, are well known and peace in the capital of the Dominican Republic must be restored. See story Page 3.

Infiltration Rate Hiked By N. Viet

SAIGON (Reuters)—The number of North Vietnamese regular army troops infiltrated into South Viet Nam has grown to 4,500 a month, U.S. military spokesman said today.

Latest intelligence reports place the combined strength of Viet Cong guerrillas and North Vietnamese regulars at 237,000—a total outnumbered more than three to one by South Vietnamese, U.S. and other allied troops.

RESOURCE-RICH B.C. BURSTING AT THE SEAMS

Link to Island May Not Be a Pipedream!

By AB KENT

B.C.'s awakening north can trigger the mainland railway link for which Vancouver Island has yearned 100 years.

If the Federal government won't do it—and so honor a 95-year-old Term of Union agreement with B.C. — then Premier Bennett may be the one to act.

There are those who think the canny premier cherishes a railway bridge via Bute Inlet and Seymour Narrows as a powerful bargaining point in his dealings with Ottawa.

It is felt that any premier who can lend Quebec $100 million; produce a ferry fleet almost out of his hat; quash all opposition to his two-river development policy to build the biggest hydro-electric plant in the Western World, can extend a railway from the interior without much trouble.

When the Peace and Prince George country roar with forest, mineral and allied industries fostered by Peace River hydro power, a new link to the seaports of Vancouver Island may be not only desirable but necessary.

Characteristically, the premier admits nothing.

He was asked what he thought of the idea of a link with the mainland—either rail or highway.

"Not much," was his quick reply.

"Years and years in the future," Mr. Bennett said.

"There are other more pressing needs to be fulfilled in the immediate future. Human betterment, education, social welfare—these are the things we are concerned with now."

But in resource-rich B.C. he also is fathering one of the continent's greatest economic expansions.

Seven new pulp mills are started or planned in the area between Prince George and Bute Inlet alone.

There is a treasurehouse of untapped hydro power from glacier-fed lakes and rivers in the interlocking Coast Range.

Lying almost at the foot of 13,260-foot Mount Waddington and 11,500-foot Mount Munday their reservoir capacity can be considered everlasting.

One estimate puts the potential of the Talyoko Lake system at 1½ million horsepower, virtually at the head of Bute Inlet.

What an inducement to industry — like Alcan's smelter at Kitimat, although the aluminum company built its own hydro facilities using the Nechako River system.

With the added convenience of railway and deepsea shipping access, both within a few hours' rail travel of Victoria and Prince George, the possibilities seem irresistible.

From the head of Bute Inlet the partly surveyed road leads about 175 miles almost directly to Alexandria, a point on Mr. Bennett's own Pacific Great Eastern Railway, on the mainstream of the Fraser, a hop-step from the Canadian National line at Prince George.

From there the tracks lead through mining, ranching and forest land; south to Vancouver and east to the fabulous Peace country straddling B.C.

BRISTOL, Eng.—George Hodges, 42, says he has learned the hard way that a girl's age is no joking matter.

It happened, he said, at a wedding party. He asked Sylvia Hallett her age and she said 25. Hodges suggested she looked nearer 45. That's how it started.

Miss Hallett, who is in fact 19, was charged in court with causing damage of £81 9s ($244) to furniture and windows in an attack on Hodges.

"I just had to express myself," she said.

Miss Hallett admitted breaking the windows but testified that others at the party did some of the throwing.

Hodges, who suffered a bruised nose and torn coat, testified that his remark about her age was meant only as a joke.

The court fined Miss Hallett £5 ($15) plus costs.

SAN FRANCISCO—Superior Court Judge Neubarth received a delayed Valentine Thursday from 45 San Quintin prison convicts who identified themselves as tenants of "Neubarth Alley."

The convicts' card was eight by ten inches and decorated with love birds, horseshoes and words "cops" and "robbers." Its salute to the judge went: "He gave us all security . . . when he banged his gavel down . . . and dumped us in this bide-a-wee . . . in old repressa town."

GOSFIELD, Eng.—Bernard Brooks says he's not a spy, has never seen Russia, with love or without, and will the police please go away.

The trouble is his car number—007. Brooks says wherever he goes police chase him, stop him and want to know why.

"The whole thing is becoming a bit of a nuisance," said Brooks.

"When I got the car there was no special significance attached to 007.

"It's just that 00 is Essex county's registration code and it was a pure coincidence that I got a 7 to go with it."

Brooks added that he has never read a James Bond novel or seen a James Bond movie and his car is an E-type Jaguar. Bond, special agent 007 in the Ian Fleming thrillers, drives an Astin Martin.

MOSCOW—Western wine, western-style women and a Ford car led to the downfall of Yury Sevidov, former star forward for Moscow Spartak soccer team, a Moscow newspaper says.

Sevidov has just gone on trial for drunken driving and manslaughter.

Not long ago he was close to selection for the Soviet national team. He was one of several soccer players banned for life last October.

KITCHENER, Ont.—The 21st item on Kitchener council's petty cash account was a set of billiard balls costing $16.46.

"Could somebody explain who has the table?" said Ald. Robert Wagner.

City treasurer R. V. Eby cleared the air and said plumbing inspectors bought the balls to test ventilators in new construction.

He said the balls are lowered into the ventilating systems to make sure they are clear of obstruction.

Bennett's Protest Studied by Ottawa

OTTAWA (CP)—The federal government is considering a letter from Premier Bennett of British Columbia objecting to recent changes in shipbuilding subsidies, the Commons was told Thursday night.

Transport Minister Pickersgill said Prime Minister Pearson has received Premier Bennett's letter criticizing cancellation of federal subsidies for the construction of provincially-owned vessels.

The change was announced last month, along with a cut in ship-building subsidies to 25 per cent from 35.

The B.C. government owns a fleet of ferries and Premier Bennett has threatened to place future ship orders with Japanese shipyards unless federal subsidies are restored.

Mr. Pickersgill was questioned on the issue by Tom Barnett (NDP — Comox - Alberni) during discussion of transport department estimates.

Chairman Refuses Resignation

A member of North Saanich and Sidney fire protection committee submitted his resignation Thursday night, and had it handed back by Sidney village chairman Arthur Freeman.

The resignation came from W. W. Gardner, Sidney village commissioner, who had been a member of the joint committee since Jan. 1.

It was refused "because it was a public works committee meeting and we had an agenda to follow," said the chairman.

The letter of resignation from the committee was the second in two weeks.

Mr. Gardner proffered his resignation from the committee because "I felt I couldn't do any more on it," he said.

He will meet Mr. Freeman today to discuss the matter further.

Indonesian Red Plans Defence

JAKARTA (Reuters) — The prosecution has demanded the death penalty for top Indonesian Communist leader Njono, on trial here for treason in connection with last October's abortive coup, informed sources said today.

They said the demand was made Thursday night during the prosecution's two - hour closing address to the special military tribunal trying the former chairman of the Communist-dominated Federation of Unions.

Njono was captured shortly after the Oct. 1 coup attempt and was accused by the army of being one of the plot's leaders.

The tribunal gave the defence 32 hours to prepare its case and adjourned the trial until Saturday.

AFTER MEETINGS WITH THANT, GOLDBERG

Martin Hopeful ICC Can Bridge Peace Gap

By BORIS MISKEW

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—External Affairs Minister Martin said today that the International Control Commission may be useful in bridging the gap between the United Nations and the Geneva conference in the attempts to bring peace to Viet Nam.

Martin said following separate meetings Thursday night with UN Secretary-General U Thant and U.S. Ambassador Arthur Goldberg that Canada "would fully support" any role the commission might be called on to play in helping to reach a Vietnamese settlement.

"But I don't want to make a final judgment until I get the views of the other members of the commission," Martin said in an interview prior to his departure to Washington.

The three - nation commission is made up of Canada, Poland and India. It was established in 1954 when the Geneva agreements were signed leading to the departure of French forces from Indochina.

The primary role of the commission was to supervise free elections aimed at the reunification of Viet Nam following the country's partition under the Geneva agreements. However, the elections never took place.

Martin plans to meet with U.S. officials in Washington to discuss such items as President Johnson's economic guidelines to keep U.S. capital at home and to confer Saturday with U.S. State Secretary Dean Rusk on the Vietnamese crisis.

"I'm encouraged with the attitude of Secretary - General U Thant and with my talks with Ambassador Goldberg," the external affairs minister said. "I'm also encouraged with the possibility of a role for the commission in the Vietnamese situation."
